CAMP GEO. H. THOMAS, LITTLE, GA., Monday, June 5, 1898.

E. J. Fauzy, formerly of this place writes following account of the sham battle, by one who was engaged in it as a member of the regiment that covered itself with glory. The boys are all well.

I will give you an idea of a day in camp. At 5:30 the morning gun is fired and the bugle blows reveille and as soon as the music ceases the roll is called, and every man who is not in line with trousers, shoes and hat on is fined $1.00. Strange to say there has been no fines. At 5:45 the bugle blows the police call and the guard which came off the morning before goes through the camp and picks up and burns all rubbish. By this time all tents are supposed to have been cleaned and the blankets hung out to air. Then at 5:55 the sick call sounds and all sick ones are taken to the hospital by the first sergeants. At 6:00 mess call sounds for breakfast and at 6:30 the first sergeants call sounds. The sergeants then make their reports to the adjutants. At 7:00 the assembly sounds for drill. This is company drill. At 8:30 the bugle recalls us from the field. At 10:00 we have guard-mount. Then the details, six or eight men from each company, chosen with reference to the letters beginning are taken into the field and are first inspected as to person and the best appearing soldier in the detail is chosen as orderly of the day and the colonel's messenger. The arms are then inspected. Then the guard is marched to the guard-house and the old guard salutes them. They are divided into three reliefs and the old guard is dismissed. This requires about one hour.

At 12:00, the mess call sounds for dinner and at 3:30, assembly for battalion drill. At 5:00, recall. At 6:00, mess (supper). At 7:00, sunset gun (retreat). At 8:00, tattoo, (go to bed) and at 9:15, taps, (lights out).

The time between drills is filled on special details, such as straightening tents, digging sink holes, carrying water and the like.

I have held out well against the heat, which has been 103 degrees in the shade. The nights are not so cold as reported and we can take off our outside clothes to sleep.

It was in the battle, of which you have read before this reaches you. Our division, like all others, has three brigades. (there are three regiments in a brigade) Our brigade fought the other two in our division. The object being to capture a signal tower. The two other brigades wore blouses which was ten per cent. in our favor. Well the other brigades secretly posted scouts around our camp at 12 o'clock the night before and also left their camp at 3:00 a. m., to take up their position. At 6:30 we left camp and repaired to the woods behind them. They threw out an advance guard consisting of four men and a sergeant who walked in advance of the main body. Then came the right and left flankers, consisting of four men and a sergeant in each set of flankers. Then came a string of messengers 200 yards apart, reaching to the support. Next came the support; then more messengers; then came the reserves which are the main body. The rear is guarded the same way. Well to return to the story, we proceeded about two miles, when we lost connection with the advance party and another was sent out in their place. We then advanced in this manner over the hills and through the woods to avoid being seen by the enemy from the tower on the hill. When at last we received our ammunition and I (being a scout) sighted an outpost of our antagonists and after passing word back, myself and the four sergeants started down the hill on double time; the outpost ran for shelter but when we got about 100 yards they charged us and we took refuge behind a fence and opened fire on them; they fell back at this stage and a platoon of the reserves came up and we chased them (at the distance of a half a mile) up a hill at double quick, and the reserves captured them. There was a Lieutenant, two sergeants and ten privates. We robbed them of their cartridges and took their arms.

We then became lost from our regiment but after a time found our company. The whole company guarding prisoners, but even this required great skill as we were liable to be captured at any minute and had to keep out of sight of the enemy. But at 11:00 a. m. we came in, bringing prisoners who were afterward returned to their respective regiments. It was not much of a success, but very few were hurt and they were for the most part burned with powder. No one in Co. C. was hurt although three or four were captured.

We did more talking than would have been done in real battle and you bet we will be able to lie like veterans when we come home. I think about 25,000 shots were fired during the battle. It was a great drill and the boys who were captured feel awful cheap. The Col said it was hard fighting but owing to the thick woods we could not see it all.

Many a so-called farmer never grows anything but whiskers.

Mr. Isaac Harner, proprietor of the Barton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me; and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm, the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured."
