A significant order has been issued by Col. Richards of the Sixteenth Regiment to the various companies under his command, and men in a position to know say that it means that the regiment is to see no more service. The officers in command of companies have been notified to secure an inventory of all equipments, excepting uniforms, belonging to the government. The soldiers are told to affect citizen dress. The order does not say in so many words that the regiment is to be mustered out, but it is regarded as sure that such will be the case. It is believed that the Sixteenth Regiment will not have to go to Cuba at all but that some other Pennsylvania Regiment, will take its place in the first brigade, first division of the first army corps.—Star.

There are sermons and sermons, but the ones that are most liable to make impressions on the listeners are those that contain the practical and commonplace lessons of life and tell of the duties required of man. The necessity of learning how to live right is greater than that of learning how to die, for the first will take care of the last. If more was told of the stern duties of life and avoidance of the dangers which threaten our individual and national existence and less about the dry doctrines of antiquated theology, the threadbare controversies over Jonah and the whale, the Higher Criticism and the Mistakes of Moses, the mass of mankind would be more generally benefited.—DuBois Express.

Some of the Co. H. boys brought home with them small pieces of a spar from the Merrimac, the ship which was sunk in Santiago channel by Hobson. The captain of the transport Minnawaska purchased the spar at Santiago for $50 to present to a museum at Boston. The soldier boys found it in a hatchway and when they finished applying the axe to it the spar looked like a feather duster struck by lightning.—Elk Democrat.

The apple crop in the United States is about ten million barrels short of last year's record and forty million bushels short of the record of 1896. The shortage is said to be due to the excessive rain fall during the blossoming.

When the Sixteenth regiment arrived home two full-blooded Porto Rico boys accompanied it. One, Dean Uga, is with Private Ed. Lynch, of Company F, Franklin. The other boy is with Company K, of Titusville. Both are quite dark in color and bright and intelligent.—Warren Mail.
