Patriotic Convicts.

Even convicts can be patriotic, as the prisoners at the Columbus, O., penitentiary proved the other morning.

Elected Principal.

At a special meeting of the school board, held Tuesday evening, M. L. Willier, of Sterling Run, was elected principal.

LOCK HAVEN BOY IN THE FIGHT!

Frank T. McNamey Distinguishes Himself at Santiago.

Lock Haven Republican. Frank T. McNamey who was captain of Company H in this city, but resigned and enlisted in the 10th U. S. regular infantry, was in the battle at Santiago, but escaped without injury.

Before Santiago, July 6, 1898.

By good luck I am still safe without a scratch. We opened the ball July 1st and for nearly half of the day we were under a deadly hail of everything and from all sides, and we couldn't see a thing.

Our artillery is no good—the Spaniards can silence them as fast as they get up, but they can't stop the advance of the infantry of our small army. We now have them pretty near cornered, and Gen. Shafter has demanded the surrender, which I understand they have refused.

War is a bad thing, but I am still feeling fine, as I said in a letter from Tampa and I think I have already made a couple of good skirmish runs on the Spaniards. I think, after our next fight we will take the city. I propose to be in everything that the 10th is in, and take chances. Still have some hope of the Spaniards surrendering, in which case the fighting here would be over.

FRANK T. McNamey, Sergeant. The writer of the above is a brother of our townsman, J. P. McNamey.

Warning to Water Drinkers.

Don't risk your life drinking foul water; you don't have to, our soda is made from pure deep (247 feet) well water and is filtered and is absolutely safe and wholesome. Metzger's, of course.

Pic-Nic.

The Episcopal Sunday school picnic at Sizerville yesterday was a very enjoyable occasion and the children were delighted with the days outing.

Are You Hot?

Try a lemon (real lemons) phosphate at Metzger's, of course.

It Must Be Good.

Every one is drinking "cherry" ice cream soda. Have you tried it? Yes—Metzger's, of course.

Decisions Important to County Commissioners.

Congressman Hicks, at the request of J. Horace Smith, esq., solicitor for Blair county, submitted recently to the commissioner of internal revenue a question as to the liability of county commissioners and county treasurers under the new tax law.

The commissioner further says as to the county treasurer: "That the county treasurer drawing a check on the bank and signing it in his official capacity as county treasurer, in payment of an order drawn upon him by the county commissioners, must be regarded as the exercise of a function belonging to him strictly as an officer of the county, and therefore no stamp is required to be affixed to such check."

It has generally been supposed that when a county treasurer deposited his money in a bank that such deposit was for the convenience of the treasurer, and that the checks of the treasurer would be subject to the stamp tax. The commissioner, however, holds, as is noticed by his decision above quoted, that checks drawn by the county treasurer as such are not subject to the stamp tax.

Tariff and Price of Wool.

Under free wool the price dropped to 12 cents per pound. The present price of wool is due to the Protection afforded by the Dingley Tariff bill. The market has now nearly reached the point at which wool can be imported under the new Tariff.

Owing to the Dingley Protective Tariff the price to-day for unwashed wool is 20 cents per pound, and with the return of prosperous times and the consumption of the enormous amount of foreign wool brought in under free duty during the first half of the year 1897 we shall have reached the point where the wool will receive the full benefit of the Tariff which will advance the price of unwashed wool from 2 to 4 cents above the present price.

Williams-Switzer.

The wedding bells again rang out their golden notes with all their sweetness on Tuesday of this week, in our town. The center of interest was the home of Mr. W. D. Switzer.

A goodly company of invited guests gathered in the late afternoon, and promptly at five o'clock, David Williams and Sara E. Switzer followed the Rev. J. H. Graybeill, D. D., into the parlor and were solemnly united in marriage. The ceremony was impressive and beautiful. The Rev. Mr. McCaslin of Emporium was present and assisted in the service. After a bountiful repast, at which wit and humor and merry laughter were indulged in a pleasant hour or two were enjoyed in social chat and pleasant conversation.

Canned Tomatoes.

The statement that large shipments of canned tomatoes are being made from Tampa to supply the troops in Cuba needs some explanation. The canned tomatoes are not warmed up or cooked again before using, but are eaten cold, just as they are taken from the can, forming a very acceptable ration for men living on bacon, beans and "tacks," as the hard-tack biscuits are feelingly referred to. Canned tomatoes furnish a refreshing and palatable vegetable supply in concentrated form. In fact, they take the place of fruit and vegetables and are often eaten before breakfast, the soldier in the field craving food of that sort.

Gain by Advertising.

Denver Republican: One Denver firm has been investigating the merits of advertising. A careful account has been kept, and, with $250 investment each month, the business has shown an increase from 100 to 163 per cent. over corresponding months last year, when no newspaper advertising was done.

Just Specify It.

You can have your soda made with Sizerville mineral water if you want it—Metzger's, of course; he keeps it at his fountain.

Private Jesse M. Baker.

The following story, which was told in the Pittsburgh Times a few days since, will prove interesting to a great many Pennsylvanians who are personally acquainted with the subject of the sketch:

"Private, what have you got in that jug?"

It was an officer in the uniform of the United States artillery, a member of the staff of Maj. Gen. Graham, commander at Camp Alger, Va., who peremptorily put the question. The soldier he addressed was a heavy-set fellow of about 42, with a keen, shrewd face and smiling lips shaded by a brown mustache. The insignia on his uniform showed that he was a private in Company D, Sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers.

"Water, sir!"

"Water?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where are you going with it?" "I am taking it to the surgeon general of the United States at Washington, so that it may be analyzed in order that we may know whether or not it is fit to be used by the Sixth Pennsylvania regiment."

The officer rather doubtfully pulled the cork and smelled the contents of the jug. As a rule privates at Camp Alger don't carry around water in jugs. Satisfied, however, that it wasn't something stronger, he handed the jug back to the soldier and was about to pass on when the latter began to ask some questions.

"You graduated from West Point in the class of 1877, didn't you?"

"I did," was the rather surprised response.

"I thought I remembered you," said the private. "I used to drill you when you were a 'pebe.' Do you remember the roll call still?" And he ran down the once familiar old call until he reached the officer's name.

"That's my name," struck in the latter. "Who are you?"

"Jesse M. Baker," answered the private of D, Sixth Pennsylvania, and the two shook hands.

It was ex-Senator Jesse M. Baker, of Delaware county, he of "Baker ballot" fame, who thus struck an old acquaintance. In the rolls of the volunteer army there is possibly no more signal example of the stuff our soldiers are made of than Mr. Baker affords. He was educated at the Pennsylvania Military academy, and then entered West Point, but didn't graduate, because, as he expresses it, he was "shy on his French." His lack of knowledge of that language didn't keep him out of the Pennsylvania National Guard, however, for he entered that organization in 1877 and worked himself up until he became major in the Sixth regiment.

That position he resigned about a year ago in order to devote his time wholly to the law. But the war with Spain broke out, and he at once enlisted as a private in his old regiment. In that capacity he served until a day or two ago, when Gen. Hastings commissioned him first lieutenant in Company K, Fourth regiment, which, under Col. D. B. Case, is now at Tampa, Fla., awaiting orders for Cuba.

Even had the Governor not given Private Baker this promotion, it is not likely that he would have been a private very much longer. President McKinley heard of Private Baker from Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith, and sent word to Secretary Alger that a staff position must be found for him.

"Then," the President added to Mr. Smith, "I want you to have Baker's story written up and printed."

It is worth printing, this story of a man who studied at West Point, became a lawyer, was twice district attorney of Delaware county, served two terms in the House and one in the Senate of Pennsylvania, where he identified his name with our present voting system, was 20 years in the National Guard and became major of his regiment, and then went to the front as a private soldier. Armies which can show men like this will bear the flag to victory anywhere they may be sent.

What it Might Say.

Said a citizen the other day: "We expect the local paper to say all of the good things about us. It goes to help fill up the news columns, and the news is what the people take the paper for." Very true, friend, your argument is all right and very convincing, but did you consider all the unpleasant things that the local paper might truthfully say about you—but doesn't—would sell ten papers to the complimentary items one? We regret that human nature is built that way, but nevertheless it is, and the fellow making a newspaper in a community where everybody is supposed to know everybody's business better than his own, finds it much more difficult to determine what to leave out of the sheet than what to put in. Thanks, awfully, for your suggestion; you mean well, but you don't know."—EX.

Sam Lewis went after huckleberries up Britton Run and had quite an experience with rattlesnakes. He stepped upon a large stone and hearing a rattler looked around and found himself surrounded with no less than nine of them he managed to reach a stick with which he killed two of them, the rest got away.

Mrs. Ella Baird is at Delavan, N. Y., visiting her daughter Mrs. H. J. Bullock.

Mrs. Elias Barton went to Olean a couple of weeks ago to visit her mother. And now it is Murdock McNeil that is happy. A dear little daughter came to them a few days ago and M. says he has got just what he wants.

We are sorry to hear that Elihu Chadwick has lost a horse; breaking up his team that he needs so badly this time of year. Mr. Chadwick has been very unfortunate for the last year, meeting with several financial losses, and with so serious an accident last winter that he is partially crippled for life. He is a kind-hearted and obliging neighbor and certainly has our sympathy. ADINA, July 18, 1898.

Mason Hill Letter.

News are scarce. Our people have behaved well this week.
