Ed. Blinzler took a special for St. Marys Wednesday evening to visit Edward, Jr., who has been at that place a couple of weeks helping to do the dairy work on grandpa's farm. Ed. was a little afraid that the boy would be trying some fancy riding on the record breaker belonging to grandpa.

It has been learned from a reliable source that Hon. W. H. Andrews has struck a new and very rich vein of ore in his gold mine in Mexico which gives promise of making it the most valuable of the many rich mines in this section of country. Mr. Andrews has entered into the mining business with a determination to succeed and he has all the latest machinery procurable upon his property. In addition to mining he also has large horse and cattle ranches. The news of the ex-senator's lucky strike will be received with pleasure by his many friends in this city.—Titusville World. Ex-Senator Andrews' mine is located near the property of the Sinnamahoning Gold and Copper Mining Company, in which many of our citizens are interested and have flattering prospects.

Notes and News.

Howard & Co.'s mill resumed operations Monday noon.

J. H. Day has something special to bring to your notice this week, and he does it in a neat manner. Consult his ad. in another column.

The Emporium Furniture Company believes in keeping the people posted on their movements and accordingly had their old ad. torn down and a new one put in its place.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Baptist Church will give an Ice Cream social on the lawn of Mr. C. J. Goodnoh this (Thursday) evening. The public patronage is solicited.

L. Taggart has placed a cooling fan in his drug store, a great comfort these hot days. You can be sure to find a good cool place to drink soda water and talk politics by calling on Mr. Taggart.

Every Republican paper in the district that supported Hon. C. W. Stone for Congress are earnestly supporting Hon. J. C. Sibley. A great majority of the men who oppose Mr. Sibley were just as eagerly in opposition to Gov. Stone. Consistent.

Our farmers who are paying $1.75 a day and board for harvest hands will be pleased to hear that farmers in the central part of the county are putting up $2.00 a day for their help and are mighty glad to secure it at that price.—Conneautville Courier.

The Band of which Mrs. L. K. Huntington is Captain will hold an Ice Cream sale on the lawn of Mr. Geo. Metzger, Sr.'s, home East Allegheny avenue on Friday evening, Aug. the 10th, for the benefit of the First M. E. Church. All invited and a pleasant time assured.

When the Hon. Lewis Emery, Jr., has gotten through having fun with your Uncle Joe Sibley he will be willing to admit that Uncle Joe is no joke. He will also be anxious for the information involved in a correct answer to the inquiry of the colored gentleman, "Who frew dat brick?"—Punxy Spirit.

The safe of the Coudersport Store Co., at West Coudersport, was blown open last night and $164 taken. Of this amount were two checks, one by Penn Tanning Co. to Con Kellher for $12.46 and one pension check to Philander Shacket, for $24.—Coudersport Journal. The above store is owned by our townsman William Lawler.

Our citizens have every reason to be proud of the City Bakery, so successfully conducted by C. G. Schmidt. This establishment enjoying as it does a large trade not only at home but in adjoining towns, is very gratifying to Mr. S.'s many friends. They have a large ice cream trade in addition to the bakery department.

If Mr. Sibley, by becoming a Republican, is no longer entitled to Democratic votes, what claim has Mr. Emery, who has accepted the Democratic nomination against him and announces that he is opposed to expansion and protection, to the support of Republicans? It is a poor rule that will not work both ways.—Titusville Herald.

The shop picnics came home Saturday night, somewhat disgusted with "Laurel Run Grove" grounds, near St. Marys. The general opinion is that a more undesirable place could not have been selected for such an outing.—Renovo Record. We thought so, neighbor. Emporium is the ideal spot, where we have beautiful grounds and near home.

The Potter Journal, one of the most reliable Republican journals in the State, has entered upon its 52d volume. No county journal in the State enjoys a better reputation than this excellent paper, and we congratulate our neighbor, as well as the citizens of Potter. It is, indeed, a welcome visitor to our desk, as no doubt it is to thousands of Potter county homes.

The Adjutant General has issued his annual report containing a statement of the organized militia force of the United States, together with the number of men available for military duty, but unorganized. The grand total of organized militiamen in the several States and Territories at the last report was 106,339. Those unorganized but available for military duty aggregated 10,343,152.

Hon. L. Emery, Jr., did more in 1890 than any other half dozen men in Pennsylvania to elect Hon. Robert E. Pattison governor of this State.—Smethport Democrat. Yes, the people of this 27th district are well aware of that fact and will pay the honest Lew back in his own coin Nov. 6th. They have not forgotten that incident and many others. We believe some McKean gentlemen have a rod in soak for him.

There are very few establishments that get "all there is in the business," without a special effort. For most of them there is still something to be gained by communications addressed to the people. Usually the business notices is intended to reach a particular number of readers, and the advertiser who keeps that fact in mind in shaping his newspaper announcement is more likely to achieve his purpose than the one who aims merely at "general results."—Philadelphia Record.

Letter From Alaska.

ST. MICHAELS, Alaska.

DEAR MOTHER AND FATHER:— I am well and hope you are the same. This is the far north sure enough. I am on the U. S. A. transport steamer which I described to you in my last letter. We arrived here on July 4th, but on account of the prevailing epidemic at St. Michaels no one is permitted to go ashore. Among the many things of exciting nature occurring on our voyage was the sudden and unexpected death of our Captain who died in bed, and his wife who is on board making the trip with him did not know of his death until she called him to get up for breakfast.

We left Seattle on June 16th and were six days out of sight of land, but the seventh day we reached Chic-Nic Bay, Alaska. There is an Indian village at that point where is located a plant for canning Alaska salmon. We went in to Chic-Nic to examine some coal mines with the prospect of establishing a Naval coaling station there, and were four days investigating.

The weather here in the summer is elegant, and one evening another young man and myself went out in a row boat, rowing over to the Indian village, where I bought two deer skins for 75 cents, which I will bring home with me.

The reports about the small pox and typhoid fever epidemic at Cape Nome are not exaggerated in the least, as those maladies are raging there. We are lying out in the sea seven miles from St. Michaels, but can see the pest island and hospital ship; also four passenger steamers tied up with their human freight, quarantined of course. With the aid of glasses we can see the tents on the island.

The gold prospectors are in a discouraging condition, only about one out of a hundred is mining any gold. Laborers are scarce here and $5 a day is the wage scale. All tried to get to Nome which is 114 miles from here.

We are unloading cargo which will keep us here about three weeks after which we go to Nome. We do not carry passengers. At Nome the freight will be transferred several miles out which renders us safe from the prevailing diseases. We will be at Nome three weeks, returning to Seattle about the first of September. Be sure to have a letter there for me. We have to take good care of ourselves on board, therefore there is no occasion for alarm as to my health, and no money would induce me to get off at this camp. It is not as represented by big odds.

From your son,
WILLIAM MUNDY.

A Few Observations.

To one who is fond of studying human nature, there is no business that offers so rich a field as that of the country newspaper, in every type of human nature that has thus far been discovered. The subscription book can properly be called the index of the town's people—a reflector, so to speak. It has them all there—the good, the bad and the indifferent. You may think you are onto them all, but you are not, if at some time in the village's history you have not studied the subscription book of the newspaper office. Upon this book is the man who insists on paying for the paper in advance. He knows the exact day it expires, and on that date he makes his annual visit to the office.

But they are not all this kind; here comes part of the shadows of the business. Here is a class of fellows who, when presented with a bill of account swell up like a copperhead and get very mad, for you have wounded their dignity. They pay up and stop the paper at once.

Another kind is a fellow who, every time he meets you, duns himself. He is coming to the office right away and pay it, and apologizes for not having done so long ago. Again and again we see him and again and again, as earnest and suave as Colonel Sellers ever dared to be, he tells you he is coming to the office right away—perhaps that day.

We pass on, and here comes the fellow who never sees us. He suddenly becomes attracted to something across the street, and if he doesn't cut across between the crossings, his eyes are riveted in another direction until you pass by. Then he moves on.

But the meanest of them all is the man who claims he doesn't get the paper half the time, when it is sent to his address every week. One man who owes four years' subscription, and gets the paper every week, when asked to pay, not long since, got very mad, cut up a good deal, and then claimed he hadn't received a single copy during that time.

And there are other kinds, too, that cast their shadows amidst the little bursts of sunshine that occasionally creep into the office.—Hughesville Mail.

AFTER THE BATTLE

Some are found bleeding and sore, while others have a fit of the blues. Now if there should be any so unfortunate as to suffer from the effects of accidents we have the Balm for their pains and aches, let it be either for man or beast.

Our liniment and powders for horses or cattle are always the best.

Our medicines are pure and always get there. The prices are right, too.

Our patent medicine department is supplied with all the standard remedies and we can supply you on short notice.

Our toilet and fancy goods department we keep up to the times.

Our Prescription department receives our closest attention and all calls answered day or night. Just touch the button. In fact we are here to do business and serve the public.

M. - A. - ROCKWELL,
THE PHARMACIST.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

J. H. DAY.

Owing to circumstance over which I have no control, have concluded to drop—for the present at least—the handling of fresh meat, believing that the trade can have better service in that line, with one less market, and that I can render a much more satisfactory service to those who appreciate a complete line of first-class groceries from a clean store, with prompt and reliable service.

I desire to thank the trade for the liberal support given this house during the years it has been engaged in the handling of fresh meats, and assure you, that it will be my earnest endeavor to so improve the service in the lines which I will continue to carry, as that you will have no cause to complain. The welfare of its patrons is always the first consideration. Can't make dollars without making friends.

Will continue to handle a line of high grade salt and smoked meats. Cut Ham, cooked and in the raw smoked state. Dried Beef, Bologna, Summer Sausage, etc., etc.

Soliciting a continuance of your patronage, and promising to give you the most satisfactory service.

I am yours to serve,

J. H. DAY.

Telephone 6, Fourth St.
