NEBRASKA WELCOMES BRYAN.

You are coming, Col. Bryan, from the sickly southern swamp, and well we should be glad to greet you with some military pomp.

You are coming, Col. Bryan, from the scenes of war and strife. To enjoy the better portion of a peaceful civil life.

You are coming, Col. Bryan, and I hope you'll state to me what your secret plan and purpose for the future is to be.

You are coming, Col. Bryan, and I'm glad to see you come, far from miasmatic regions and the blare of rifle and drum.

You are coming, Col. Bryan, to Nebraska, that is plain; we will bid you hearty welcome, we will meet you at the train.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLATFORM.

Plainly Declared by Mr. McKinley in His Speeches in the South.

President McKinley, while traveling through states which voted for Bryan, said at Savannah: "Our financial and revenue policies cannot be changed for at least four years, and whatever legislation may be had affecting them during that period will be to improve and strengthen, not destroy them."

The president somewhat slyly intimated that even those who might desire different internal policies—and cannot get them—have the satisfaction of sharing in the prosperity that comes from confidence in permanence, and from absence of the fear of change.

Having thus announced the platform, to which he and his party and the majority of his fellow-citizens are devoted for internal affairs, the president gave his views of what may be called the country's foreign policy.

The president somewhat slyly intimated that even those who might desire different internal policies—and cannot get them—have the satisfaction of sharing in the prosperity that comes from confidence in permanence, and from absence of the fear of change.

It becomes a historical picture when the president of the United States takes the occasion of a visit to a section of the country once in revolt to declare frankly the policy and its declaration are timely. The country is thus given a large disclosure of where it is and whether it is tending.—Troy Times.

PRESS OPINIONS.

No man ever in the white house was more popular with the masses than is the present occupant.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

He is the first republican president who has been regarded as truly the chief magistrate of the entire union. He is so regarded, and has been treated accordingly.—N. O. Picayune (Dem.).

Mr. Bryan says that the democratic platform of 1900 will include free silver and anti-expansion. It would be characteristic of the democratic party to favor freedom for materials and oppose freedom for men.—Troy Times.

The next national democratic platform, according to Mr. Bryan, will be a repetition of the Chicago platform with a new plank opposing expansion. Nothing more will be needed to insure a republican walk-over.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

One peculiarity of President McKinley's speeches which doubtless helped to arouse the enthusiasm of the southerners is noticeable in the fact that his tributes to the south were extemporaneous instead of encyclopedic.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Surviving confederates, their sons and the sons of their dead comrades in arms, no matter how they may differ from Maj. McKinley on questions of policy and the practicalities of government, will never cease to regard him with friendship and gratitude for the brave and healing words he has spoken above the grave of sectionalism.—St. Louis Republic (Dem.).

THE SPIRIT OF PROGRESS.

An American Birthright That Cannot Be Denied Nor Spoiled.

President McKinley said in a historic document that the purpose of this country was not aggressive. The document itself and the results which followed it proved that while the national spirit is not aggressive it is progressive.

That this indomitable progress is the American birthright was illustrated conspicuously at the annual dinners of the New England societies of New York and Brooklyn. The societies themselves are witnesses to the persistence from generation to generation of the spirit of the Mayflower.

The Puritan who, as has been humorously said, "first fell upon his knees and then upon the aborigines," did both because he could not help it. It was the union of faith and works, on which the world's progress has been based.

OUR CHEAP MONEY.

A Direct Result of the Sound Money Policy of Republicans.

Heretofore those advocating the free and independent coinage of silver have based one of their favorite arguments upon the assumption that the United States is a borrowing nation, and that a cheap and larger volume of money at home was necessary to deliver the American people out of the grip of the foreign money lender.

The roll call showed 27 of the 37 republican members of the senate present and 81 of the 127 members of the house, a total of 108. Later Representative Harold, of Senator Quay's county of Beaver came in, increasing the total to 109. He voted for Quay.

Senator Merriek, of Tioga, who had been selected to place Mr. Quay in nomination, did his work well. When he had finished with the mention of the name of Quay the vast crowd present was brought into prolonged applause.

Speaker Farr made a brief speech explaining why he would vote for Mr. Quay, as did also Senator McCarroll, of Dauphin, and Representative Adams, of Philadelphia; Kreps, of Franklin; and Harris, of Clearfield. Then Senator Magee, of Allegheny, the man who is looked upon by many as being a possible successor to Senator Quay, took the floor.

WON IN CAUCUS.

Mr. Quay Secures the Nomination for Senator.

He Receives 109 Out of the 164 Republican Votes in Pennsylvania's Legislature—The Others Were Absent—Opponents Claim His Defeat is Certain.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—Despite the efforts of the opponents of Senator Quay to secure a postponement of the senatorial caucus until a later date, the adherents of the senator carried their point last night and secured the endorsement of their favorite by 109 of the 164 republican members of the legislature.

THE SENATORIAL INSTINCT.

A Detroit Cat That Was Likened Into the Luxurious Statesman.

"I guess I just about have the blue-ribbon cat story," declared one of the employees at a Detroit depot. "We had a big tom here that was a favorite for months. He never did anything worse than to whip an occasional dog that came prowling about, or scratch some kid that wanted to carry him off."

"So another of the boys and myself slipped Tom into a box car, and sent him to Chicago. There was no chance for him to escape, for it was a tight box car, with the doors sealed, and bolted through."

Two weeks later there came a carload of furniture from Chicago, and after it had been shunted to a side track the work of unloading was begun. The men scattered when they saw a pair of fiery eyes working toward them through chair legs and over carpet rolls.

The Ills of Children.

Dr. Hartman offers his advice to parents on the treatment of coughs and colds.

LEARN to guard against colds. Nearly all the ill of children begin with taking cold. If your child catches cold don't wait a moment before attacking that cold.

To the ignorance or neglect of parents is due the fatal termination of many children's complaints.

If you are not informed as to the proper course to pursue to drive off a child's cold, write to Dr. Hartman, president of the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, O., for advice, and ask for some of his free books which contain the most pertinent facts about colds and coughs and all catarrhal diseases.

Pe-ru-na, Dr. Hartman's great prescription, is wholly vegetable. It wards off colds entirely if taken at the beginning in proper doses. It breaks up settled colds quickly; it is scientific and safe; there is no mystery about it. Dr. Hartman's books tell just how it acts and why. All druggists sell it.

Mrs. C. T. Rogers, Elgin, Ill., says: DEAR SIR:—Your medicine saved my baby's life. We stopped all treatment but yours, and now he is a beautiful boy. It was certainly a miracle.

Mrs. Becking, East Toledo, O., writes to the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co.: DEAR SIR:—Pe-ru-na is the best medicine I ever had in my house. My children had a bad cough, and one of them had the lung fever. I cured them all with Pe-ru-na.

Proper knowledge of the treatment of coughs and colds is of the first importance to parents. This knowledge is offered free. All catarrhal diseases succumb to Pe-ru-na.
