L. G. COOK, Emporium, Pa., Aug. 8, 1898.—24ly.

The people of Pennsylvania are, above all things else, fair and just, and they can be trusted to see through the sinister motives animating the small coterie of disgruntled, defeated politicians who are responsible for this sensational resort to the courts. In due time there will be a complete exposition of the true inwardness of this latest act in the drama of character assassination.—Tionesta Republican.

But should this prosecution turn out to be a part of a general conspiracy to blacken Senator Quay's character for political buncombe, then those who are pursuing him with such spiteful malignancy, and who are resorting to such contemptible methods to accomplish their purposes, should bear the odium which belongs to such conduct. If there is anything worse than a disregard of the laws of the land, it is an attempt to use those laws for ignoble purposes, such as private revenge or political buncombe.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

There is a purpose for this, of course, which is neither to seek the ends of justice nor restore to the public anything that has been lost. We do not say this because of any disposition to defend Senator Quay or any other politician in wrong doing, but because the motive is always apparent when a charge against a man in office is kept on the shelf until such time as it is believed to be of political service to opposing parties. If a wrong has been committed it should be brought to light at once by parties having knowledge of it.—Dubois Courier.

It is evident that the institution of the suit against Senator Quay and others was actuated by political motives, rather than through an honest desire to protect the interests of the commonwealth. The evidence on this point is too clear for reasonable doubt. If there were no evidence of this fact that the institution of the suit was postponed until a month before the election, when the books and papers on which it is based were accessible to the parties instituting the proceedings months before, more than justifies this inference.—Lancaster New Era.

How to Prevent Croup.

We have two children who are subject to attacks of croup. Whenever an attack is coming on my wife gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always prevents the attack. It is a household necessity in this county and no matter what else we run out of, it would not do to be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. More of it is sold here than all other cough medicines combined.—J. M. NICKLE, of Nickle Bros., merchants, Nickleville, Pa. For sale by L. Taggart. Oct.

We entertain no fears of the ability of Senator Quay not only to dispose satisfactorily of the present charges against him, but also to uncover those who are using this line of attack upon him; we suspect, indeed, that when the courts have concluded their probing it will not be Quay who will emerge the worse for the revelations thus invited or the more astonished at the effect of those revelations upon public opinion.—Scranton Tribune.
