EDITORIAL MENTION.

The Democratic platform-makers will soon be making room for a little sympathy for the Sultan of Turkey.

Western packers paid $4.80 per 100 pounds for beef in 1896. But they paid $6.20 in 1899. The farmers got the increase. Do they want to go back to Democratic prices?

The New York Central Railroad and its employees have reached a satisfactory understanding, and the walking delegate and the Democratic politicians are correspondingly sad.

S. P. Florence, a Western stock raiser, says that "shearers are paid 7 cents a head and board, this season; quite an advance over the price paid in recent years." This is another argument in favor of protection for wool.

An advance of 10 per cent in the wages of the employees of the West Virginia oil companies is announced. This will hardly mix with the cold water the Democratic editors are trying to throw on prosperity.

Certain Democratic Representatives who refused to sign a partisan report on the shipping bill so as to enable the party managers to make political capital out of the measure are now denounced by some of their party colleagues as traitors to their party.

Internal revenue collections, in 1895 and 1896, cost 2.62 per cent of the money collected. In 1899 only 1.50 per cent of these revenues was chargeable to collection expenses. A Republican administration is always careful of the people's money.

Idaho's bank deposits amounted to $904,412 in 1894. Last year they were $1,358,668, showing an increase of $454,-256 in five years. A better demand for lead and protection to wool were the main factors in bringing about this prosperity under the Republican administration.

A member of the Democratic National Committee is reported to have "censured" Democratic Representatives Chanler, Small and Ransdell because they filed a report on the shipping bill strained to inflict pain and disapin accordance with their honest convictions, and which report makes it impossible for the Democrats to make a partisan matter out of the shipping question.

was worth 45% cents a bushel in the New York market. Silver was worth 59% cents on the same day. In 1896, at the time of Bryanic prophecies as to free silver, corn was worth only 211 cents on the farm. But it has kept on advancing in price under the gold

Out of seven Democrats on the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee three are for subsidies and against free ships and four are for free ships and against subsidies. The Republican ten members of that committee are united in behalf of subsidies. And yet the bill remains upon the calendar unconsidered.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and procured a bottle of this remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others

POINTED COMMENT.

It is safe to predict that the Philadelphia platform will not be framed by a committee of professional gloom mongers.

Matches was a dollar a gross cheaper last year than in 1895. That was not much of a burden on the workingman or his wife.

The American voters have always resented the efforts to substitute faction for facts. They will not change their policy this year.

The invitation to the selfish Mr. Bryan to retire in favor of the unselfish Mr. Cleveland had not been accepted up to the time of going to Exports of corn in 1895, under free trade, were only 28,585,405 bushels. In 1898 and 1899, under protection, they averaged 200,000, 000 bushels each year.

Mr. Croker will have to hurry home to look after the honest Tammany comptroller who slopped into office through a mistake of the

With coffee down to $7\frac{1}{2}$ cents a pound, as against nearly 18 cents in 1895, there has not been much increase in the cost of this breakfast table luxury under President McKinley's administration.

As a legislative proposition, the payment of subsidies to American ships in the foreign trade commands the support of three-quarters of the House Committee that considered a bill of that character.

In 1894 there were only 231,848,-596 bushels of wheat retained for home consumption; in 1899 the quantity retained was 452,530,285 bushels. In 1894 there were thousands of people too poor even to buy bread. In 1899 everybody could buy bread. These two comparisons represent the different conditions of the country under Democratic and Republican administrations.

The free trade papers wince under the oft-repeated statement which they cannot deny that foreign ships earn and take out of the United States each year $200,000,000 for carrying American imports and exports. There is no satisfactory answer possible to the suggestion that by paying this money to American ship owners the result would be to keep the money at home, employing our own people instead of employing aliens abroad.

Senator Vest and Quay.

Senator Vest, in explaining his vote against the seating of Quay to a reporter of the Washington Post, said that he always voted against the constitutional power of a Governor to appoint a Senator after the legislature, with full opportunity, had failed or refused to elect. reason of my voting against Mr. Quay, and, right or wrong, it will be a lifetime sorrow that I was conpointment upon my best friend He is an open, generous foe, and his opponents always know where to find him. Not a word even of criticism was uttered against Quay in the debate, and if he had been attacked I would have spoken as a personal friend in his defense. I sincerely hope," said Senator Vest in conclusion, "that he may be elected by the legislature of Pennsylvania next winter, and when he comes back to the Senate none will welcome him more cordially than myself. If the Republicans of Pennsylvania will take advice from a Democrat they will elect him, for I know personally that no one can serve the state more efficiently than Matthew Stanley Quay."

Bryan's Blanket.

The Denver Republican tells a good story, and a true one, on pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. Lynch, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by L. Taggart. mar peating. When he was speeding across New Mexico on the Santa Fe a great crowd greeted him at the Press. "Kernel" Bryan that is worth re-little town of Gallup, and the great orator from the plains of Nebraska decided that he would speak with the people. He stepped out upon the back platform, and, after bowing his profuse thanks to the enthusiastic gathering, he delivered himself of one of his typical speeches. The people yelled themselves hoarse, and when the noise subsided the Mayor of the town presented him with a large Navajo blanket. Mr. Bryan seemed greatly pleased over the gift, and gave the crowd an additional treat by saying a few more words as the tnain was pulling out. The great man then stepped into the car and held up the blanket before the eyes of his admiring friends and a few newspaper men who were making the trip with him. As he did so he noticed a slip of paper pinned to the blanket, and, supposing that it bore some pretty little burst of sentiment about the "terrible crime of 1873," or something of that sort, he began to read it aloud to the people in the car. He had not gone far before he had discovered his mistake, but it was too late to stop, and he had to finish it. The note was as follows:

"My Dear Mr. Bryan:-Under the Republican administration the wool in this blanket sells for 22 cents a pound. Under the Demoeratic administration it sold for 6 cents. Please tell this to your constituents.

A long and sickening silence on the part of the "Kernel" followed the reading of the note, and when next the great man spoke it was about the weather and the lovely Growing Volume of Money.

The per capita man ought to be happy. For each person in the United States the amount of money in circulation is $26.12. In 1896 the figure was $21.53. An increase of over 20 per cent in the per capita within four years, making due allowance for increased population, should satisfy any one except a Populist who wants paper money to trundle around by the wagon load. More than $2,000,000,000 of money are now circulating in this country, the increase in four years reaching $492,000,000. All these dollars are recognized throughout the world as equivalent to gold. Four years ago the gold circulating in the United States was $489,000,-000. Now it is $785,000,000, an increase of 60 per cent. Has silver fallen back? Not a bit of it. The amount of silver and silver certificates in circulation has increased in four years from $558,000,000 to $931,000,000. For the first time the money in circulation has passed the $2,000,000,000 mark, and every dollar is worth 100c in gold.

Here is a Republican triumph of great magnitude, so large, in fact, that the Democratic papers never refer to it. They advocate free coinage as the only road to an increased volume of money. But in less than four years after the Chi-"This," said Senator Vest, "is the cago platform was offered to the people as the true system of finance the circulation has increased by nearly $500,000,000.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

> Last week a Democrat, of this county wrote the editor of the Venango Spectator, the official organ of the Democracy, declaring, in substance, that in case the Democratic conferees of this district nominate ex-Senator Emery, a Republican of McKean county, for Congress, that he, the correspondent, would vote for Mr. Sibley, as the choice would be between two Republicans, and he preferred Sibley to Emery. The Spectator, after filling a column of space in argument with itself, arrives at the same conclusion as its correspondent, and would favor Sibley in preference to Emery for Congress. It is but fair to say that both the Spectator and its correspondent express a preference for a straight out Democrat for Congress. But we congratulate our neighbor in his determination to support Mr. Sibley, under certain conditions. It is but a step further to make that support unconditional and unite with the Republicans in support of Mr. Sibley. That step means political salvation for the Spectator. Why don't the Demo-

All Republicans are in Line.

Republicans all over the country are in harmony on all the issues. Those of New Jersey, in their State convention to choose delegates at large to the Philadelphia convention, gave a hearty indorsement to President McKinley, not only on the issues which were at the front at the time of his nomination four years ago, "but in the wisdom and exalted statesmanship with which he has dealt with the new and complex problems of great national consequence which have since arisen." Practically all the state conventions which have been held have taken the same ground.

New Jersey was formerly about as reliably Democratic as South Carolina or Mississippi. In the Whig party's days that state usually was carried by the Whigs, but ever since the election of Taylor back in 1848 it has been Democratic with scarcely a break until a few years ago. It was carried by Pierce in 1852, by Buchanan in 1856 and by the Douglas-Breckinridge-Bell fusion in 1860. Only three states gave their electoral votes to McClellan in 1864, and one of them was New Jersey. It voted for Grant in 1872, because it thought he was less Republican than Greeley, whom the Democrats indorsed that year. The only other time in which it chose Republican electors was in 1896, but it has been carried by the Republicans so many times in state and congressional canvasses recently that it may be relied on to go strongly Republican in 1900.

The harmony among the Republicans all over the country on all the issues which will be up in the canvass this year is of vital consequence to the party. The chism which a few Democrats were predicting on account of the expansion and Puerto Rican questions is nowhere in sight. The party in all the states will be in line on all questions which will be mentioned in the platform, or which will be discussed anywhere on the stump. Union among the Republicans, of course, means victory. The only hope which even the most visionary of Democrats had for a possible triumph for his side depended upon a feud among the Republicans on some of the issues which have come to the front in the past year or two. This hope must now be dropped. There will be greater unity in the party than prevailed in 1896, because the majority of the seceders at the St. Louis convention of that year are back in the party this year, and the magnitude of the victory at the polls will be greater than it was then.--St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the infliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been aimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would east out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony the truth of this statement. One ap-lication relieves the pain, and this quick elief which it affords is alone worth many imes its cost. For sale by L. Taggart.
