Grafting Old Fruit Trees.

The grafting and renovation of old orchards is an important and seasonable subject, so we give room to the following sensible remarks by a correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph:

Very few operators appear to be aware of the fact, that in all trees, the superior or topmast branches, have a decided monopoly over the rest, in vigor and absorption of sap. This fact, so obvious on inspection, suggests the necessity of commencing at the top, in grafting, and continuing the work downward from year to year, instead of beginning at the lower or intermediate limbs, and pringressing upward, as is the practice with most.

the top, in grafting, and continuing the work downward from year to year, instead of hagmining at the lower or intermediate limbs, and progressing upward, as is the practice with most.

It is a very injurious method to deprive the trees of its entire foliage at once, thus leaving the trunk in a manner sapless and liable to disease or death. It is also inadvisable to insert scions in limbs over an inch in diameter, as they rarely do so well in larger sized branches, in consequence of the supply of sap being less; small, healthy limbs on an old diseased tree, assuming somewhat the nature of parasites, absorb or monopolize some of the fructifying fluid, leaving the diseased and sickly members of large size, deficient in a great measure, of vitalizing flaid.

It is always a good plan, before commencing the esperation of grafting on an old tree to attempt its regeneration, and to increase, as far as practicable, the copiousness and energy of its circulation. This is practicable by several methods. Even where the centre or "heart-wood" has become decayed or rotten, and scarcely more than a shell remains, shellow digging about the roots—care being taken not to sever or seriously lacerate any of the superficial laterals—and the application of a small quantity of well compounded composit, will generally rejuvenate a tree, however great may be its age.

Where trees stowed in places which facilitates the turning of road-wash about the roots, they may speedily be regenerated; this species of irrigation acting almost immediately upon the circulation, as the water is copiously imbued with salts and saline matters, which produce a most vigorous and salutary effect.

A friend of mine whose orchard was situated or the side of a gentle slope, with an extensively traveled thoroughfare upon the upper side, finding that his trees were failing in health and productiveness, opened a number of small drains from the latter in such a manner as to secure the benefits of irrigation to each individual tree. The effect was wonderful; every tree took an almost instantaneous start, threw out a mass of young and vigorous shoots, and produced more fruit in a single season than for years before. On the subject of gratting old trees, a late "Respecting the size and age of trees for grafting it seems not to be known that vigor and not years, is the turning point of practicability. No one has lived long enough in our country to see a well conditioned apple tree (we mean one in a moist, fertile soil, with a little road-wash, and not having too many of its top roots torn off with the plough; die with age; and we could point to one, some twelve feet in diameter, and an hundred years old, a perfect model of grafting; and when done an orchard in it. self; and what is more, productive in three years."

Some cut down their old trees, supposing it to be an impossibility to bring them again to a bearing state. If they would expend the same amount of time and labor in trimming, digging about the roots, and ma-nuring, that they expend in cutting down their trees and clearing away the rubbish, they would find themselves the possessors of valuable orchards which, in a few years would net them more than three times the amount of income realized from the circumjacent soil. Apples, in this country, with the present extended foreign demand for American fruit, must always command a remunerating price, to say the Plaster for Strawberries.

A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker, writing to that paper, says:—The recommendation of your correspondent M. G. W., to apply plaster to strawberry vines, as being beneficial, is so directly contrary to my own experience in that matter, that I thought it might be of some use to some one of your thousands of readers.

About forty years ago there was an abundance of fine strawberries in almost every uncultivated meadow in the vicinity where I then fixed, but the boys trod the grass down so much in picking the strawberries, that the farmers said they would sow plaster on the vices and destroy them. They did so, (using Nova Scotja plaster,) and it had the anticipated effect. "We have uniformity refrained from recommending to the public any of the various Patent Medicines of the day, unless thoroughly convinced of their value. Among those we consider worthy of notice is the German Butters, nu vented by Dr. Hasphand, and prepared by Dr. Jackson, in Philadelphia. One instance in particular, in which the superior virtues of this inadicine have been tested, has fallen under our observation. During the last runnier, a son of Mr. Abraham Crabill, of this county, was very seriously affects with Liver Complaint, and after trying in various remedics, he purchased a bottle of the Bitters, and after using it, was so much relieved of his distressing manady, that he procured another looke, and is restored entirely to health."

"We again eat attention to the removal of the German Medicine Blore, the principle depot for the sale of Dr. Hoofind's German Butters, from 32 Race to 120 Arch street, but door below Sixth. Owing title increased demand for this inclicine, and for the accommodation of his numerous patients, Dr. Jackson has been competled to occupy a large store. We wish him success in his new quarters: he is deserving of it. The Butters Mixturf is without doubt the greatest medicine extant for diseased of the Liver and Bowels. A stubborn case of Chronic Diarrhiva has come under our notice, wherein the patient had exhausted the Materia Medicas of the different schools of medicine with no apparent benefit. He was induced to use these bitters, and a few bottles of them hade entirely cured him. Many such cased we could refer to. We hope our readers will recollect this great restorative, should they he so unfortunite as to require its use. Br. Jackson possesses the original unpublished receipt of Br. "The Hootlasti's German Bitters,—Here is a preparation which the leading presses in the Union appear to be unanimous in recommending, and the reason is obtoins. It is made after a prescription furnished by one of the most celebrated physicians of modern times, the late Dr. Christopher Wilhelm Hootland: Prosessy to the University of Jean, Frivate Physician to the King of Prilyan, and one of the greatest medical writers bermany has every rotuced. He was emphasically the genery of banker, and therefore a medicane of which he was the inventor and endorser may be confidently relied on. The "Philadelphia flaturday Gazette," the best family newspaper published in the United states, the editor says of DR. 4000FLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

"It is seldom that we recommend what are testined Patent Medicines to the confidence and patronage or our redders; and, therefore, when we recommend Dr. Hoofand's German Bitters, we wish to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the nostrous of the day, that are noised shoutfor a brief period and then forgotten after they have done their guilty face of mischief, but of a medicine long established, universally pixed, and which has met the hearty approval of the Faculty steel."

Evidence upon evidench has been received (like the foregoing) from all sections of the Union, the last three years, and the strangest testimony in its facor, is, that there is more of it used in the practice of the regular Physicians of Philadelphia than all other nostrume combined, a fact that can castly be established, and fully proving that a scientific preparation will need with their quiet approval when prescued even in this form.

Cast Ist.—A Mrs. More, who was given up to die by three celthrated physicians, as leing in the last stage of Consumption, by the use of the Magnetic Ointment has regained her health, and is low as well as ever, and has been for the last six months.

Cast Md.—Some time an July last, I was called to see Mrs. Aften it ing some 22 miles dietain. Her case had been given up by several physicians. She was first after ked by malignant disconterey, followed by severe inflammation of the bowels. I arrived about 6 o'clock in the evening, and for of her in a very dangerous situation, apparently on the bank of the grave. I commenced applying the ointment freely to the stomech and bowels, attended with some simple trendes administered internally, and by morting I countinue the use of the Ointment. She fully recovered in a few days, and is now empring good health.

Case 3d — A Mr. Winters had lost nearly all his hoir, had been build for many years; by the use of three builtes of the Magnetic Oistment, had his heir entirely restored, and now her as lequilified a head of hair as any man could wish.
