A DEMOCRATIC BOOMERANG.

Dastardly Attack Upon Colonel Barnett Quickly Reacts.

SOLDIERS REFUTE CHARGES.

Officers and Men of the Fighting Tenth and Self Respecting Citizens Generally Denounce a Cowardly Campaign of Character Assassination.

(Special Correspondence.)
Harrisburg, Oct. 31.—One of the most unjustifiable and dastardly attacks ever made upon a public man has been sprung by the Democratic state committee against Lieutenant Colonei James E. Barnett, the Republican nom-inee for state treasurer. The man-agers of the Democratic machine have agers of the Democratic machine have had agents at work for weeks upon a scheme to question the soldierly conduct of the gallant officer who returned from the Philippines in command of the "Fighting Tenth" regiment, after the death of the brave Colonel Hawkins. Lieutenant Colonel Barnett, who was Colonel Hawkins' chief supporter in his regiment, and who was by him. in his regiment, and who was by him directed to take command of the regi-ment when he was stricken with ill-ness, has in the closing days of an exciting political canvass been charged with cowardice on the field of battle. In their desperation to score a point in their losing fight the Democratic politicans have over reached themselves and the attack upon Colonel Barnett has proven a boomerang for the De-mocracy. It will bring him thousands of votes he might not have otherwise gotten. Many Democrats have declar-ed their supreme contempt for a leader-ship which would resort to such despicable means to gain a point in a political campaign.

Officers and men of the Tenth regiment have quickly refuted the slanderous statements circulated about their commander. Their declarations have been published in the Harrisburg Telegraph, Pittsburg Commercial Gazette and other papers. and other papers.

Following are a number of interviews and extracts from signed statements from members of the Tenth regiment published in these papers:

SAW HIM UNDER FIRE.

SAW HIM UNDER FIRE.

Orderly Charles Pastor, of Harrisburg, who was with the Tenth regiment from the time it left Mt. Gretna until it returned from the Philippines among other things says:

"I have seen these villainous and outrageous charges against Lieutenant Colonel Barnett. They are false in every respect. No man in the regiment had a better opportunity of observing Colonel Barnett than I, because I was Colonel Harwkins' orderly and saw the colonel and lieutenant colonel every day we were in service. These charges of cowardice against Lieutenant Colonel Barnett were sprung for political effect—to defeathm for state treasurer—but they are false, outrageously and maliciously force. It is a shown teatted the state of the service o false, outrageously and maliciously false. It is a shame to attack the character of so good and true a soldier—a commander who, so far as I know, was beloved and trusted by every man under him.

under him."
"Did you ever see Colonel Barnett hiding behind embankments, trees, rocks or fences, or in any way show signs of cowardice while the regiment was in action or neglect his duty in any particular manner?" he was asked, "No, never," replied Orderly Pastor, very emphatically. "I was appointed orderly by Colonel Hawkins about two months after we arrived in the Philippines, and served as such until the regiment was mustered out of ser-vice. I was at Colonel Hawkins' head-vice. I was at Colonel Hawkins' head-quarters all the time, and ronsequently saw both officers every day."

"Do you know whether there was any friction or ill feeling existing be-tween Colonel Hawkins and Lieutenant Colonel Barnett?" asked the reporter. "No there was none" was the week.

"No, there was none," was the reply.
"On the contrary," he continued, "the best of friendship and fellowship existed between Colonel Hawkins and Lieutenant Colonel Barnett. The two officers spent much of their time in omeers spent much of their time in each other's company and a bond of brotherly love existed that could not be severed. Why, when Colonel Haw-kins died, Lieutenant Colonel Bayas completely unnerved and he broke wn and wept like a child. "At the battle of Guiguinto bridge, at which place these lying reports say that Colonel Barnett showed the whit feather by hiding behind a rice dyke, I carried dispatches from Colonel Hawkins to Lieutenant Colonel Barnett. saw Colonel Barnett in the thickest of the fight. He was up me nir men to greater activity and in his c deaver to steady his men he exposed himself to a perfect hail of Filipino bullets. During the engagements at De La Lome church, Marialo and Malolos I also carried dispatches from Colonei Hawkins to Lleutenant Colonel Barnett, and in each and every one of these battles I found Lieutenant Colonel Barnett with his battalion. In every engagement I saw him where the bullets flew the thickest, and he looked every inch the brave soldier he is.

"I can't understand why people should slander such a man as Colonel Barnett. A braver soldier never wore Uncle Sam's uniform and a kinder and more tender hearted man never breathed the breath of life. Never once did he refuse to grant a reasonable request to the men under him, and he performed many little acts of kindness that only a soldier and gentleman is capable of. It pains me to think that members of the 'Fighting Tenth' would so far forget themselves as to slander their superior officer. I can't believe the reports are true. They are wilful, malicious and outrageous lies!"

ACCUSATIONS PREPOSTEROUS. Private Frank Wall, of Company A.

Tenth Pounsylvania volunteers, says:
"I am greatly surprised and mortifed to see the slanderous midnight attacks—Aguinaldo style—upon the military record and character of Lieuten ant Colonel Barnett. The accusations are preposterous and the time of the repromulgation so clearly indicative of their baseness of purpose that I would deem them entirely unworthy of no-tice were it not for the fact that the fair name of our regiment is thus being held up to the public scorn of our country at large as the author of such silly and scandalous charges against one of the ablest and best officers of our army, whose patriotism and bravery was clearly established on the bravery was clearly established on the battle fields of Luzon, and whose hon-est and faithful service to our country as a volunteer soldier and officer ren-ders him a worthy candidate for public office at the hands of his comrades and

"Colonel Barnett's loyalty to country, to his commander while living and to his memory after death shows him to be above the plane of character assassins and worthy of the highest respect and confidence of our model without guestien and I have good citizen without question, and I be-lieve that such will be their verdict on the seventh day of next month at the

BARNETT UNDER FIRE.

Sergeant William G. Vance, who served in the Tenth regiment, Company D, and is now at Camp Meade, preparing to return to the Philippines with another regiment, says:

"I will tell you what I saw and heard at the battle of De La Lome church concerning Lieutenant Colonel Barnett, to which I will make affidavit Barnett, to which I will make affidavit if necessary. The Tenth regiment had moved fully 100 yards toward the ridge upon which the church is situated. There was an incline of space about 200 yards between the position occupied by our regiment and the South Dakota boys. We were in the advance and our position was so exposed that we were subjected to a most raking fire from the Filipinos. It was so severe that Colonel Hawkins ordered us to lie down for protection, and we were held in this position for over half an hour. During the time we lay there we heard Lieutenant Colonel Barnett firing at the Filipinos. He had a peculiar rapid firing gun, the sound of which was exactly similar to that of culiar rapid firing gun, the sound of a Mauser rifle, and could be easily distinguished from the others. Colonel Barnett kept up a steady and constant fire, and the boys made frequent comments upon his abilities as a sharp-shooter. I was lying beside Captain Hawkins, son of our colonel, who turned over and represents to the constant of the constant ed over and remarked to me, 'Barnett is giving them hell.' At the battle of Guiguinto I saw Lieutenant Colonel Barnett during the whole of the engagement, and he was always where the Filipinos' bullets fell the thickest. He inspired the men by his courage, and his actions were such that showed the kind of stuff he is made of. He didn't flinch once, and on several oc-casions I saw him in advance of him men, leading them on to victory. No man that saw him in that battle could help but admire him for his bravery and his daring. In this battle and at Malolos he commanded the Second bat-talion. At Malolos, as at the battle of Guiguinto, he was under fire all day Lieutenant Colonel Barnett gave his commands coolly, and the men under had every confidence in him."

WHAT OTHERS SAY. WHAT OTHERS SAI.

First Lieutenant R. L. Tidball says:

"I have known Colonel Barnett for a number of years and can say that all his actions in the Philippines were, ...

"I have and saw inst as solutions." far as I knew and saw, just as soldierly and brave as any. I was with him on several occasions while he was in command of the province of Cavite, and I never had reason to think that he was anything but a brave man. I am a Democrat, and I do not know whether I will vote for Barnett or not, but I am opposed to villifying him for political effect, and brand the report of his cowardice as a falsehood." Second Lieutenant J. A Ewing says: "I have known Colonel Barnett for ten "I have known Colonel Barnett for ten years, and want to say that I was with him the day he was shot. I know by personal experience that Colonel Barnett did his whole duty, whether in barracks or in the presence of the enemy; that his service was noble and faithful, and this is the most loyal tribute that can be paid to any soldier."

Quartermaster Sergeant J. M. Geetays: "I have known Colonel Barnett ince belonging to the regiment, six years, and from all I have seen of him he has always conducted himself as a soldier. He has done things that have not altogether nleased the majority not altogether pleased the majority, yet on a whole I think it was for the benefit of the regiment. I have the highest esteem for Colonel Barnett."

First Lieutenant G. L. Gordon says:

"I have seen Colonel Barnett under fire at different times, and never saw anything in his actions indicating the least sign of cowardice." Lieutenant Harhuis says: "I am not Lieutenant Harnuis says: "I am not familiar in full with the charges preferred against Colonel Barnett, but, in so far as his conduct as a brave soldier is placed in the balance, knowing what I do, I am free to say that in my opinion there is nothing in his conduct as such that would reflect discredit upon him."

Corporal J. B. Edgar, of Company B. says: "Having read the charges of cowardice against Colonel Barnett, I take pleasure in denouncing them as false, if not malicious, as his bravery and courage were never doubted by any member of the regiment, so far as I have ever heard, nor did I ever see any indication of cowardice on his part."

Corporal C. W. Brown, of Company E. says: "If Colonel Barnett is a coward, so am I, and so is every man in the regiment, but the Filipinos will not care to face such cowards every day. He never flinched while under I will face any man who charges him with cowardice and defy him to prove his statements." Captains Crago and Watson, Captain Hunter, Lieutenant Aiken, Major Neff and many others have given similar testimony

ANONYMOUS CHARGES.

These are but a few of the many testimonials for Colonel Barnett that have come from members of his regi-ment since this last hour political attack was sprung upon him. A careful reading of the publications inspired by the Democratic state committee and its allies will show that all of the important statements affecting Colone Barnett are from "a member of the Tenth regiment," or "private of Com-pany I." or "a corporal in one of the or some other whose name is not given. Here and there use is made of two or three names on unimportant matters, but wherever Colonel Barnett is unduly accused it is in some sort of an anony-mous, cowardly way. No newspaper correspondent has dared to attach his name to one of these stories.

CHARACTER ASSASSINATION. Under the caption "Character As-sassins at Work" the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, the leading stalwart Republican paper in western Penn-sylvania, says: "Character assassins are at work in "Character assassins are at work in Pennsylvania in a desperate eleventh hour effort to promote the fortunes of the Democratic party. The better ele-ment of that party, be it said to its credit, has shown a disposition to avoid mud slinging. But, unfortunate-ly for the party, it has as adherents certain knaves and fools who cannot certain knaves and fools who cannot be restrained from campaign methods that are beneath the contempt of honest men. The fact that the leaders of the party are not attempting to check these thieves and liars—thieves that seek to rob an honest man and a gallant soldier of a well won reputa-tion; liars who deal in cowardly inuendo, without the shadow of an excuse for their brazen falsehoods—shows that they are desperately hard up for campaign ammunition.

The object of the cowardly assault is Lieutenant Colonel James E. Bar-nett, candidate for state treasurer. The attack upon him is not made by military men, but by the stay-at-homes, the copperheads, the sympathizers with rebellion. Not a word of testimony that is worthy of credence have they brought forward from military men as a basis of their charges. Not a flaw exists in Colonel Barnett's military record as known to his superiors. He served many years in the National Guard, and rose step by step in rank until he was second in command in his regiment. When the war broke out he volunteered with the rest and did his duty with them. He showed his patriotism, braved the perils of Luzon swamps and Philippine fevers, Spanish and rebel bullets, while the men who now scoff at his courage sulked at home and from the safe distance of 10,000 miles invented their theories of how a soldier should fight.

"Until Colonel Barnett became a candidate for office—yes, not even until months after that event—not a word was breathed, not a suspicion raised that he was not among the bravest of the gallant Tenth, and not a voice was raised in the section of the state where he was born and reared reflecting either on his business ability or his secial standing. In all the scores of letters sent home by the Tenth boys in Manila and widely published in both the city and rural press, not a hint was dropped of any dissatisfaction. He was a hero until he consented to run for office. Then anonymous cowards arose, and in anonymous letters to the newspapers began to tell what anonymous members of the regiment had to say of their lieutenant colonel.

"The copperheads of the '60s who would not fight on either side, yet assumed to know how campaigns should sumed to know how campaigns should be fought and won, were of the same class as these latter day criminal ignoramuses, who stab in the dark. Grant was assailed for cowardice; every military hero of modern times has had the same experience. Every soldier candidate since the civil war has been attacked by men who know no more of military matters than they know of common honesty and many know of common honesty and many no more of military matters than they know of common honesty and manly principles. There are many low lived scoundrels who are willing to destroy a reputation for political gain. But their tactics meet with no encouragement from honest men in either party, and therefore do not succeed. The ment from honest men in either party and therefore do not succeed. The expectation that they will be successful in this case is an insult to the intelli-gence of Pennsylvania."

HE IS A REPUBLICAN

A Business Man Who Declined to Follow the So-Called League.

NOT HELPING DEMOCRACY.

A Prominent Philadelphian and Member ber of the Union League Repudiates Attempts to Aid Bryanite Creasy.

(Special Correspondence.) Philadelphia Oct. 31.—The masks have been torn from the men who. while claiming to be Republicans, are constantly working in the interest of constantly working in the interest of the Democracy.

J. G. Ramsdell, a well known Chestnut street merchant, was a member of the so-called Business Men's Republican League, but he is so no longer. Mr. Ramsdell is a staunch Republican and an ardent supporter of President McKinley. He was one of the first business men in this city to advocate the nomination and election of Major the nomination and election of Major McKinley to the presidency. He has been a member of the Union League for years, and he became identified with the so-called Business Men's League with the highest motives. It was his desire to aid in the advancement of Republican principles and coassist in keeping up the standard of the party organization. There was nothing selfish in his action; he was the nomination and election of Major nothing selfish in his action; he was not then, nor is he today, an aspirant for office. He has, however, found that he made a mistake as to the character and purposes of the so-called Business Men's Republican League. And there are many others who have made the same discovery. It has developed into a "one man machine," and its apparent purpose seems to be to aid the enemies of the Republican party and to assa'l and malign every Republican candidate for office who does not represent the factional and personal interests for which the so-called league stands.

A CASE OF FALSE PRETENSE.

Without daring to utter a word against the personal character, or to question the integrity of the present Republican candidate for state treasurer, Lieutenant Colonel James E. Barnett, this body recently launched into a fulsome eulogy of W. T. Creasy, the Democratic candidate for state treasurer, who, it is notorious, has been a rampant Bryanite and a blatant advocate of the Chicago platform. This so-called league has been flooding the state with literature in the interest of Creasy, and its paid agents have been industriously at work seeking to discredit the Republican organization and to give aid and encouragement to the Bryanite candidate of the Bryanite na-chine of the Pennsylvania Democracy. But the people of the state have been thoroughly informed as to the charac ter of the organization, and its frequent fulminations in the shape of matter prepared for publication in Democratic and assistant Democratic newspapers are readily recognized and promptly discounted.

promptly discounted.

Mr. Ramsdell, whose place of business is at 1111 Chestnut street, and who is one of the leading and influential citzens of Philadelphia, did not hesitate to express his opinion of the so-called Business Men's League and its methcds.

"I AM A REPUBLICAN."

"I am a Republican," said Mr. Rams-dell, in commenting upon the matter, "and I joined what is called the Business Men's Republican League with a ness Men's Republican League with a view of advancing the cause of Republicanism. I had no idea of becoming identified with an annex of the Democratic machine of Pennsylvania, nor did I suppose that I would be associated with men who would subordinate the welfare of the Republican party to selfish interests or the advancement of the ambitions of any one man. The idea of an organization supposed to be composed of Republicans and business composed of Republicans and business men aiding in a canvass to make an outspoken advocate of Bryan and the Chicago platform, Mr. Creasy, the cus-todian of the state funds of Republican Pennsylvania seems almost too absurd to be considered for a moment. The entire course of this organization has been inconsistent and ridiculous. I cannot imagine that it has more than a skeleton membership. I made an effort to procure a list of the members. There seemed to be great mystery about the personnel of the organization. When I was told that I could not have the list I immediately requested that my name be stricken from their rolls, as I informed them that I did not care to belong to any organiza tion in which I could not know who my associates or fellow members were.
That ended my connection with the Business Men's Republican League. I do not see how any Republican can belong to it consistently.
HOW REAL BUSINESS MEN FEEL.

"I have made it my business to in-quire among my business friends and acquaintances," continued Mr. Rams-dell, "as to their views on the present political situation, and the unanimous political situation, and the unanimous ceptinion prevails that the candidates on the Republican ticket will be elected by handsome majorities at the coming election. The nomination of Lieutenant Colonel Barnett, of the Fighting Tenth regiment, for state treasurer was Tenth regiment, for state treasurer was a tribute to the brave Pennsylvania boys who went to the far off Philippines to fight for their country's flag. The manly character and splendid attainments of Lieutenant Colonel Bartainments of Lieutenant Colonel Bartainments. nett, his admitted ability and undoub ed integrity are generally recognized, and attempts of the Democracy or their allies to detract from the laurels he has won will be indignantly resented by the people at the polls. The other candidates on the Republican state ticket, Messrs. Brown and Mitchell, are men of sterling worth and, with the candidate for state treasurer, make an exceptionally strong ticket, one which every Republican in Pennsylvania should be proud to support."
