"No-I beg your pardon-my business is now with you, and he began to explain.

"I never trust myself with business; here comes the gentleman-my former guardian and man of business." They were introduced and walked apart. Williamson related the transaction.

"It is some of Lillia's operations," said Mr. Fischer, "I only know that she asked mo for five hundred dollars this morning, and I gave it to her."

"How is this, Miss, you gave this gentleman five hundred dollars for fifty this morning, and his business here is to correct the error, a very honest and honorable transaction."

"Well, that is a piece of carelessness that I am ne very proud of. I have no explanation to give. Here is his bill, made out to Mrs. Fischer; will you be so good as to liquidate it? It seems the gentleman is determined to have me married, whether I will or no. If he has no further business, I will bid him a good morning."

"Oh, I beg your pardon, my dear young lady-not without your full consent, which I trust to gain; and may I be permitted to ask the friend I montioned as possess ing the means, whether he would like to assist a young lady, out of her unhappy state of single blessedness?" "Unhoppy !- that is rather cool, and gratuitous-but I don't know as I can prevent your asking." "Well, but will you tolerate me in reporting progress immediately after I learn the facts?" "Oh, not immediately-you frighten mo-they would not spoil for a month."	-

"Say a day?"

"No." "A week?"

"Well, a week be it." So Williamson took leave, and Lillia called a council of her mother, coasin, and Mr. F .--- and made on exposure of her whole heart, being quite sure of, a favorable reault.

That day week, Williamson dined at Mr. F.'s, and spont the evening, when a general partnership was agreed upon, under the firm of Williamson and Company-she being the company and sleeping pariner, as the mercantile phrase has it, and he the active one. It became a most respectable and thriving business house, if an accomplished, dutiful, amiable and wealthy wife, and a half a dozon beautiful young cherabs, constitute that combination-the result showing the truth of the proposition, that the surest and most profitable investment in the trade of life, by a young man, is Honesty, Patience, and Civility.

The Good Wife.

There can be no doubt but that a good wife is a great blessing, and, it is also true, that all wives desire to be good. Many, however, think they can be good without exertion. This is an error. Mental exertion, and sometimes sacrifico of feeling is required, But see the reward. The influence of a good wife is immense. The power of a wife for good or evil is irresistible. Home must be the seat of happiness, or it must be forever unknown. A good wife is to a man wisdom and courage, and strength and endurance. A bad one is confusion, weakness, discomfiture and despair. No condition is hopeless when the wife possesses firmness, decision and economy. There is no outward prosperity which can counteract indolence, extravagance and folly of home .--No spirit can long endure bad domestic influence. Man is strong, but his heart is not adamant. He delights in enterprise and action; but to sustain him needs. a trauquil mind, and a whole heart. He expends his whole moral force in the conflicts of the world. To recover his equanimity and composure, home must be to him a place of repose, of peace, of cheerfulness, of comfort, and his soul ronews its strength, and again goes forth with fresh vigor to encounter the labor and troubles of the world .--But if at home he finds no rest, and is there mot with bad tomper, sullenness, or gloom, or is assailed by discontent, or complaint, or reproaches, the heart breaks, the spirits are crushed, hope vanishes, and the man sinks into de-

A TWorcester, Massachusetts, in the year 1823, a case of 'Ele-ing under the usual syntoms of that horid disease, which contin-ued growing worse and worse for TAN YEARS, at this period the patient was shondoned by her physician's care, the patient lakor-ued growing worse and worse for TAN YEARS, at this period the patient was shondoned by her physician's all sajing that her case was incurable, and thatshe could not survive many weeks, grows starting from their sockets, and her whole person rescabiling wome beast, too horid for description. All the symptoms of this dreadful disease appeared in the worst form. The female had been possessed of much personal beauty; and great accomplish-ments, but there were now such in the TANges of a disease warsus TAN DEATH. In 1847 a gentleman from Chicago, lilinois, visited her frinds, and undertook to alleviate her suffrings, being the sentiment of hersiti and friends. Baying much faith in "Shoaks's OKEMENT,' he had supplied himself with it to present to hay friends. The first host of the Oinment evident yhelped her case, and in the uwof two more boxes decided holes were cutorationed. In short this hitherto incurable disease was mascread, and this case in which humdreds of dollars had heren squandered on physi-cians, was cured emitted at cost of fifteen dollars, and the young and nost beautiful monument of the unparalelled virtue of the yound's medicine. Last August I received a severe brinse on one leg, just below the kneet no attention was paid to it however for some time after, nor until I had taken cold in the sore, it now became very much swollen, and exceedingly painful, so much so that I could get no sleep for several days. A physician was called, and my leg lancel at two dufferent periods, discharging very freely each time. I laid under Medical treat ment about three months, but without the least permanent benefit. I then obtained a box of your Ointment, this som e-moved att pain and soreness, and in two weeks from the time I begin wang the Ointment my begin as entirely welt.
