"Fluctuations are incidents consequent upon a Repub hean form of Government, and made up as the Whig party is, not of a horde of cormoratts drawn and held together by the cohesive power of plunder, but of a casual aggregation of men of independent minds." &c., &c.

The "whig party is not a horde of cormorants, drawn and sheld together by the cohesive power of public plunder!" That's the best joke of the season, but unfortunately it is a joke at the expense of truth, and directly in the face of higher whig authority. For instance, the Courier and Enquirer, edited by the God-father of whigery. JAMES WATSON WERB, says, in speaking of the cause of their defeat, that "the measures and principles of the administration not having been developed and brought before the country in the only way known to our instantions, it follows that whatever of change in public sentiment the recent elections may indicate, is solely upon ment the recent elections may the distribution of the patronage of the Government."

The plain English of which is that the whig party being made up "of a horde of cormorants, drawn together by the cohesive power of public plundder," and finding that there were not offices enough for all of them, have and voted against the state of the control of th Administration. Again says this same high authority: "We hazard nothing in saving that in the whole history of parties in the United States, never has there been such a total squandering of patronage without the slightest prospect of reaping fruit from it, as by the party now in power. From Maine to Louisiana, we hear one universal complaint, that the recipients of office, have filled up the subordinate places in their gift, with their sons, nephews, brothers, and family connections of every concovable degree of consanguinity, without the slightest regard to party considerations; and such we believe is more or less the fact, although we speak only from hear-What! a party "not made up of a horde of cormorants"

"squander patronage"! A party not "held together by the cohesive power of public plunder," "fill up the subordinate places in their gift, with their sons, nephews, brothers and family connections!" Preposterous! Our cotemporary should not perpetrate such jokes, or he will fall his pary the way the Frenchman did his wife-with hughter! As INFAMOUS PROPOSITION .- We find the following reslution in one of our exchanges, said to have been introduced in the Constitutional Convention of Kentucky, now in session. Its paternity, we believe, may be attributed to the Hon Garrett Dacis, a well known and prominent whig of that state-but whoever is its author, the proposition is most infamous; and as the Democracy have a majority, we trust they will promply vote it down. If they do not-if there shall be found men in our ranks professing Democracy and sanctioning by their votes. such anti-democratic doctrine as this, we call upon the Democracy of the Union to mark them, and henceforth held no fellowship with them. We, however, have no fears—the resolution itself proposes a flagrant violation of the Constitution of the United States, which gives to Congress the exclusive power of establishing a uniform system of naturalization.

Resolved, That foreigners of the following descriptions and classes, only, shall be outstled to vote for any civil officer, or shall be eligible to any civil office, or place of tust or profit under the Commonwealth of Kentucky: 1.

Those who, at the time of the adoption of this amended Constitution, shall be naturalized Entizens of the United Those who, at the time of the adoption of this amended Constitution, shall be naturalized litzens of the United States. 2. Those who, at the time of the adoption of this amended Constitution, shall have declared their purpose to become citizens of the United States, in conformative to the laws thereof, and who shall have become citizens. 3. Those who, twenty-one years pieviously there to, shall have declared their purpose, according to the existing provisions of the laws of the United States, to become citizens thereof, and who then shall be citizens to the United States. 4. Minors, who shall have migrated with their parents, or parent, to the United States, twenty-one years after their names, ages, and a particular description of their persons, shall have been ontered on the accords of some court of record of the State of Kentucky, or some other of the United States; twenty-one years after their names, ages, and a particular description of their persons, shall have been ontered on the accords of some court of record of the State of Kentucky, or some other of the United States; such foreigners having also, in every case, the like qualifications of residence, and on all other points, that are required of native bern citizens; and a properly authenticated copy of the facts.

What are whose Principles?—We hear a great deal in whig newspapers about "whig principles," and before the days of "Zachara," we know what they were, but specified that party well included that they were had also of "Zachara," we know what they were, but specified that party well included that for the party well included that they were, but specified that party well included the party well and they be party that the party well included the party well included the party well and the party well included the party well and the party well and the party well a the days of "Zachara," we knew what they were, but since that party sold itself to the hero of a "God abhored war," it has become somewhat doubtful in our mind what "whig principles" really are. The recent course of that party in Michigan, in nominating Mr. Littlejohn, for Governor, is not calculated to enlighten us much .-That gentleman, not only like Z. Taylor, never voted a whig ticket, but has been a constant and untiring public opponent of whig men and measures; the hates Gen. in insanity;" on account of his radical denfocracy, he whig press of Michigan; now, standing on the Buffalo platform, he boars the whig standard, and his name floats at the head of the whig columns. What a degradation of the whig columns with a degradation of the whige columns. at the head of the whig columns. What a degradation for both! Surely whig principles are nothing but a love for the "spoils," which a distinguished whig says "bo-

Her disease besiled the skill of the best medical aid I could procure—her physicians promounced her disease "Consumption in the last stage," and said that ber recovery was past all human hopes. As a last resort with very little hope, I produced Wistar's Balsain of Wild Cherry. After using a few bottles, I found to my agre table surprise, that her health was improving rapidly. She is now so far restored as to be able to altern to the regular household duties without suffering any inconvenience. Norwalk, March 1st, 1849.

John D. Park:—Dear Fir—Having been afflicted with the Liver Complaint for about eight years, while living in Elyria, in this State, I had become so low and enaciated, that I was obliged to travel and try what benefit it would have on me. I started, and was gone from home about four mouths, but experienced no relief whatever, and was finally advised by some of my friends to try Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, which I commenced using.—To my own surprise, and after using two bottles, I was completely restored to health and continued up to this day without any symptoms of the old complaint, or any sickness of any other kind. I send you this that you may make use it as you deem fit, knowing as I do, that the Balsam index saved my life when all other remedies had failed. Yours, &c.,

DOHN F, WOOSTER,

Dilln F. WOOSTER.
