Alaska Letter. (Extracts from a letter from Mr. John C. Callbreath, of Wrangell, Alaska, dated from Victoria, B. C., January 16th, 1898.)

"Things will be red hot up there (on the Stickeen) the coming season. There will be such a tremendous rush for the great Yukon basin that all the routes will be full, overflowing, bursting.

The people simply cannot get in with a year's supply, which they are all taking. Any number could go in light, but they wisely thought not to trust to chance. It has been just a scratch that starvation did not reign at the Klondike this winter. As it is, they will not be surfeited with food, but there will be no starvation. There will be sixteen to twenty fine big steamers on the Stickeen the coming summer, and from appearances there will be lots of work for them.

Of course we look for a big trade. Will not do much in the packing line, but will attend to the business of the store and the hotel that we will put up. Everything next the river will be utilized as a warehouse room. There is some talk of Glenora being the starting point for the trains, but I fancy it will go to Telegraph Creek. There is a strong probability of a narrow-gauge railway to Teslin Lake, but it costs millions to build railroads in that country. We are having a pretty good business at Telegraph this winter and it will increase immensely in the spring, but will be a good deal cut up. Several large companies are going to sleigh goods up the Stickeen and over the ice to foot of Teslin Lake, so as to get the first open water to Dawson. I purpose tailing on behind after they break the road with a few teams. There is a big boom on at Wrangell. Three new wharves are going ahead with warehouses. Two or three big hotels and restaurants. The place is surveyed and laid out in town lots, all of which are claimed and being built on. Machinery for a saw mill and steamer was taken up to Teslin Lake on our steamer last fall, and is being sleighed into Teslin Lake this winter. The people on the Sound at Seattle and other places are getting the lion's share of the outfitting, and it grinds Victorians sadly to see the plums mostly falling into our laps, but so it goes. I shall strive this year, as I will not long be allowed to hold on to my long earned possessions. Corporations will squeeze me out, and every one else that comes in their road. They are doing it all over where their power can be brought to bear. As yet they cannot crush out a claim owner of placer mines, but it will not long before laws will be fixed so they can bring their power to bear on them.

"The great reindeer scheme of Uncle Sam to relieve the needy on the Yukon, though ridiculous in its workings, was humane in its conception. Neither reindeer nor mules can march 700 miles over bad roads and carry more than enough feed to take them through, without carrying anything for the needy. The Canadians make a great deal of fun over the effort, all of which is actuated by jealousy."
