

THE CAMERON COUNTY PRESS.

ESTABLISHED BY C. B. GOULD, MARCH, 1866.

"Liberty and Union, One and Inseparable."—WEBSTER.

TERMS: $2.00—$1.50 IN ADVANCE.

VOL. 33.

EMPORIUM PA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1898.

NO. 26.

EDITOR'S NOTICE.

WHEN you see this item marked with an X across its face you will know that your subscription is due, or past due. Your name will be found printed on each copy of the Press, as you receive it, and gives the last date to which you have paid. Our terms are $2.00 if not paid in advance, $1.50 in advance. Many, very many, of our patrons allow their subscriptions to run year after year. This we are unable to stand. It requires money to purchase paper and pay employees and we must insist upon the payment of subscriptions due us. We have been patient, but "patience has ceased to be a virtue," and we now propose to weed out all those subscribers who show no disposition to pay for their paper. We labor hard to give the public a good journal and while a majority of our patrons realize that fact and pay for it there are hundreds who never give the matter a passing thought, taking it for granted that we will always send them the Press, whether we receive pay or not. We have had an elegant sufficiency of that kind of kindness. If you want this paper pay for it—if you don't want it, stop it and pay what you owe. We know money is scarce in this county, yet we also know that our delinquents could pay if they desired—a part at least.

THOUGHTS FOR JENKS.

Jerome B. Niles on the Weakness of the Democracy.

BACKS THE CAUSE OF COL. STONE

An Arraignment of the Minority Party for Lacking Courage to Stand by its Convictions.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

Following the weak and equivocal letter of acceptance of democratic candidate for Governor George A. Jenks, which seems to have satisfied no one but the Gold Democrats who are anxious to get inside the Bourbon lines again, a broad gauge and straight-forward declaration on the issues of the campaign in Pennsylvania from ex-Auditor-General Jerome B. Niles, was refreshingly interesting and conclusive. There are few men better known than General Niles, in the Keystone State. He is recognized as one of the strongest men in the northern tier and his long experience in public affairs makes his utterances on the issues of the day always timely and valuable. General Niles, who will be one of the leaders on the stump for Colonel W. A. Stone in the gubernatorial canvass, said:

"Our democratic friends cannot shirk the national issues in which our present and future welfare are so vitally concerned. The voters of this most intelligent State will not, by them, be deceived. In 1896 they went before the country contending for the free and unlimited coinage of silver and pleading for a tariff for revenue only. They are, in this State, seemingly anxious to abandon their position taken in the last campaign. They do not like to have anything said about free silver or about free trade. The marvelous and mysterious connection which they had discovered between wheat and silver disappeared immediately after the election of Mr. McKinley. In thousands of speeches they cried out that we would ruin the American farmer by insisting upon a currency founded upon a gold basis. They insisted that when silver went down in the scale of values that wheat went with it. That upon the financial question they were a sort of Siamese twins. And yet, in this, as in all things else, they have been mistaken. As soon as it was ascertained that our currency was to be continued on a solid basis, wheat began to go up and silver kept on going down. The mysterious connection was broken. There have been times since 1896 when it would have taken enough silver bullion to make three silver dollars to buy one bushel of wheat.

"The Republican party has been in this State on the right side of all the great public questions of the last four decades. Where are the public measures that our democratic friends have originated? They cannot be found. In this State, at least, the democratic party has even been like the hind wheels of a wagon, crawling along in the rear, keeping just so far behind; always using as a camping ground the place occupied by the Republicans in the years that are gone, always keeping just far enough from the front to be of no service in the settlement of public questions.

"We judge men, and we should judge political parties, by what they have done and not by what they promise to do. You form your opinion as to the future conduct of your neighbor by an examination of his past life. Political parties are composed of individuals, and what is true of the individual person is true of all political parties, be they either great or small. There is no allegation against either of the candidates personally that head the respective state tickets. They are both worthy citizens. Each represent the traditions and the principles of his party. And the success of the individual candidate will be the triumph of the party whose representative of the present he is.

WHAT STONE REPRESENTS.

"Colonel William A. Stone represents the Republican party with its glorious and illuminated history of the past third of a century. He represents a party that stands pledged to a financial policy that will for all time give us a currency which shall be as unchangeable as the hills and which shall be good as gold in any land upon which the sun in Heaven shines in making his daily round. Colonel Stone represents a party that stands pledged to the maintenance of our present protective system, which affords fair and ample relief to American industry; which raises a sufficient revenue to meet all of the demands of the people; which is at all times able to protect the gold reserve in the national treasury, and which does not compel the government to sell its bonds by the hundred millions to pay our running expenses in times of profound peace and general prosperity.

"Mr. Jenks and his ticket, so far as this state is concerned, do not represent anything. His party has not originated a single measure for the benefit of the people. It has contented itself in opposing Republican measures and generally without success. From a national standpoint Mr. Jenks represents a tariff for revenue only and the free and unlimited coinage of forty-five cent dollars. Nodemocratic orator, during the pending canvass, will deliver a speech advocating either. They dare not here and now urge the principles of the Chicago platform. If they would meet these issues fairly and squarely on the stump and advocate the same doctrines that they put forth at Chicago in 1896, the majority for Colonel Stone would be 300,000.

A WORD TO THE DISGRUNTLED.

"In political parties all cannot, at all times, have that to which they feel they are entitled. There always has been; there always will be heart burnings and bitter personal disappointments. Republicans should stand by our most excellent State ticket from the top to the bottom. There has been, here will be no allegation against the personal fitness of a single one from the head to the foot of the list. They are all good men and true. We know of their antecedents. It is vastly important that we should have a delegation in Congress as nearly our way as possible. A delegation that will at all times stand by the financial and revenue measures to which our party has been so long committed.

"We all understand, if such a thing were possible, what the election of the democratic ticket in November would stand for. It would be said from the busy Atlantic coast to the golden shores of the Pacific; from our northern lakes to the land of the orange and magnolia, that the strongest protective State in the Republic has repudiated its own idea, and that in matters of finance its people preferred the theories of William J. Bryan to the facts, logic and sound principles of William McKinley, who to-day is the most respected, the most honored and beloved citizen of the Republic.

"The Republican party in Pennsylvania has a record of which its members have a right to be proud, and with which it can confidently go before the million of intelligent voters of the Commonwealth and ask and expect to receive their continued confidence and support.

Broke His Arm.

While performing on a trapeze, in an ice house on Cherry street, Tuesday morning, Alex., the eleven year old son of Wm. Snyder, had the misfortune to fall on his right arm, sustaining a severe fracture of the wrist and spraining the arm at the elbow joint. His companions took him to Dr. Bardwell, who set the broken member and the prospects are that the young man will be able to climb chestnut trees with the rest of the boys, this fall.

To Farmers.

I desire to inform the farmers of this and adjoining counties that I have recently purchased a Fearless Thresher and Cleaner, and am prepared to do any work in this line in first-class manner and at reasonable rates. Having the best machinery I take pride in giving my customers good clean work. I am also making contracts to bale hay, having purchased the Eli hay press. Give me a call.

"Second Heavy" Reunion.

The 12th annual reunion of the 2d Heavy Artillery (112th P. V.) will be held at Williamsport, Pa., September 14 and 15 (same time and place as the U. V. L. National Encampment.) For further information address Lew. C. Fosnot, Sec'y Committee, Watson-town, Pa.

Methodist Camp Meeting.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets at reduced rates from Emporium to Pittsfield, August 24th to Sept. 5th, good to return until Sept. 6th, 1898, account Camp Meeting of the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

The Citizens Gas and Oil Co., met at the Warner House last evening and voted to sink another well.

Why Not?

At the late meeting of the Emporium school board, the measure, providing for the one year extension of the high school course, proposed by Principal H. F. Stauffer, was rejected, much to the disappointment of the citizens of the borough and patrons of the school in general. For the past year or two the question of raising the standard of education and proficiency, in the high school, to a degree comparing favorably with the curriculum of studies adopted by the high schools of the neighboring towns and smaller cities, has been quite freely discussed and advocated by many of our thinking citizens who have the best interests of the public schools at heart.

It is because of the turning down of this popular plan so conducive to the welfare of our schools, that we make this brief comment.

By the addition of a few new studies to the present course, and a year's extension of some of the branches now taught, but which have to be hurried through, owing to the limited period of time allotted to them, the Emporium high school could be placed on a par with that of any of the large sized towns in the state.

The above plan could easily be carried out, without any expense to the taxpayers, no additional teachers or buildings being needed for the culmination of such a project and the only noticeable change in the order of the classes of the high school would be the omission of a graduating class for the school year ending May 1899. The class which would have graduated then, under the present system, would continue their studies another year before receiving their diplomas and the usual under classes would follow in regular order to the completion of the newly prescribed course.

A petition, favoring the above explained method of advancing the educational standard of the high school to a higher plane, is being circulated among our citizens and we were reliably informed this morning that the said petition contains the name of nearly every resident in the community. In view of this prevailing sentiment on the part of the taxpayers and citizens it is to be hoped the school board will see fit to rescind their recent action on the matter.

E. N. Fairchild is No More.

After a painful illness of several months, E. N. Fairchild succumbed to the inevitable, at his home near Gardeau, Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, aged fifty-seven years.

The deceased had been a great sufferer from the peculiar but fatal disease, lymphangitis, and it became evident to himself and family several weeks ago that he could not hold out much longer against the ravages of this dread malady. He remained conscious to the last and died, as he had lived, a conscientious, God fearing man.

Mr. Fairchild was a native of Le-grange, N. Y., and came to the Bradford oil region, when he was twenty years of age, where he conducted a prosperous business for a considerable length of time. About nine years ago he removed to Gardeau and engaged in lumbering and agricultural pursuits, in which he continued up to the time of his late illness. He was the secretary of the F. A. and I. U. Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and also secretary of the Cameron County Agricultural Society, besides holding other minor positions of trust and responsibility. He leaves a wife and four sons to mourn his loss. The funeral will be held from his late home at Gardeau on Friday afternoon, and interment will be made in the Sizer-ville cemetery.

American Protective Tariff League.

"The blight of free trade—The blessings of Protection," is the title of a document just issued by the American Protective Tariff League. This document clearly demonstrates the effect of the system of Free Trade under the Wilson Tariff, and of Protection under the Dingley Tariff. It is based on the result of the Tariff League's Industrial Census, and should be in the hands of every voter. Seven copies to any address for six cents. Address W. F. Wakeman, General Secretary, No. 135 West 23d street, New York.

BRIEF MENTION.

The Andrews, Sierra county, N. M., post-office was established last week by Geo. W. Delamater as postmaster. Senator Delamater is engaged in mining in New Mexico.

The Sixth Annual Epworth League Convention will be held on the Sinnamahoning camp ground, Aug. 26th, 27th and 28th, beginning at 7:30 p. m., Friday, the 26th. An interesting program has been prepared and a good time is expected.

The new brick arch, under the boilers at the tannery, has been completed and operations at that plant have been resumed. Mr. Joshua Bair superintended the construction of the arch and it is a model of workmanship in the masonry line.

Mike Hout, the "veteran snake charmer," brought a four-foot rattler into the Press office last Tuesday and performed all sorts of antics with him. The snake is of the black species and is terribly vicious. It will be sent to the Excelsior Hunting & Fishing Club, of Allegheny, Pa., and placed among their collection of curios.

Ed. H. Taylor, of Smethport, met a sudden death at Johnsonburg, Saturday night. He attempted to jump a freight train at the trestle, but miscalculated and fell, breaking his back, from which injury he died last evening. One leg was also cut off and the other broken in two places. He was a native of Smethport and a son of the late John B. Taylor one of the early settlers of that town. He would have been forty years old next month and leaves a wife and five small children to mourn his sad end.—Kane Republican.

The Press is indebted to President W. H. Crawford, for a very pretty booklet, received a few days ago, containing several excellent cuts of Allegheny College and some of the picturesque scenes surrounding it, which are interspersed with interesting epitomes of traditions that have been associated with the College from the earliest years of its existence. On one of the pages we noticed a facsimile of the signatures of Lafayette and members of his suite, as recorded on the College register by them during his memorable visit to this country in 1825.

Gen. Roy Stone, who lately figured in the war news from Porto Rico, is well remembered in Bradford. He was the man who built the Peg-Leg road which was such a great curiosity here 20 years ago. Stone was one of the principal promoters of the scheme, but it failed to pan out according to program. Hugh Brawley, now of Meadville, was a conductor on the train that ran "on top of the fence," but decided to accept a safer position. The man who succeeded him and five others were killed when the boiler of the saddle-bag locomotive blew up on Jan. 27th, 1879.—Era. Gen. Roy Stone is well and favorably known in Emporium, having visited here during the Backtail Reunion.

We can think of no reason why the county should not build the much needed bridge across the Sinnamahoning river at Wyside. But the reasons for doing so are manifold. There are but two ways for the people of Wyside to cross the river, both of which are exceedingly dangerous. We believe, should anyone suffer injury, or loss of life result from either crossing the railroad or foot bridges, that the county would have to pay very heavy damages. People who are compelled to cross the river must either ford the stream or trespass on private property. We would ask the county commissioners to make an investigation at an early day and give the people down there what they want—what they need.—Driftwood Gazette.

Sam Jones says, "A man may be a rank atheist and a red flag anarchist and Mormon and a mugwump, he may buy votes and bet on elections; he may deal from the bottom, drink beer until he can't tell a silver dollar from a circular saw, and still he is infinitely better than the man who is all suavity but who makes his home a hell, who vents on the head of his poor helpless wife and children the ill nature he would like to inflict on his fellow men but dares not. I can forego much that a fellow mortal who would rather make man swear than women weep; would rather hate of the world than the contempt of his wife; who would rather call anger to the face of a king than fear to the face of a child."

Pressed Bricks.

"If I had my way," a man said this morning, "I would build a crematory in every country town and proceed to burn up the fossils."

Quarterly meeting services in the M. E. church, next Sabbath. Love feast, 9:15 a. m.; Sacramento of the Lord's Supper. Preaching in the evening.

Rev. G. W. Faus gave two very fine discourses in the Methodist church last Sunday. He is a young man of more than ordinary talent, and has a promising future before him.

It is said by tying sand-paper around her ankles a girl can produce the same effect as by buying an expensive silk skirt. The pieces of sand-paper rub together and sound like a $12 skirt.

There is a plant, it is said, that is never touched by insects, and that is tansy. If you rub a horse over with a handful of it before taking him on the road, it is claimed that flies will not touch him.

Remember the last excursion to Southern New Jersey Sea Shore points via Pennsylvania Railroad is Thursday, September 1st. The rates are extremely liberal considering the accommodations offered.

"War is hell," said the man sitting on the cracker barrel. "Well," said the man holding up the show case, "I've never been to war and never expect to go, but I've been to Bradford."—Jamestown All.

When some one smites you on the left cheek immediately turn to him your right. Then haul off and give him a double-decker between both cheeks, in the neighborhood of the nose. Do others or they will do you.—Oil City Blizzard.

The chief objection to ready-made clothes are based upon the fitting qualities. Our clothing is designed by the best tailors in the country—such men as few custom tailors can afford to employ—and the proportions of the garments are perfect at N. Seger's.

Don't cuss under your breath. If you feel like tearing off a few measures of a sulphuric harmony, do so in good, clear, unmistakable terms. Your diaphragm will feel easier after its overhaul. Only hypocrites and cowards swear under their breath.—Bradford Star.

Over $200,000 will be paid by this Government as "head money" to the officers and sailors who destroyed Cervera's fleet. This is according to the law, which provides payment of $100 a head for every man on the ships of an enemy when these ships are destroyed. A few of the officers will receive pretty good fortunes.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Sea Shore Excursion, Thursday, September 1st, offers all that may be desired, low rates, first class accommodations, on regular trains and for those desiring to go through to Atlantic City, same day without transfer through Philadelphia, can do so by taking the Delaware River Bridge Route, the only all rail line from points in Pennsylvania.

Superintendent T. H. Ryan, of the poor farm, has just received from Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, who was Colonel of the First Maryland Infantry, C. S. A., a very fine picture of the battle of Harrisonburg, where the rebel general Ashby was killed, and where a handful of the famous Backtails—about 100—did such hard fighting against overwhelming numbers. It was in this battle that Col. Kane was taken prisoner. Comrade Ryan was present and saw the fun—if fun you can call it.—Smethport Democrat.

Here is a bright girl's method of keeping her skin in good condition. When asked her secret, she replied, "What do you think? Cucumbers. I eat plenty of them, and I believe they are healthful in hot weather, but besides that I take the thick peelings, if I am at home, and rub them on my face, and also on the backs of my hands. It is the cucumber juice which is so whitening, and which is also an astringent and keeps the pores from becoming coarse. It is used in the best face creams."

One of Bradford's wealthy men laid the foundation of his fortune by saving $1 each day for several years. When the total amount saved had assumed proportions that allowed an investment it was placed where it would do the most good. The gentleman and his wife continued laying $1 per day aside from the interest accruing from investments, and in a few years they had a snug bank account to rely upon in case of an emergency. The gentleman believes strongly in the adage that "money saved is money earned."—Era.
