EDITORIAL COMMENT.

An increase of 50 per cent. in a single year is a very gratifying feature of the showing made in feature of the showing made in presenting the summarization of President McKinley's first year. February bank clearings for 1898 were 50 per cent. higher than those of February, 1897, and the largest ever recorded in that month.

Treasury receipts, which averaged over a million dollars a day in February, are likely to be considerably heavier than that in March. The first ten days in March produced $11,000,000 of revenue and it is probable that the month will McKinley law.

The releases of farm of silver. mortgages in that State for 1897 amounted to nearly $15,000,000 against a little over $11,000,000 in 1896, while the total reduction in mortgaged indebtedness was more than has been known for many years in the history of that State.

Latest reports from the South put the estimate of the cotton crop now being marketed at about 11,-000,000 bales, which is by far the largest ever produced, and four times as large as that of the year 1872. May it not be over production rather than the fall of silver which has caused the decline in the prices of cotton since the amount now produced is four times as much s in the year preceding the 'crime' and since the cost of production has also been greatly re-

Reports from the great corn producing States of the West show that the free silver proposition is the cause of silver which made inroads among the farmers in 1896 will fail to receive anything like the support among that class of voters in the coming campaigns

The Secretary of the Mexican Treasury Department, Mr. Limantour, in his recent report, states frankly that one of the principal factors restricting foreign trade and price of silver are more injurious than any actual depreciation. Mr. Bryan seems to have overlooked this somewhat important fact in his lengthy and elaborate investi-gation of Mexican finance—from the rear of an observation car.

After taking ample time for consideration, Mr. John Wanamaker has finally concluded to accept the call of the business men of Philadelphia and contest the nomination for Governor. His act makes the not have expressed himself any clearer than by openly naming Hon. C. W. Stone. The addition of the Wanamaker forces to his great following is the Northwest and other section of the State will make Mr. Stone's nomination an thing has the party been recreant assured fact. - Oil City Derrick.

A REPUBLICAN YEAR.

The Press of the Country on President McKin-ley's First Twelve Months in the White House.

The administration is a success and is receiving the support of the American people.—Albany Journal.

As the year ends, we may say, "Well done, good and faithful servant. You have restored the prosperities and cherished the honor of the rebublic. Go on in way you have begun, and the people will be with you to the end.' -Rochester Post-Express

The first year has been finished of President McKinley's adminis-tration, and the condition in which it finds the country affords a happy contrast to that which preceded it.

—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

At the end of one year's service, President McKinley can look back upon a phenomenal revival of business, a restoration of domestic content, and, barring the possibilities of war, the brightest prospect upon which this country has looked in years.—Kansas City Journal.

William McKinley, as President, has not only fulfilled the highest expectations of his party and of those allies who joined with the Republican party in the crisis of 1896, but he has risen above those expectations, and in these hours of stress and danger he stands revealed to all the people as a states-man and patriot in whose wisdom, tact, and judgement a nation reposes its entire confidence.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

He and his associates are confronted with international problems of the gravest character. That he will act wisely and for the best it is probable that the month will show receipts higher than that of any March since the repeal of the faith in the President of the United Be assured that he can be trusted to act with prudence and discretion, and at the same time to Nebraska is showing Mr. Bryan the practicability of paying off uphold the honor of this, the great-mortgages without the free coinage est nation of the world.—Balimore American.

> President McKinley's severest labors are, doubtless, before him. In foreign and domestic affairs this first year has been but a prepara-tion for the consummation of policies of the most pregnant import. But he approaches them from a plane of popular content and confidence immeasurably elevated above that universally anxious seat of a year ago. The atmosphere of achievement has been created. From the day of the calling of the extra session which restored to industrial America its own, his has been the most potent personal influence in the beneficial alteration of things which to-day is acknowledged by all.—N. Y. Press.

William McKinley has completed his first year of office. He has executed his trust as the nation's chief executive with conspicuous ability, and has the moral support of the great mass of patthat the free silver proposition is losing ground very rapidly among the farmers. This is true wherever good crops last year brought prosperity to the farmers, as is the case almost everywhere, and there seems good reason to believe that the cause of silver which made increase in prosperity in all the increase in prosperity in all the great lines of human activity.—Toledo Blade.

The signal success of the first year's administration is the enact. ment of a revenue law which fulfills the promises of its friends, and while supplying revenue for the government discriminates in favor of American enterprise and labor. The promptness and efficacy in this consequently the receipts from import duties is the fall and fluctuation party's pledges will be redeemed tion in the price of silver. Trade, he says, could be adopted to a permanent high rate of exchange, but the constant fluctuations in the days piedges will be redeemed as fast as possible. Everything cannot be done in a year. In the emergency which the government at Washington is now facing the administration has received the most complimentary assurances. from all parties, of the country's trust in it. - Sioux City Journal.

When Preaident McKinley assumed the reins of office he was pledged to four things-sound money, protection, the annexation of Hawaii and the liberation of Cuba. The first he has maintained, the second was given to the country in a little less than four months after his inauguration, the third course clear for Hon. Charles W. Stone. Mr. Wanamaker has no accomplish and accept for the fact desire for the office himself, and that it takes a two-thirds majority enters the race entirely from prin-ciple. He says he is there to repciple. He says he is there to represent pure politics and he could been annexed before the Holidays. The fourth is now matter of keenest interest and ere another year will have been numbered with the of to-day will be history. In no thing has the party been recreant to his trust.—Grand Rapids Herald.
