THE ONLY SON. A VILLAGE TALE.

One fine summer morning, as I was riding with a friend through a handsome village in the central part of New York, and admiring the beauties he pointed out to me with all the pride of the "oldest inhabitant," my attention was attracted by an aged couple, dressed in deep mourning...

THE VIVANDIERE.

Correspondence of the St. Louis Republican.

A few days ago appeared in the list of deaths in a morning paper the name of Mademoiselle Constance. Few took notice of this simple announcement, and fewer still knew the incidents of the beautiful life that had just closed...

THE VIVANDIERE.

Charity, or to leave it the wife of the wounded soldier. She put her glass to her lips, but bending towards the weight of her emotions...
