A special from Kenton, O., runs along with the coffee mill. Albert Hart, a jeweler of Mount Victory, made a most peculiar find a few days ago. He located a $200 diamond in a coffee mill. The coffee mill was broken and Mr. Hart took it apart to find what was the trouble, discovering that it had been wrecked by the action of a stone of some sort that had even cut its way into the metal of the grinders. Mr. Hart took the stone to his jewelry store, and putting it under a microscope discovered that it was a large diamond of the blue tint variety and worth from $150 to $200. It is thought that the diamond got mixed up with the coffee when the grain was screened in South Africa, where the coffee is raised. The diamond is about the size of a coffee grain and had the same dull color.

An experiment made lately at Wallack's theater, New York, tested the relative merits of advertising methods. Between the acts one night ushers handed each person in the audience a statement of the points in question and requested that a check mark be placed to indicate whether the advertisement consulted had been in a newspaper, on bill boards, a window lithograph or something else. At the end of the next act the ushers collected 1,100 answers, and of these the check mark in 991 cases was placed opposite "newspaper advertisement." As a result of this practical trial the manager will devote ten-elevenths of his advertising fund to newspaper announcements.

As usual, a bill has been introduced into congress reducing letter postage to one cent for each half ounce. At present the rate is two cents an ounce or fraction thereof. A great number of letters that pass through the mails weigh a half ounce or less, and on these there would be a saving. The obstacle in the way of reduction is the deficiency of postal revenue. Abuse of second class mail privileges makes a deficiency of nearly $20,000,000, and as first class mail matter is the only one that is carried at a fair profit a reduction to one cent a half ounce would result in a loss.

Rochester, N. Y., boasts of a twoyear-old child that "rides a bicycle fearlessly about the streets, passing in and out among a jumble of teams, automobiles and trolley cars that cause many a more experienced rider to hesitate or get off and walk." Poor child! remarks a humane contemporary. Is there no society for cruelty to children in Rochester? Of course, experienced riders hesitate, and so would the child if it knew its danger. Rochester should boast of something else.

The other day a man in Goshen paid an enormous price for a pup, says the Times, of that town. His wife lectured him for his folly, and to prove the dog's worth he said he had left his gloves at the office and would send the dog for them. The expensive pup was gone about ten minutes, and then came back. wagging his tail and holding a lady' belt in his mouth. Then there was a lecture over more than finance. The next day the pup was given away.

A Missouri man called a neighbor a liar over the telephone. It was a party line and several people were listening. #### THE JEFFERSONIAN IDEA.

Basis of the Recommendations of the Philippine Commission.

In the first half of its full report the Philippine commission confronts the anti-expansionists with the recommendation that at the very outset there be granted to the people of the Philippines "larger liberties of self-government than Jefferson approved of for the inhabitants of Louisiana' when the territory at that time known by that name had been purchased by the United States.

The commission believes that it will be safe, expedient and desirable to grant to the inhabitants of the archipelago a large measure of home rule in local affairs. "Their towns should enjoy substantially the rights, privileges and immunities of towns in one of the territories of the United States," says the report. The provinces should be turned into counties and vested with substantially the same functions en-joyed by counties in the home territories. The report goes into the details of the plan for such a form of territorial government, which plan is mcdeled, like all bills for territorial organization which have been enacted from time to time by the congress after the plan of organization which in 1804 was adopted for the newly ac quired territory of Louisiana, of which Thomas Jefferson outlined the first sketch and which he approved in its completed form. In this connection the commission directs atention to the fact that in 1803, when there was considerable dif-ference of opinion as to the disposition that should be made of Louisiana. President Jefferson evidently became irritated by opposition within the territory to the plan of government proposed for it, for he complained that "although it is acknowledged that our new fellow citizens are as yet as incapable of self-government as children yet some cannot bring themselves to suspend its principles for a single mo-

The absurdity and impossibility of the "independent republic under American protectorate" plan which Aguinaldo is believed to have had in mind and which Mr. Bryan is advocating, are clearly shown by the commis-sion. Referring to the protectorate

"Under the chimerical scheme of protection cherished by Aguinaldo, if a foreigner lost his life or property through a missearriage of justice in a Philippine court, or in consequence of a governor's failure to suppress a riot, then the United States would be responsible for indemnity to the foreigner's government, without possessing the power of punishing the offenders or of preventing such maladministration, or of protecting itself against similar occurrences in the future. Nor could the liability to foreign nations be reduced without permitting them directly to seek redress, and such a course would, it is to be feared, speedily lead to the appropriation of the Philippine islands by the great powers, who would not need to seek far for pretenses for intervention."

The report is so voluminous that it

The report is so voluminous that it is impossible to discuss even one part of it-that relating to a form of government that would be safe and satisfactory—in detail. In general, it can be said that the plan is in accordance with a precedent that was established nearly a hundred years ago and which has remained unshaken and unques tioned until now, and that it holds out to the people of the Philippines as lib-eral a portion of self-government as they could reasonably expect.—Albany

Bryan is engaged in the task of instructing the eastern democrats in the details of his renomination and the making of a platform for him to stand upon. Of course, it has never occurred to the silverite that it would be possi-ble to choose any other candidate.— Cleveland Leader.

Mr. Bryan continues to talk about this country adopting "the money policy of England." It is not England alone that is now governed by the gold standard, but every country of consequence in Europe. Fully 95 per cent. of the exported agricultural products of the United States are sold in gold-standard countries. And this country with nearly $1,000,000,000 in gold and $500,000,000 of silver money, is practically bimetallist, while every free coinage country is silver monometallist -N. Y. World (Dem.).

INDORSED BY TELLER.

Fine Tribute to the Gold Standard by the Former Champion of Free Silver.

Senator Teller is, of course, opposed to the financial bill which is before his chamber, the principal purpose of which measure is to put the gold standard in the statutes. He dislikes the bill for several reasons, but chiefly on this account. Yet he unintentionally, and perhaps unconsciously, says a good word indirectly for it. there any necessity for this legislation to increase American credit?" he asks. "I would like to ask the senator from Thode Island (Aldrich) whether there is any trouble with American credit. Is there any other country which can sell its securities at such high prices as we can? The Colerado senator paid a fine tribute here to the merits of the gold standard which he opposes. He passed a glowing eulogy on the republican party which he has left, and which he s in the habit of denouncing. It is the gold standard which is the cause bonds rule higher on the markets of the world than do the British consols, which are Europe's gilt-edged securities. "Nobody is questioning our honesty." The senator is emphatically correct here also. Moreover, nobody will ever have a chance to question the nation's honesty while the republican party remains in control of its government. Teller is unquestionably correct on both points. The credit of bonds rule higher on the markets of come, in complete charge of its af-

No other man who has ever been on the silver side has as much brains as Teller, exide has as much brains as Teller, exide and Lones has the denartment stating that I wished back to the republican party, as shown by the fact that in the recent county elections it chose 181 republican offi-cials, as compared with only 81 democrats and only 216 of all the nonrepubous. Moreover, he is putting himself in a false position, and is liable to have his motives and ideas misunderstood. Though ostensibly an anti-republican and an anti-gold standard man, he has just furnished an impressive tribute to the beneficence of the gold standard and to the financial sanity and courage of the republican party.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

POINTING TO LINCOLN.

A Favorite Trick of the Megaphonic Mouthpiece of the Renegade Democracy.

It is a favorite trick of his to try to justify himself by pointing to something that Lincoln is said to have said or done, and when in a tight place he always refers to Lincoln He does so without authority and has upon many occasions been caught in his falsehoods, but deceit seems to be the principal trait of the man's make-up, and on and on he goes on the broad road of falsehood that leads to defeat and ruin to whomsoever travels it. In Minneapolis the other day he made a speech and quoted disconnected tences from a supposed speech of Lincoln, in which that great man criticised a democratic administration for its conduct of the war. He attempted to justicriticism of President McKinley by this speech. The speech made by Lincoln was made on January 12, 1848, and the last battle of the Mexican war had been fought on September 12 of the preceding year. President Lincoln held his peace while the war was being fought, and gave no comfort to the enemy, but Bryan is now comforting the Filipinos with his stand against our flag, and in reality can be called the leader of the Filipino army. When the war is over Col. Bryan and all others may criticise the war and the nation all they please, but when they do so now they can be naught but traitors. "Col." Bryan's speech at Minneapolis is only another proof that he is the living personification of deceit and falsehood Iowa State Register.

MACRUM SPEAKS.

Ex-Consul to Pretoria Breaks His Silence.

He Says He Came Home to Tell State Department Officials About Affairs in South Africa, His Corres-pondence Being Held Up by a British Censor at Durban.

Washington, Feb. 15 .- The following statement was given out last night by Charles E. Macrum, former United States consul to Pretoria:

States consul to Pretoria:
"The situation in Pretoria was such that, first, as an official, I could not remain there while my government at home was apparently in the dark as to the exact conditions in South Africa. Secondly, as a man and citizen of the United States I could not remain in Pretoria carrificiar, processing main in Pretoria, sacrificing my own self-respect and that of the people of Pretoria while the government at home continued to leave me in the position of a British consul and not an American consul. There was not one request made of me through the department of state looking to the care of British interests in Pretoria which I did not fulfill.

In the face of this, Americans were continuthe gold standard which is the cause of the Advancement in the credit of the United States. Teller will be compelled to do the same in the very near future. His state is drifting back to the republican party, as shown American, whom I had known for more than a year, could take charge of the office until my return. In re-ply to this dispatch, which was for-warded without delay, I received from crats and only 216 of all the nonrepublican elements of the state in combination, and these number eight distinct parties or factions. "'Sail 18th, by Naples.' "Sail 18th, by Naples."
"This cablegram was sent on the 8th, and a few days later I received a telegram from Mr. Hollis, consul at Delagoa bay, stating that he had been instructed to come to Pretoria to take charge of my office during my absence, and until a man should arrive from Washington. ## MATTER OF DOUBT.

The Train Boy Knew People Pretty Well, But He Had a Guess Coming.

"One day last fall," said a well-known Montana man, "I was riding on a train in my state and got to be on pretty fair terms with the train boy by buying a few of the things he had to sell. It was not a very formal kind of a train, and when the boy had finished his rounds he came over to sit with me and 'chin a bit,' as he said. I was willing enough, as he was a sharp lad and there was nobody else to talk to, and he went right at things.

"Do you know,' he said, 'that I can tell by looking at a man mighty near what he is. Now, there's that fellow over there in the corner, he's a Chicago drummer. I can tell him by the way he lets his money go and the flip style he has when he talks to people. And that chap over there with the silk hat on, he's a preacher from a country town, I'm dead sure, and I'll go ask him if you say so.'

"I didn't say so, because I didn't care a continental, and the boy went on with his descriptions of the people on the train. At last I asked him what he thought I was. I had on a pretty flashy suit of light stuff and was thinking I was looking pretty well, so I was willing to risk the boy's venture. He looked me over for a full minute very carefully."
