Agein Mrs. Hastings ossayed to speak, and again Mr Dorrance prevented her. He continued.

"That night I sent her to her father's home. In the morning there came a letter to me from her. It softenjed my heart to forgiveness; for I was fool enough to believe her protestations of innocence. I wrote an answer saying that I would come to her immediately. I wenyto her desk for an envelop-there I found a lock of her lovers hair; and in her own writing an acknowledgment as such. I know not what enstained me with such damning evidence before my'eyes! Woman, can such things be forgiven? Answer me: in the Heaven which you believe in, is there a place for such treacherous souls?"

Mrs. Hastings had remained standing. She trembled from head to foot at Mr. Dorrance's violance.

' "It was not so, it was not so!" she answered energetically; "Oh! could you have believed all this of one who never had a feeling of love for living man but you? I did not know that earth had such fiends as that wretch Graham has proven himself to be. Mr. Dorrance know your wife; if I convince you that she is still worthy of your love as far as her truthfulness to you is concerned, will you forgive her errors, and recieve her back to your love as she yearns to be received?"

"I will, so help me Godl" Mrs. Hastings resumed her sest, and, suppressed her emotions as much as she was able, she proceeded to sive a full history of everything that had occurred. When she came to the lock of hair, explaining the motives which had induced his wife, still speaking of her as a third person, to enclose it and lay it in her drawer, he drew pearer to her and seizing her hand, pressed it fierce ly between his own. His eyes glowed with the intensity of his feelings; and when all was explained, he caught her wildly to his breast, and atraining her tightly to it sobbed like a child. He seemed delirious with joy.

"Margaret! Margaret!" he cried, "you must never leave me one moment again. My own good, pure wife; may God bless you as you have blessed me this hour, and may He forgive me for the injustice I have done

She threw her arms around him-she laid her poor aching head upon his broad breast-she also begged forgiveness.

Oh! that was a holy and a happy hour. When the first violence of their emotions subsided,

Mrs Dorrauce questioned at what part of the history she had betrayed herself, "My poor Margaret, did you think you had deceived my watchful eyes? I knew you, durling, from the moment you stood trembling at the door, when you brought me the note of recommendation from Miss Graham .-I knew you, and hundreds of times since has my love been upon the point of betraying itself. Oh, my precious wife. I thank God for the misfortunes that have revealed our hearts to each other."

And great reason had they both to thank Him; for very seldom is it, when pride and jealousy and empicion greep in to seperate two hearts, any after reconciliation can entirely root out the weeds which have sprung up in rank luxuriance under their baneful influence. More frequently the breach widens with years; each grows to think the other the aggressor, and that complete isolation takes place which it is so terrible to contemplate. In society, such instances are constantly occurring:

and if in any one case the difficulty could be traced to its foundation, I doubt not the pause would be found to be as trival as was the first event in the story I have narrated.2 Women do not sufficiently comprehend the responsi bilities which they take upon themselves in the married life. Instead of looking upon marriage as "a career of devotion," as "an exercise of virtues often difficult." the seem to expect the homage of the lover to be continued; in "sentimental reproaches" until there is danger of their happiness suffering shipwreck; for men soon weary of the "little scenes" in which women so often squander their eloquence.

Again, there are instances where the wife has faithfally performed her duties, and yet she sees a change gradually taking prace in Lee in band. The rose-colored tint with which she had invested the future, gives place to a cold and leaden hue, as the love of the chosen one seems to diminish, absorbed by the world and its pleasures. But even then there is hope. Let her watch occasions for making sacrifices; let her show that her is hasband's happiness is still her predominant study; above all, let her avoid all reproaches: and no one heat in which the flame of love has ever burned will long remain proof to unch devotion

From this long digression we will go back to Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance. 4 Aunt Edgerton was horrorstruck upon her return, i finding the timid and retiring Mrs. Hastings seemingly entirely at home in her nephew's arms. Howard Dorrance attempted no explanations in words warld never knew how much they rejoiced in their brief separation, as an event permitted by their all-wice Father to bring them nearer than ever to each other, and to Him.

Another Home Sertificate—Great cure of Experies. THOMAS.

Dr. H. Swayne—Dear Str.—Reing for a length of time afflicted with a very violent cough, with pain in the side and breast, soreness of lings, shortness of breath, loss of appente, inglit sweats, &c., I made artial of various remedies which were recommended highly in the papers, but cradually grew worse. The violence of my cough was such that the blood rushed profusely from my nostriks when the paroxysins came upon; indeed, my whole system seemed prostrated, and the bour of my departure seemed near at hand. At this time you recommended the use of your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which mundiately began to woothe, comfegs, and allay the violence of my cough, relieved the pain in my fide, strengthened and healed my lungs, &c. 4 continued the use of it, but now, thanks to God; and to the effect of your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, I am cured, and able to pursue my daily lalor. I think it an invaluable medicine in coughs, colds, and diseases of the lungs, and one that should be known to all afflicted. EDYSTOND MUTUAL Moulth Insurance Co. of Harrisburg. Pa THIS Company continues to insure lives on more favorable terms than any other company in the State: and as an expense of the utility of such institutions, and the promptness of this company in paying losses when they occur, they respectfully refer to the following letter of Mrs. Schoyer: Practical Examples, Showing the Advantages to be Derived from Life Insurance.

chant at l'utsburg, effected an insurance of $5,000 on his life with the Keystone Mutual Life Insurance Company of Harrisburg, on on the 17th of July 1850. He received his policy, and paid his premium on the 20th of July, 1850, and died in a fit of Nightunare on the 22d day of July, but two days after he received his policy, life had enjoyed un interrupted good health all his life up to the very moment of his death. His widow, Penclope. Schoyer, received from this company within 30 days after his death, $5,000 as will be seen by her letter of acknowledgement below. ted an insurance of #5,0 ceived from this company within 20 days after his death, $3,500 as will be seen by her letter of acknowledgement below.

To the President and Directors of the Reystone Mutual Life Insurance Company, at Harrisburg, Pa.
GENTLEREN:—Thel prompt manner in which your efficient agent, Mr. Henry Sproul, attended to the claim of myself and family for mutance upon the life of my lase lamented husband, $8. Schoever, and the promptness with which the Company paid that claim of $3,000, impels me to take this method of returning to the company my thanks, believing as I do that your company possesses advantages for life insurance over most of the companies now in the country, and that its husiness is conducted by judicious and caretin managers and agents I would cheerfully recommend yout Company to all who may wish to avail themselves of its benevolent operations. Howard Durrance attempted no explanations in words, but he pelled off the close lawn cap, and the flaxon perrugue, and as Margaret's dark hair fell around her, Mrs. Edgerten could not fail to recognise some traces of the beautiful erayon in the library, which she had so often studied with interest since she had become an inmate of that dwelling.

Impulsively she volded Margaret to her heart, for the suffered had won a place there, to the extinction of all prejodices, by her gentle, patient ways and unwearied devotion to her sick child.

Harry also knew his mamma now, and no longer refused to come to her arms.

There was a happy party at Woodlawn that summer.

At Margaret's eignest pleading, joined to Mrs. Edgertou's kind persuasions, Helen Graham accompanied them, participating in all their pleasures with her unselfash heart. Her brother had gone to Europe.

The True Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice. repared from the RENNET, or the fourth Stomach of the oz. atter directions of Baron Lienta, the great flaviological them ist, by J. S. Hoconton, M. D., No. 11, North Eighth Succe, Philadelphia, Pa. his is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestics. Desperais, Janutics, Lissor Compilaint, Constipation, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own agen, the Gastre. Jusce. Trilaira teaspoonfull of this fluid, infused in water, will grest or dissolve Fine Pounds of Road Beef in about lad hours, but of the stomach.

DIGESTION.

gest or dissolve Fisse Founds of Rosat Beef in about the kelva, put of the stomach.

DIGESTION is chiefly performed in the stomach by the aid o a fluid which freely exudes from the inner cust of that organ when in a state of health, called the Gastre Junce. This fluid is the Great Solvent of the Food, the Partyfrag. Preserver, and there will be no digestion—no conversion of food into blood, and no nutrition of the body; but rather a four, torput, phinful, and destructive condition of the whole digestive apparature. A weak half dead, or injured stomach produces no good Gastre, Junce, and hence the disease, distress and debility which ensue.

FEPSIN AND RENNET

Persus is the chief element, or great digesting principle of the Gastric Junce. It is found in great abundance in the solid part of the human siometh after death, and sometimes causes the some act to digest itself, or cat sizelf up. It is also found in the some act of animals, as the O.g. gaif &c. It is the material used by farmer in making cheese, called Remert, the effect of which has been the special wonder of the dairy. The curding of unit is the first process of digestion. Remett powers amounting powers. The stomach of a calf will curdle nearly one thomased it incess to own weight of milk. Baron Liebly raises that, "the gest meat and other food." Diseased stomach- produce no good Gastric Junce. Rennet or Pepsin. To show that this want may be prefectly supplied, we quote the following artificial digestion of them in no wise different from the natural digestive process."

Dr. Simon's great work, the "Chemistry of Man," (Lea & Blanchard, Phyla, 1846, pp. 221-2) raps: "the discovery of Philish Simon's great work in the chemical bistory of Direction From recent experiments we know that food is dissolved as rapidly in an artificial directive fluid, prepared from it epsin, as it ir in the natural Gavicie Juice steeld."

Professor Busicissis, of Philadelphia, in his great woronk hymnophysiology, devotes more than fifty pages to the examination of this subject. His experiments with Dr. Beaumdut on the retrief luice, obtained from the lung human sommet had from an imula are well known. "In all cases," he says, "digestion occurred as perfectly in the artificial as in the matural digestions."
