

A FATALITY AVOIDED.

From the Democrat, Goshen, Ind.

When neuralgia is accompanied by a dull, heavy pain near the heart, frequently becoming intense, it generally terminates fatally. Mrs. Nancy Flynn, who lives near Goshen, Indiana, survived such an attack and her advice is worth heeding.

"In the fall of '92," she said, "I began to have trouble with my heart. There was a sharp pain in my breast which became rapidly worse. The doctor was puzzled and put me under the influence of opiates. These sharp attacks followed one another at intervals and I became weak and had a haggard look. I was constantly in pain, seldom slept and had no appetite.

"At the end of two years I was confined to my couch most of the time and the doctors agreed that my death was only a matter of a short time.

"One day I noticed in a newspaper an advertisement about a woman having been cured of neuralgia of the heart by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I concluded to try them.

"When I had finished one box I noticed an improvement in my condition, and when I had taken twelve boxes I was completely cured. 'Those pills have done for you what we could not do,' said one of my physicians, 'they have saved your life.'

"That was two years ago and my heart has not troubled me since. I believe my life to be Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and I take pleasure in telling others about them."

Among the many forms of neuralgia are headache, nervousness, paralysis, apoplexy and locomotor ataxia. Some of these were considered incurable until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were formulated. To-day thousands testify to having been cured of such diseases by these pills.

Doctors frequently prescribe them and all druggists sell them.

Blood-Cleaning.

House-cleaning is a duty in every well-regulated household. People don't wait until the fifth becomes painfully apparent, but it stands to reason that in every day use more or less dust or dirt accumulates. It is so with the human blood. From the enormous variety of eatables taken into the stomach, a quantity of useless material is bound to accumulate in the blood and clog the free and wholesome flow in the vessels. Every person should from time to time have a blood-cleaning, and the best cleanser and blood purifier is Cascarets Candy Cathartic. We recommend them to all our readers.

DUSTING FURNITURE.

Feather Dusters Should Not Be Used, Because There Are Other and Far Better Ways.

Dust is always a grief of mind to the careful housewife, who, like the virtuous woman of holy writ, looketh well to the ways of her household.

It hath all seasons for its own, and the only way to conquer it is to pursue it steadily. A feather duster is an abomination except for the tops of pictures, etc., since it only stirs up the dust from one spot in order to allow it to settle on another, while wiping with a damp cloth, which in any but judicious hands is apt to be a wet one, is too apt to smear the furniture. All furniture should be dusted regularly, with due regard to the corners, where most of the dust accumulates.

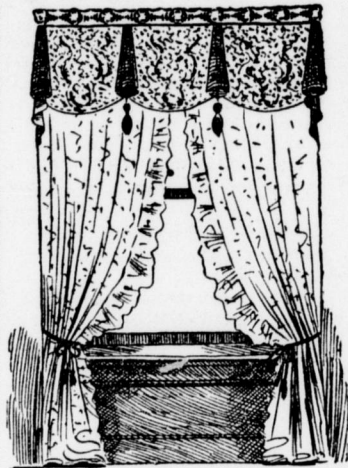

The best thing for carved furniture is a soft, thick paint brush, which will get into all the interstices of the pattern. When these are clogged take another brush, wet with kerosene oil, to clean them out. After using the oil rub dry with a soft cloth. Flannellet makes the best dust cloth, and squares of it are now sold ready hemmed for the purpose in our large stores.

JAPANESE TEA ROOM IN NEW YORK.

How a Wealthy Woman Resident of the Metropolis Carried Out One of Her Eccentric Fancies.

A fashionable New York woman has the eccentric, though pretty, fancy for a "Tea Room of All Nations." This week it is a Japanese tea room; last week it was a Russian tea room. By a few simple devices she changes the room from one nationality to another, and so imports to it an ever-varying aspect.

This week the woman whose tea room is the bay window has pots of artificial Japanese plants set upon the shelves around the window, and upon the floor, which is covered with matting. A rug of matting lies at the entrance. As the guests enter the room they are greeted by a little serving maid in native costume, who prostrates herself to the floor and bids them enter. This they greatly enjoy and their approach to the room is begun with laughter and pleasantry—a happy beginning for an afternoon call.

The dress of the little maid is in bright Japanese silk, with an immense sash of oriental silk. She wears her hair in Japanese style with pins stuck in it. It might be mentioned that the little maid has never been to Japan, and that she enters into the spirit of the little afternoon play with enough heartiness to make it a success. She brings in the tea and later bids the guests adieu with native courtesy.

very little trouble, only be sure to hang it up carefully to dry, wringing well, and then pulling into shape. The bamboo beater is the best thing for rugs and portieres, but it is useless to beat upholstered furniture. A stiff whisk should be used, and all crevices should be well brushed out and the lint and dust brushed off after this is done. It is wonderful how much dust a tufted chair can hold—no wonder maid and mistress alike wonder where the dust comes from, for summer, winter, whether it blows in at the open window or sifts up through furnace flues; like the grass of the poem, it comes "creeping everywhere," and finds a lodgement in every inch of space exposed.

Now that bookcases with glass doors are no longer fashionable, books are usually open to the dust, and need systematic and careful attention to preserve them from damage. They should be taken from the shelves at least once or twice a month, and wiped with a soft, dry cloth, which should be shaken out of the window repeatedly during the work of dusting. Remember always that in brushing dust from an object you scatter it, but wiping it off with a cloth you gather it up and remove it altogether.—Chicago Times-Herald.

to the desired shape, the trimming being fluted or ruching of the same stuff, with pipes or jabots at discretion. The corners of light pine are covered with cloth-lined paper, and are given a touch of ornamentation by the use of ruching similar to that trimming the vallances. Long curtains of Singapore lattice, Calcutta net or colonial muslin are hung on light rods inside the corners, and may be drawn aside without interfering with the draped effect. These window and door headings are easily kept clean, and may remain in place when the lower curtains or portieres are removed for the summer.

Why the ingenious idea has not occurred to anyone before, in view of the recurring difficulty of obtaining fabrics which go with wall papers, is a matter to be wondered at, but its simplicity and appropriateness are sure to make it popular, now that it has been discovered and put in practicable shape.—N. ## TRAINING THE GRAPES.

The Hudson Horizontal System Described and Explained by Prof. E. G. Lodeman.

This typical form of horizontal grape training may be found in a number of vineyards situated near the Hudson river. The stem of the vine is about 15 inches high. From its upper part a cane is carried to the top of the trellis, and then it is bent toward one side and tied to the top wire of the trellis. It is made long in order that the plant may be supplied with a proper number of buds. The trellis carries only two wires, the lowest being about two and one-half feet from the ground, the top one about three feet above the first. These wires are not designed to bear directly the weight of the vines, but slats are fastened to them, and these slats support much of the weight of the fruit and foliage. One slat, a lath, is placed on each side of the vine and about a foot from it. The lath is splayed so that only a few inches project below the lower vine, while about a foot extends above the upper. As the shoots in early summer become long enough to allow of their being tied to these upright slats, they are so fastened as to be held in practically a horizontal position. Frequently two more slats are used, one being placed about 12 inches from each of those at first put on; eventually the shoots are also tied to these; such upright pieces should be considered as forming an integral part of the trellis. They are firmly stapled to the wire, and remain there until they decay or become broken.

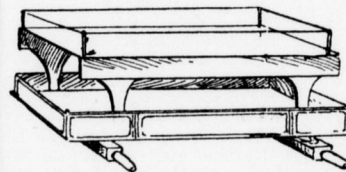

Modifications of this system are found both in American and European vineyards. In the Hudson river valley the vertical slats are sometimes absent, but two or three extra wires on the trellis answer the same purpose. As the shoots from the upright cane develop they cling to the wires without the aid of summer tying, or at most but very little of this work is done. The shoots in consequence do not assume a perfectly horizontal position, but they ascend at an angle of about 45 degrees. The bearing portion of the vine is renewed each year. In several of the large vineyards of the Midco, near Bordeaux, France, a system is found that is similar, in many respects, to the Hudson system. The one essential difference is that the upright cane is there permanent, and it forms a vertical arm, or cordon, which is spurred from each side, the spurs being kept as short as possible.

The shoots which annually grow from these spurs are fastened horizontally to the wires of the trellis, the number of wires varying from four to six or more, as the vigor of the plants may require; the distance between the wires is from 12 to 15 inches. This system is equivalent to a vertical cordon, a form which is commonly used on walls and in certain greenhouses. It has also been termed an "upright stock with alternate spurs," the description of the system being fairly well included in the name.

WAGON PLANT STAND.

Just the Thing for Gardeners Engaged Peddling Plants, Flowers and Early Vegetables.

In spring money is made in many sections of the country by peddling plants, flowers and early vegetables. A style that is in common use in Massachusetts is a double-decked wagon made as illustrated. Any ordinary express or business wagon may be used, but a wagon with springs is preferable. Make a platform and fasten four legs securely so the platform will stand at least 12 to 15 inches above the body of the wagon. The platform legs should fit inside the body of the wagon. Above the platform corner stakes may be nailed and a strong wire stretched around. Some prefer to nail boards rather than use wire. Small plants, such as violets, small seedlings, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., can be packed under the platform, while flowering plants in the pots set in flats or trays can be packed on the platform. As the driver calls out the good farmer wife, the temptation to buy from the mass of beautiful spring bloomers is hard to resist.—Albert Rising, in Farm and Home.

Evaporation and Drying.

The Virginia station has reported experiments on various means of utilizing low-grade apples which, it is estimated, constitute 40 per cent. of the annual crop in that state. Considerable quantities of this fruit are at present sun-dried, but it is believed that the use of evaporating apparatus would be much more economical. The cost of manufacture in either case is about three cents per pound of finished product. The evaporated fruit as a rule sells for about six cents per pound and the dried for only 2½ cents. The amount of evaporated fruit per bushel of apples was found to be about 6.6 pounds.

AN OLD BULLY.

People who live in fear of his attacks.

How to avoid him or beat him off.

If biliousness isn't the bully of the body then what is? When once biliousness gets the upper hand you don't dare say your stomach is your own. "Don't you dare eat that dish says biliousness, or you'll see what I'll do." You take the dare and you see or rather feel, the weight of the bully's revenge. The head aches, not a regular ache, but an open and shut ache. The eyes ache, not with a dull, tired ache, but with an aggressive ache, as if they were being bored by a gimlet. The stomach trembles with nausea. "The whole head is sick and the whole heart is faint." There are scores of hundreds of people who live so under the domination of the bully biliousness that they don't dare eat or drink without his permission. There's no need of such slavery. Dr. J. C. Ayer's Pills effectually cure biliousness.

"For fifteen years I have used Dr. J. C. Ayer's Pills, and find them very effective in all kinds of bilious complaints. They are mild in operation and easy to take. I prefer them to any other pill, and have yet to see the case where they have failed to cure."—A. SWANGER, Texarkana, Ark.

"I have used Dr. J. C. Ayer's Pills in cases of biliousness and general disorders of the stomach and bowels and have found them to be always reliable. They are less liable to gripe than other purgatives, and although mild in action, they are thorough in operation. They are the best family physic that can be had."—PETER J. DUFFY, Rockport, Texas.

"Having used Dr. J. C. Ayer's Pills for years and thoroughly tested them, both as a preventive and cure for biliousness, I can truthfully say that I believe them to be the best medicine for the purpose and they do all that is claimed for them."—Jno. E. KOLB, Shark, Ark.

Biliousness is in general but a symptom of a more stubborn disorder, constipation. Constipation is the root of almost all physical evils, and Dr. J. C. Ayer's Pills cure almost all these physical evils by going to the root. They cure constipation, and the consequent maladies, biliousness, heartburn, palpitation, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, nervous irritability, food coated tongue, and a score of other miserable maladies that have their origin in constipation. Dr. Ayer's Pills are the surest and safest remedy for all diseases of the liver, stomach, and bowels. Send for Dr. Ayer's Curebook and read the story of cures told by the cured. Free. Address the J. ## THE ILLS OF WOMEN

And How Mrs. Pinkham Helps Overcome Them.

Mrs. MARY BOLLINGER, 1101 Marianna St., Chicago, Ill., to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I have been troubled for the past two years with falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, pains over my body, sick headaches, backache, nervousness and weakness. I tried doctors and various remedies without relief. After taking two bottles of your Vegetable Compound, the relief I obtained was truly wonderful. I have now taken several more bottles of your famous medicine, and can say that I am entirely cured."

Mrs. HENRY DORR, No. 806 F. idley St., Cincinnati, Ohio, to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For a long time I suffered with chronic inflammation of the womb, pain in abdomen and bearing-down feeling. Was very nervous at times, and so weak I was hardly able to do anything. Was subject to headaches, also troubled with leucorrhoea. After doctoring for many months with different physicians, and getting no relief, I had given up all hope of being well again when I read of the great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing. I decided immediately to give it a trial. The result was simply past belief. After taking four bottles of Vegetable Compound and using three packages of Sanative Wash I can say I feel like a new woman. I deem it my duty to announce the fact to my fellow sufferers that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable remedies have entirely cured me of all my pains and suffering. I have her alone to thank for my recovery, for which I am grateful. May heaven bless her for the good work she is doing for our sex."
