Wedding Bells.

BROOKBANK—SALTSMAN.

A quiet wedding took place in Trinity church on Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. The contracting parties were Mr. James H. Brookbank and Miss Kathryn Saltsman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Saltsman, who reside on Erie avenue near Fourteenth street. Rev. Howard W. Diller, rector, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Maude Brookbank, of Driftwood, a sister of the groom. Mr. Chas. Saltsman acted as best man. A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home. The happy pair left on Day Express east for the eastern cities, where they will spend two weeks. When they return they will reside on the South Side. Both are popular young people, and if their success and happiness in life shall be measured with the well wishes that go out to them, their joys will be never ceasing.

Mr. Brookbank is an industrious young man, of straightforward, manly character. He is employed as a machinist in the railroad shops at this place. The bride is well known and a popular young lady who possesses many social and domestic accomplishments.

Among the wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Brookbank and daughters, Maude and Rachael, of Driftwood, and Mr. John A. Miller, of Dry Run.—Renovo Record.

HACKETT—MASON.

The wedding of Miss Florence Hackett and Mr. M. L. Mason took place last evening in Emmanuel Church, the beautiful ceremony being performed by Rev. J. M. Robertson, Rector of that Parish. Miss Hackett is one of Emporium's highly esteemed young ladies, and Mr. Mason, while hailing from Sterling Run, is well known by our citizens and is in every way an admirable young gentleman. They repaired to their own home, from the church, having the full equipment ready for housekeeping in the tenement of Mrs. J. F. Parsons on Walnut street. We extend our congratulations and best wishes to the happy bride and groom.

TOMPKINS—WILDMAN.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tompkins, on West Fourth St., was, on Monday evening, the scene of a pretty wedding. The contracting parties were his mother, Mrs. Augusta A. Tompkins, of Friendship, N. Y., and Mr. Cameron Wildman, of Whitesville, N. Y. The Rev. O. S. Metzler, pastor of the First M. E. Church, performed the ceremony.

Golden Wedding Festivities

MR. and MRS. RILEY WARNER.

Last Saturday evening there occurred a pleasant incident at the Warner House, in this place, that seldom falls to the ordinary man or woman—the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Warner. At 8:30 the invited guests commenced to arrive, and by nine o'clock the second-floor parlor, halls and the rooms adjoining the parlor, presented an animated appearance. Thronged in the parlor and halls, in addition to the immediate family and friends of the respected "bride" and "groom" from distant towns, states and cities, as well as a large number of home folks, assembled to help celebrate the occasion in a fitting manner, due to a respected family so many years closely identified with Emporium and Cameron county. The gathering was a very congenial one and represented almost every profession—bankers, lawyers, manufacturers, the clergy, merchants, and a small sprinkling of politicians—just the right kind of an assemblage to give the bride and groom a good, warm reception.

Promptly at the appointed time for the bridal party to make its march from the family parlors to the wedding parlor, Miss Ada Storm, of Springville, Pa., a very charming and talented young lady, seated herself at the piano, located in the west corridor, and rendered the wedding march from Lohengrin, to the strains of which the bridal party appeared, being preceded by five grandchildren as bride's maids, beautifully gowned in white—Misses Emo, Ora and Iva Cole, of Keokuk, Iowa; Misses Edna Warner and Marion Judd, and Master Warner Judd, of Emporium—followed by Rev. David Warner (brother of the groom) and Mrs. Lucy Davis, of Springville, Pa., who officiated as bridesmaid fifty years ago. Then followed the bride and groom, looking as fresh and pleasant as daisies, who took their position under a decorated canopy, surrounded by the smiling faces of family and friends. Rev. David P. Warner made a short and very appropriate address, after which Mr. and Mrs. Warner received the hearty and cordial congratulations of their friends. The bride was tastefully gowned in steel-colored lawn-down, the groom wearing the conventional black. The parlor was decorated in evergreens and American Beauty roses.

After the usual pleasantries incident to such occasions, and admiring and viewing the numerous handsome and costly presents bestowed upon the couple by their host of friends, especially the very large collection of gold coin showered upon the excellent and good wife, the guests were, for an hour, agreeably entertained by the grandchildren. Miss Ada Storm, an elocutionist of reputation, recited in fine style a selection from "Ingomar," and also rendered "The Village Gossip" in a pleasing manner. Misses Ora and Iva Cole gave a guitar and mandolin selection, to the delight of all present. Miss Emme Cole sang a solo and Miss Edna Warner rendered a piano solo, each being applauded. Little Miss Marion Judd captured the party with a recitation and Master Warner (Budd) Judd won the prize with his "Water Mill-yun" story.

The festivities were now transferred to the large dining-room, which was artistically decorated and festooned in gold and white, with smilax trimmings and yellow and white flowers, carnations and ferns in great abundance. This popular banquet hall has often looked beautiful, but never so handsome as upon this happy occasion. About one hundred guests were soon seated at the three large banquet tables, being assigned their places by Mr. N. P. Warner, day clerk at the hotel and only son of the host and hostess. After grace by Rev. Metzler, pastor of the M. E. church, a sumptuous repast was served in fine style by several handsome young ladies, and it is needless to add that all enjoyed the feast. The clock dial indicating the near approach of Sunday (the clock being carefully laid away, face down) the pleasant evening's festivities closed, and voted by all a joyous occasion.

The following relatives and friends from a distance were in attendance upon this never-to-be-forgotten celebration:

- Rev. (brother) and Mrs. David P. Warner, South Berne, N. Y.
- Mr. and Mrs. (sister to groom) David Cooms, Gloversville, N. Y.
- Mrs. C. S. French and Mr. Walter Warner (niece and nephew of groom), Austin, Pa.
- Mrs. M. B. Storm (sister to bride) and daughter, Miss Ida Storm, Springville, Pa.
- Mr. (brother to bride) and Mrs. W. T. Dunlap, Springville, Pa.
- Mr. and Mrs. (niece) Geo. Miller, Philadelphia, Pa.
- Mrs. K. D. Sampson (cousin), Binghamton, N. Y.
- Mrs. L. Davis, Springville, Pa., who officiated as bridesmaid fifty years ago.
- Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cole (daughter) and three daughters—Misses Emo, Ora and Iva—of Keokuk, Iowa.
- Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bachelder, Galion, Ohio.
- Mr. and Mrs. William Howard, Williamsport, Pa.
- Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Russell, Clarendon, Pa.
- Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Niver, Clarendon, Pa.
- Mr. and Mrs. Riley Warner have been residents of Emporium since 1868 and are known far and wide for their genial and hospitable manners; as neighbors and citizens they are kind and charitable to a fault. Although well advanced in years they are both hale and hearty, and it is hoped they may be spared to enjoy their diamond wedding. Every one of their children, as well as grand children, were present upon this important and uncommon event: Mrs. Lulu Cole, wife of John H. Cole, a prominent citizen of Keokuk, Iowa; Norman P. Warner, day clerk in the Warner House; Mrs. Lizzie Hinkle, wife of John J. Hinkle, employed in the U. S. Mint, at Philadelphia; Mrs. Maggie Judd, wife of F. G. Judd, fire insurance agent and dealer in harness goods, Emporium.

Now that this great event has passed, our genial friends will have a little time to devote to King Pedro—"gad if we don't."

A North East man and his better half were going to the theatre one evening this week. The wife said: "Dear, will you please step into my room and get my goats off the dresser?" "Your goats?" said the puzzled husband, "what new fad have you women got up now?" "I'll show you!" snapped his wife as she sailed away and came back putting on her gloves. "Are those what you mean? Humph, I'd call those kids," he said sarcastically. "I used to," she replied sweetly, "but they are getting so old I am ashamed to any longer." He took the hint.—Breeze.

Largest of Animals.

Mr. Beddard in his book on whales reminds readers that although imagination is apt to picture the giant reptiles of the Jurassic and Cretaceous periods as having exceeded in size all modern animals yet in fact there is no evidence that the earth has ever contained either on the land or in the sea creatures exceeding the whale in bulk. The mammoth was larger than the elephant, but the Ichthyosaurus could not match the whale for size, although with its terrible jaws it would doubtless have been the whale's master.

A Misunderstanding.

"Here! Where are you going?" cried the housekeeper.

"Why, lady," replied Harvard Hasben, "I don't suppose you want me to get my board here permanent?"

"None of your impertinence! Before I gave you your dinner I asked you if you were ready to go to work at once, and you said 'yes.'"

"My goodness! Did you say 'at once'?" I understood you to say 'once.' I thought you were curious about my past."—Philadelphia Press.
