Mainly Words.

For weeks prior to the acquittal of Senator Quay for conspiracy to use the funds of the state deposited in the People's Bank, well informed people knew that the evidence to be introduced was not deemed sufficient for prosecution. At the close of the State Senate a resolution was offered, calling on the Attorney General to commence proceedings against those persons charged with receiving interest on state deposits in the past years. Of course this was a move to strike at Senator Quay. Hon. J. H. Cochran, of Lycoming, the Democratic leader of the Senate, moved to lay the resolution on the table, which motion he carried by a vote of 33 yeas to six nays. Senator Cochran, whom everybody knows is not identified with Senator Quay or his friends, when interviewed, said of the charges against Senator Quay: "I happen to know that the papers in this case were submitted to former Attorney General McCormick with a view to have him take some action on behalf of the Commonwealth. After a careful inquiry into the facts, Mr. McCormick decided that there was no foundation upon which a prosecution either criminal or civil could be brought against Senator Quay." Senator Cochran is not a pean-ut politician; he is too broad gauged in his composition to set by and allow an injustice done to a political foe and his manly words upon this occasion are not surprising to those of our people who know the gentleman and respect him for his life-long record of fairness and justice at all times to his political opponents. Character assassins will have to turn to other men than Senator Cochran to blacken the characters of honored citizens and wreck the homes of esteemed gentlemen. He is too large a man for that and knows the hard knocks required to climb the ladder from a poor boy to his present honored position in the business world, society and politics.

An Emporium Girl Becomes a Voter.

WICHITA, Kan., April 13, 1899.
To the Editor of the Press.

DEAR SIR:—In response to your request, I will endeavor and be pleased to tell you a little something about my experience as a voter away out here in Kansas. It was a real novel treat to me.

For months previous to the election, all you could hear was, "have you registered yet; and whom are you going to vote for?" It was very amusing, and especially so to hear the ladies lauding up their different candidates. The ladies are all called for and if they so desire are driven to the polls; both sexes voting at the same place. You are asked your name and the ward you live in and if the same is found on the books you are given your ticket, then you enter a booth and as the "Lord's of Creation" do, you have the same privilege to affix your little X after any name you choose. It is all done very quietly, modestly and quickly; in no way injurious or degrading to the honor or dignity of a true lady, as the best ladies of the city voted. I must say I thoroughly enjoyed it (only when it came to the registering, then you must tell your age—not how many summers) and was anxious to learn the results. I was elated when I heard the Republican mayor was elected—he was the important candidate to vote for. Ladies here are only privileged to vote for municipal officers.

I am sure all the ladies and girls in Emporium would enjoy the sport of voting. It would be no trouble then, Mr. Mullin, to get elected. I know all the ladies would give you a vote. All the gentlemen are very liberal and courteous, when it nears election time, as they want the ladies' votes and not all of them vote as their husbands and sweethearts dictate. In all, I would not have missed voting for anything; it is very good fun and interesting, making one feel the importance of American citizenship. Whether or not it will prove a benefit to the female portion of the world, remains to be seen. It suffices now, if nothing more, for the fun and privilege of being up with the men. You must try and give us a little of this fun in Pennsylvania, Mr. Mullin.

With kindest regards, I remain,
Yours truly,
MARGARET McDONALD.

The writer of the above, Miss Margaret McDonald, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McDonald, of Emporium. She has been in Kansas almost two years, making her home with relatives. Miss McDonald is a bright, very intelligent and well posted young lady, especially upon the leading questions of the day. Unlike her father, she is a red-hot Republican and when at home here "Angus" has to keep mum on politics, if he does not want to be wound up like a ball. We can assure our lady friend that we hope, at some future day, to see the Pennsylvania ladies accorded the right of suffrage upon all municipal questions. Why not?

To the School Directors of Cameron County.

GENTLEMEN:—In pursuance of the forty-third section of the act of May 8, 1854, you are hereby notified to meet in convention at the Court House in Emporium on the first Tuesday in May, A. Convention will be called to order at 1:30 p. m.

Surprise to the Pastor.

Last Friday evening a large party of ladies and gentlemen called on Rev. Shriner and family to pay their respects, the occasion being the Rev. gentleman's thirty-ninth birthday. They were received in a very hospitable, open-hearted, Methodist style and were made to feel at home. Those who attended enjoyed the occasion hugely.

Anthony Hope's Latest Romance.

Anthony Hope's new romance, "The Countess Emilia," beginning in the May Ladies' Home Journal, will be read with the greatest interest by its author's admirers in this country. In the very opening chapter the readers curiosity is aroused in the liveliest possible way. The story is in Anthony Hope's characteristic vein, and carries one's interest as unwaveringly as did "The Prisoner of Zenda," with which he entertained and delighted every lover of a good story well told.

Burial of Mrs. Katharine Welsh.

The Press last Thursday contained the announcement of the sad death of this excellent lady, leaving three small children orphans. The funeral was held last Saturday morning from the residence of the deceased on Walnut street. The attendance was very large and silently the cortege wended its way to St. Mark's church, where Mass was said over the remains of the dead. Father Downey delivered a touching address and spoke eloquently of deceased's many christian qualities. The large church was filled with our citizens, of all creeds—called to pay a last mark of respect to a kind mother and dutiful daughter. The attendance of friends from out of town was very large and testified to the respect in which the deceased was held, especially so at her old home in Sterling Run. The Lady Maccabees attended the funeral in a body.

The following friends from abroad attended the funeral: John Wade, (brother) Scranton, Pa.; James Wade, (brother) Clarendon; Frank Wade, (brother) Falls Creek; William Wade, (brother) Sterling Run; Mrs. F. G. Hoag, and Miss Agnes Wade, (sisters) Sterling Run; John Welsh, (brother) Waymart, Pa.; A. Kinney and Mrs. Riley, (cousins) Renovo, Pa.; Mrs. Mary McGuire, Buckwalter; Miss Lizzie Foley, Scranton.

If you do not, you should take the Press.

BRIEF MENTION.

Our neighboring town, Cameron, will soon be depopulated unless something soon strikes it to revive its depressed condition. This week three families leave—E. C. Johnson and family and Fred Schwab and wife, to Johnsonburg; Frank Linniger and wife, to Coudersport.

I licked a dozen stamps to-day for telegrams I sent; I licked and stuck one on a bill with which I paid my rent; I licked a stamp to paste upon a note which I renewed. And then I licked another one to make a mortgage good. I've licked these stamps to show that I respect my country still, and now I'd like to lick the man who introduced that bill.—Ex.

The girls who give way to a desire to gad about the streets and cultivate the acquaintance of young men who act the simpering simpleton is laying the foundation for a useless after life. Ten to one after she is married she will develop into a slatternly gossip, if no greater misfortune befalls her. It is the girl of good sound sense, the girl that loves home and helps mother that wins the model husband and becomes an ornament to womanhood. The girl that does this and devotes some of her time to reading tries to win the esteem of everybody, while the gadding street ornament wins the admiration of those whose admiration is not worth having.—Ex.

Secretary Edge of the State Department of Agriculture has recently issued Bulletin No. 44 of the Department which, as long as the supply lasts, will be sent to all applicants free of cost by address: Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, Pa.

The Bulletin, in addition to showing the analysis of each fertilizer also shows the price per ton at which each was sold at the point at which the samples were selected, and also the comparative commercial value per ton, thus enabling the reader to judge at a glance which of the different grades appear to be best worth the price asked for them. All samples were drawn without the knowledge of the manufacturer, by sworn agents of the Department and may be taken as fairly representing the different brands as sold to farmers in the state.
