LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Contributions invited. That which you would like to see in this department, let us know by post card, or letter, personally.

Miss Nellie Hamilton was the guest of Driftwood friends the past week.

Ray B. White spent Christmas week with his mother and brothers at Buffalo.

Chas. Bloom, of St. Marys, passed the holidays with his parents, on Allegany avenue.

Miss Nina Bryan returned to her studies at Erie Business College the first of the week.

Geo. Johnston visited his parents in Emporium last week. He is located near Johnstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor and son of Austin spent the holidays with their relatives in Emporium.

Miss Rose Halderman, of Olean, N. Y., spent Christmas with her sister Miss Jennie on East Allegany avenue.

Sam'l T. Howard and family, of Williamsport, ate their Christmas dinner with Mrs. H. C. Rockwell, at this place.

Harry Kaye came up from Williamsport Friday to take in the Hook's ball and spend New Years with his Emporium friends.

Miss Lillian Heilman left on No. 8, Monday morning for Lock Haven, where she will resume her studies at the State Normal.

Mr. John M. Olson, of the enterprising firm of Olson and Wickstrand, of Austin, spent the holidays at Emporium with his family.

F. A. Hill, C. B. Howard & Company's competent saw filer, was a Press caller after devouring his Christmas turkey and "fixins."

Frank Pollock, who is in business at Punxsutawney, enjoyed his Christmas dinner in Emporium, guest of his cousin, Mrs. H. C. Rockwell.

Harry J. Soble, of Scranton, Pa., who is one of the Lackawanna Lumber Co.'s live salesmen, spent his holiday vacation with his parents at this place.

Mrs. H. H. Mullin is visiting friends in Philadelphia and Harrisburg and will remain at the latter place until after the inauguration of Gov. Stone.

P. J. Bloom, who now resides at St. Marys, in the employ of the chair factory, accompanied by his wife, ate Christmas dinner in Emporium, guests of Geo. Bloom and family.

John Heilman, son of our esteemed townsman Dr. R. P. Heilman, departed for State College on Monday where he will take a thorough course of instruction in the art of making butter and cheese.

Our old friend I. A. Hirsch and wife, after visiting their children in Buffalo and New York City for several months came home in time to celebrate Christmas festivities. Both are greatly improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cole, of Keokuk, Iowa, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage at their residence, at that place, last week, Friday (Dec. 23). Their many Emporium friends extend congratulations.

Our jovial friend John J. Hinkle, of the Quaker City, was called here last Thursday on account of the serious illness of his wife, whose condition we are pleased to learn is so improved that Mr. Hinkle was able to return to Philadelphia on Monday evening.

C. H. Sage, Jr., and wife came down from Johnstown on Christmas and assisted Delos Burlingame and family to devour their usual good dinner. Mr. Sage called on the Press while in town and delighted the heart of the printer in a substantial manner.

Wm. Mundy accompanied Harry Kaye to Williamsport where they will both take a complete business course in the Williamsport Commercial College. They are promising young men and have the best wishes of the Press for their future success.

W. L. Sykes and family, of Buffalo, came down to visit over Christmas with Geo. A. Walker and family. While in town Mr. Sykes, accompanied by his son George, made the Press sanctum a visit. Master George is a very intelligent and active little man for his age and a firm friend of the Press.

Herbert Day, Supt. of Emporium tannery paid the Press his usual annual visit and, as it has been his custom for years, paid for his family paper one year in advance and one year to his father-in-law. Many of our citizens have adopted this excellent plan of sending the Press to their absent friends or relatives. Have you tried it?

Our young friend Theo. Corwin, of Williamsport, was in attendance at the Hook's Ball on the 30th. We are sorry to note that Theo. is not diminishing in size, and therefore have concluded that he must be an imperialist as he seems to be in favor of expansion.

J. Newton Peek, C. A. Stebbins, H. L. Cobb, L. B. Seibert, Coleman Smith, Will Philips, W. Arnold, all of Coudersport, came up from Harrisburg this morning and stopped at the Warner House for breakfast on their way home.

La Grippe Raging.

The la grippe is raging in Emporium and there is a very great amount of sickness. Many cases are serious. The entire Press force is afflicted with the malady and it is with great effort that our men are able to serve our patrons.

BRIEF MENTION.

N. Seger commences the New Year with a complete new stock and is offering some rare bargains for ready purchasers, in ready made clothing.

A newspaper, truly remarks the Johnsonburg Breeze, is a peculiar article in the public's eye. The newspaper is stormed because he gets hold of one article and is abused because he does not get hold of another. Young men as well as old, perform acts which are legitimate articles for publication, and then rush to the newspaper office to beg the editors not to notice the escapades. The next day they condemn the same paper for not having published another party for doing the same offense of which they were guilty.

"After a long business career," says a long-headed business man, "my deliberate judgment is that it pays to wear good clothes, fashionably made. I remember when, as a boy, I began my business career at $9 a week. I was sent on an errand to a swell tailor's establishment of the city. After I had done my errand the tailor looked me over and suggested that I should order a new suit. When I explained my financial condition he said kindly: 'My boy, whatever it may cost, it would be the best business investment you could make. With fashionably cut garments your own confidence and self-esteem will be enhanced and other people will think better of you,' and he generously offered to make me a suit and let me pay for it whenever I could or not at all. It was as good an investment as I could have made. The habit it gave me of always wearing good clothes helped me very much in my long business career."—Galveston News.

The Glastonbury Thorn.

At Glastonbury abbey, in Somersetshire, England, once stood a thorn tree which, it is said, bloomed every Christmas morning. The first authentic account of it ever written was in 1772 by a visitor who tells of it in the account of his visit to the abbey.

The keeper assured him that St. Joseph of Arimathea landed not far from the town, at a place where there was formerly an oak that had been planted to his memory; that he and his companions marched to a hill and rested themselves, and that Joseph stuck his staff in the ground. Now, this staff was a common dry hawthorn stick, but it grew and first came into full flower on Christmas day. Afterward the tree, which has thus grown and budded like Aaron's rod, always bloomed on the day of our Lord's nativity and upon no other day, the flower, like those of the night blooming cereus, lasting but a few hours.

Many queer stories have been told of the "miraculous thorn of Glastonbury." It was said that if the chips from it were planted they would sprout and grow like potatoes; that the leaves cured all inflammations, swellings, etc., and that "rods" cut from it would never leave marks on the children corrected by their use.

"Educated, by Jove!"

At a leading New England college some years ago when the commencement exercises were over and the diplomas had been distributed, says D. S. Sanford in The Atlantic, a member of the graduating class, who had been more distinguished by conviviality than studiousness, and who had barely escaped losing his degree, appeared upon the campus and, waving the much prized parchment over his head, shouted gleefully: "Educated, by Jove!"

The idea expressed by the rollicking student, more in jest than in earnest, illustrates a notion of education which dies hard. The popular prejudice that culture is something extracted from books, picked up in a lecture hall or a laboratory or seized during the fleeting years of one's school or college life is so prevalent that it becomes the obvious duty of the school press home to the consciousness of every person the conviction that an obligation rests upon him to undertake a course of education lasting throughout his life.
