

A. F. DURLIN & CO., PROPRIETORS. VOLUME 21. SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 10, 1851. NUMBER 52.

Erie Weekly Observer.

A. F. DURLIN & CO. PROPRIETORS. S. F. SLOAN, Editor.

TERMS OF THE PAPER. Office, CORNER STATE ST. AND PUBLIC SQUARE, ERIE.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY. J. W. DOUGLASS. Office over Williams & Wright's Banking Establishment.

DR. C. BRANDES. Office on the corner of Third and Second Streets.

Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office in Wright's Block on State Street.

W. F. LITTLE & Co. Wholesale and Retail Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, Wines, Liquors, &c.

J. W. WEINER. Attorney at Law. Office on State Street.

J. H. WILKINS. Dealer in Groceries, Provisions, Wines, Liquors, &c.

J. W. LITTLE & Co. Wholesale and Retail Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, Wines, Liquors, &c.

J. W. LITTLE & Co. Wholesale and Retail Dealers in Groceries, Provisions, Wines, Liquors, &c.

Select Poetry.

From the National Era. STRIFE AND PEACE. BY CHARLES DICKENS.

SCENE THE SECOND. In 1812, my friend Mrs. C. made one of her marches through both with an army of emigrants.

Choice Miscellany.

TWO SCENES IN THE LIFE OF JOHN BODGER. BY CHARLES DICKENS.

SCENE THE FIRST.—CONCLUDED. By the road-wagon which the Bodgers joined when they reached the highway, it was three days' journey to Plymouth.

SCENE THE SECOND.—CONCLUDED. With many grunts and groans he climbed the ship's side; not being as great a man as at Plymouth.

SCENE THE THIRD.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

SCENE THE FOURTH.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

to have died away. He left them, though the most part of the voyage, to shift for themselves—sitting forward, sullenly smoking, looking into vacancy, and wearing the sailors with asking.

SCENE THE SECOND. In 1812, my friend Mrs. C. made one of her marches through both with an army of emigrants. The consisted of parents with long families, rough country-bred single girls with here and there a white-headed emigrant young lady—

SCENE THE THIRD.—CONCLUDED. With many grunts and groans he climbed the ship's side; not being as great a man as at Plymouth. The mere fact of having to climb up a rope ladder from a rocking boat on a breezy, freezing day, was not calculated to give comfort or confident feelings to an elderly gentleman.

SCENE THE FOURTH.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

SCENE THE FIFTH.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

to have died away. He left them, though the most part of the voyage, to shift for themselves—sitting forward, sullenly smoking, looking into vacancy, and wearing the sailors with asking.

SCENE THE SECOND. In 1812, my friend Mrs. C. made one of her marches through both with an army of emigrants. The consisted of parents with long families, rough country-bred single girls with here and there a white-headed emigrant young lady—

SCENE THE THIRD.—CONCLUDED. With many grunts and groans he climbed the ship's side; not being as great a man as at Plymouth. The mere fact of having to climb up a rope ladder from a rocking boat on a breezy, freezing day, was not calculated to give comfort or confident feelings to an elderly gentleman.

SCENE THE FOURTH.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

SCENE THE FIFTH.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

to have died away. He left them, though the most part of the voyage, to shift for themselves—sitting forward, sullenly smoking, looking into vacancy, and wearing the sailors with asking.

SCENE THE SECOND. In 1812, my friend Mrs. C. made one of her marches through both with an army of emigrants. The consisted of parents with long families, rough country-bred single girls with here and there a white-headed emigrant young lady—

SCENE THE THIRD.—CONCLUDED. With many grunts and groans he climbed the ship's side; not being as great a man as at Plymouth. The mere fact of having to climb up a rope ladder from a rocking boat on a breezy, freezing day, was not calculated to give comfort or confident feelings to an elderly gentleman.

SCENE THE FOURTH.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

SCENE THE FIFTH.—CONCLUDED. The Irish people were characterizedly employed. The Irish "coaching," or going for, for having little or no baggage to look after, they had little care.

A Requisition—"Seeing the Elephant." We find the following in the Milwaukee Free Democrat. Some of the parties in the act are not known in this vicinity.

The True Lady. The editor of the Portland Electric, in the course of an essay upon the ladies, tells the following interesting and instructive tale, which we commend to our accomplished lady readers.

Colonel Crockett in a Quandary. "I never but once," said the Colonel, "was in what I call a real genuine quandary. It was during my electioneering for Congress at which time I strolled about the woods so particular prodded by politics, that I found my rifle. Any man may forget his rifle, yet I treat but it is not every man can make amends for his forgetfulness by his faculties. I guess I chanced upon the first thing that took my fancy was the rifle. I was strolling along, considerable deep in the woods, and I saw some young boys, which proceeded from a hollow tree; but I soon found that I could not reach the cubs with my hands; so I went, feet foremost, to see if I could draw them out with my toes. I hung on, at the top of the hole, striving with all my might to reach them; until at last my hand slipped and down I went more than twenty feet to the bottom of that black hole, and there I found myself almost hip-deep in a family of fine young bears.

A Hint to the Ladies. The Philadelphia Pennsylvania publishes, from the pen of a lady, the following remarks on dress: Speaking of beauty, I wish the people would dress pleasantly, benevolently. I saw a lovely girl to day looking unlovely and unlovable, because her muslin dress was stiffly starched to keep clean longer.

A Hint to the Ladies. The Philadelphia Pennsylvania publishes, from the pen of a lady, the following remarks on dress: Speaking of beauty, I wish the people would dress pleasantly, benevolently. I saw a lovely girl to day looking unlovely and unlovable, because her muslin dress was stiffly starched to keep clean longer.