LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Contributions invited. That which you would like to see in this department, let us know by post card, or letter, personally.

O. B. Tanner, of Mason, Hill, was in town on Monday. Chas. Fry, of Port Allegany, was in town one day last. He is looking fine. Fred Johnson is home from Swathmore to spend a week with his father. Miss Mary Shropp, of Lebanon, was guest of Miss Alice Montgomery last week. Miss Lizzie Ludlam, of Olean, N. Y., is spending her vacation with her parents in this place. H. Clint Olmsted, of Coudersport, was shaking hands with old friends in town on Tuesday. C. J. Miller, W. E. Barr and D. S. Logue, of Mason Hill, visited in town on Monday the 24th. Miss Kathryn Biggins, of Atlantic City, was the guest of Miss Marian Larrabee on New Year's day. Chas. Spangler and wife visited relatives in Renovo over Sunday, returning home in time for Christmas. Mr. Elmer Burlingame, principal of the Austin schools, spent the first day of the century with Emporium friends. Miss Rose Bair returned home on Saturday evening from Jersey Shore, where she visited relatives and friends. Delos Burlingame, of Sizerville, was in Emporium on Monday, enroute to Johnsonburg to see that new grandson. Miss Marian Larrabee left Tuesday afternoon for DuBois to resume her duties as teacher in the public schools at that place. Fred Zimmers, of Gardeau, was a pleasant PRESS visitor on Thursday last. The PRESS will be a visitor to the Zimmer home another year. Miss Anna Rich, of Williamsport, Pa., daughter of Dr. Rich, is passing the holidays, guest at the Wiley residence at this place. Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Mullen of Sheffield visited in town during the holidays guests of Mrs. Mullen's mother, Mrs. Michael Creighton. Chester and Charles Hockley, who attend State College, have visited their parents during Christmas week, and enjoyed themselves. J. B. Schriever, of Scranton was a pleasant PRESS caller on Saturday. Mr. S. is delighted with Scranton and is doing a large and prosperous business. Don. Douglas, of Olean, has been visiting in town the past week and having a good time with old friends. Don has grown like an elder since he moved to Olean. J. B. Schriever and family, of Scranton, visited their old Emporium friends last week and remaining here until Tuesday, when they went to Kane to spend a day with Mr. Schriever's mother and sisters there. Mr. B. W. Green visited Philadelphia last week to attend the banquet given by the Pennsylvania Club to the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association. Mr. Green is a member of the executive committee.

Thos. H. Norris and wife visited C. C. Fay and wife on Christmas. Prof. Bastian returned Monday evening from a visit to his old home during his vacation. Jos. Marshall and Clyde L. Mason, of Sterling Run, were PRESS callers on Saturday last. Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Robbins of Eldred were guests of W. B. Thompson and wife on Christmas. Don M. Larrabee returned to Pennsylvania University law school, at Philadelphia, yesterday. Miss Mildred Douglas, of Olean, N. Y., is visiting Neil Coppersmith at his home on East Allegheny avenue. H. C. Crawford and son Geo. H., are spending a few weeks in North Carolina, where they have extensive lumber interests. F. S. Coppersmith and wife did some holiday shopping in Buffalo, and report the stores there as presenting a magnificent display. Mrs. Thad. F. Moore and daughter Caroline will leave next Monday for Emporia and Lake Helena, Florida, where they will spend the winter. Jas. Davison, who has been assisting Mr. Mitchell in his drug store at Driftwood for a number of weeks, has been recreating in town a few days past. Michael Evers of Beechwood was a caller at the PRESS office a few days before Christmas, and we found him to be a very pleasant and agreeable gentleman. Miss Abby L. Metzger left this morning for Dudley, Mass., where she will enter Nichols Academy. She will visit her sister and friends at Schneectady, N. Y., for a few days en route. Miss Anna Bingeman, of Milton, is visiting R. P. Bingeman and family at this place. The young lady accompanied by Miss Della Bingeman made the PRESS office a social call, yesterday. J. S. and Mrs. Douglas and family came over from Olean last Saturday and remained over New Years, guests of S. L. Stoddard and family and C. M. Thomas and family. Geo. Johnston and wife, of Johnston, (just recently married) visited in Emporium last Thursday, en route to their home after visiting at Austin, guests of Rev. J. M. Johnston and family. Ralph Davison returned to his duties at Altoona on Wednesday, after visiting his parents at this place over Christmas. He is employed in the electrical department of the P. R. R. shops, and likes his work. Miss Maud Thomas, the energetic daughter of County Treasurer C. M. Thomas, who has been attending commercial college at Philadelphia for some time, came home to pass the holidays. She returned to her duties yesterday. C. H. Sage, of Johnsonburg, circulated around town on Saturday, shaking hands with his old time friends. The Johnsonburg machine shops, of which he is owner, is doing a flourishing business and employs a large force of workmen. Ernest Peasley, one of Rich Valley's bright and prosperous farmers, made the PRESS office a friendly call, Tuesday, and in course of conversation we discovered that Mr. Peasley, besides being a scientific farmer, is indulging in tame rabbit raising, one of the latest successes. Call again, Mr. Peasley, we like to keep posted on Valley doings. Grant S. Wiley, who has been located in the State of Washington during the past two years, found time to call on ye editor yesterday. Grant will return to the west in a short time to assume a more responsible position, that of assistant manager of a large logging company. His description of that State is interesting, but we don't believe we would care to exchange Emporium for a location in that region. Mr. Wiley reports Emmitt Tulis, who located there when he did, to be getting along nicely and will realize a handsome sum from his timber land. The PRESS has been like "a letter from home" once a week to the boys and we are certainly glad to assist them in passing away time in that faraway country. The gentlemen are bound to climb the ladder, if sticktuitiveness counts for anything. THE PRESS ALMANAC FOR 1901.—Presidential year and census-taking time offer unusual opportunities for an almanac and the advent of a new century accentuates them. Judged by the great possibilities before it "The Philadelphia Press Almanac" for 1901, which is now ready, is invaluable; its pages must be consulted daily by the thoughtful man if he would appreciate in fullest degree the happenings near and far which his paper brings him. The wealth of facts and figures, of statistics and records, contained in "The Press Almanac" illumine current happenings as no other book can. It is an encyclopedia of the past year and a guide to the future. It contains everything which a work of its standard should. The 25 cents for which it can be secured from any newsdealer or by addressing "The Philadelphia Press" will yield a better return than any other investment which can be made in this, the opening year of the 20th century. The man that can control his mouth and his tongue is greater than the one that controletlh great riches. A gift in secret is a blessed one, yet it is no good for advertising purposes.

Gets a Million. Mrs. B. N. Burlingame, of Chicago, wife of our former citizen, Mr. B. N. Burlingame, falls heir to $1,000,000. In a pretty flat at 103 Winchester avenue lives a woman who has just fallen heir to $1,000,000. The woman is Mrs. B. N. Burlingame, and the inheritance comes from the estate of Martin Cary of Newport, County Mayo, on the west coast of Ireland. Mrs. Burlingame claims to be related to most of the great families of England and Ireland. Her girlhood name was Blanche Ellen Cary, of the Carys of Newport, Ireland and Preston, England. Sir Thomas Lipton, she says is a distant relative of hers, and that she was entertained by him during his visit to America last year. The Duke d'Arcos also entertained Mrs. Burlingame last fall. The Duke of Manchester, the Earl of Lucone, the Duke of Zetland, Lord Aidland of Ashford, in Ireland, are near relatives. Her sister Elizabeth is the wife of Sir Arthur Percy Howard of Preston in England, a cousin of the Duke of Norfolk. Her mother's father was the Earl of Siligo. Mrs. Burlingame is herself of titled family, with the right to prefix "Lady" to her name. She has not done that since her boarding school days, when she was 14. Mrs. Burlingame is of average height and proportion, with large, deep violet eyes, almost black, and blue-black hair in a heavy halo and a white, almost transparent skin, with rich carmine cheeks. Her voice is the well modulated tone of Europe, beautified by the soft accent of Ireland. She has delicate hands and feet and a dignified carriage. She is an artist of ability, and treasures three gold medals for painting from the schools of Paris and Berlin. She has been around the world twice. Her home is hung with pictures of her family. Scattered about are bits of statuary and plants and flowers. She has heirlooms in large numbers. One is a thread lace shawl over 380 years old that once belonged to a Countess Sligo. Another rare piece of lace is a gown that belonged to the Countess Sligo of the past generation, Mrs. Burlingame's grandmother. It is black Spanish lace and is trimmed in panels of real jet on satin. There is a necklace of three strands of pearls and a finely mounted pin of topaz and violet and amethysts in the form of a pansy with a rose diamond in the centre among the keepsakes of Mrs. Burlingame. ROMANCE OF HER LIFE. Mrs. Burlingame is the only one of her family living in America. Before her fifteenth birthday she knew and loved one who was not favored by her family. With a determination of a first love, Mrs. Burlingame married the man despite her father's protests, and left the hills and lakes of Ireland to come to the United States. It was many years afterward that her family became reconciled to her marriage. She has one child, a boy of fifteen years, Charles. Martin Cary was an eccentric man, a philanthropist and a financier. He left much to charity, besides the millions of dollars which will go to his eight heirs. The exact amount of his estate will not be known for ten days longer, according to the Irish custom that a will is not opened until thirty days after the death. Martin Cary was a man of title, yet it was never known outside his circle of friends and his own county. He preferred to be plain "Mister" to every one. He built many schools, churches and hospitals for the people of his country, and conducted several commercial affairs to give them employment. Mrs. Burlingame says she has become so thoroughly Americanized that she could never spend all her time in England and Ireland, and that if the castle itself has been left, she will continue to live in Chicago most of the time, where she has property interests.—Hearst's Chicago American. A Deep Mystery. It is a mystery why women endure backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phebe Cherley, of Peterson, Ia., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and, although 75 years old, I now am able to do all my housework." It overcomes constipation, improves appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50 cents at L. Taggart's. Jan Free of Charge. 1901. Our New Year Announcement. To Our Customers: Many of our valued customers whose good will we have labored to secure, have dealt with us for years, which fact is pleasant evidence to us, that our efforts have not been unavailing, and we trust they are none the worse for the experience. But there may be others, who deal with us occasionally, who regard us simply as a mechanism for business purposes. True it is, that we are in business to make a legitimate profit, by which we live, but we ever have in mind the welfare of our patrons and endeavor to so conduct our business, as that there will be no reason for complaint, and when such does occur—as will happen occasionally—we are as eager for an opportunity to make right, as for your trade. We strive to make friends. So when we take this occasion to wish you a Happy New Year, we do it, not as an empty form, but as an expression of purpose on our part, to put forth more energetic effort—if that may be—to make the New Year a happy one and a profitable one, for you. Not by making costly gifts, but by rendering services to you through business relations. Whatever may be our short comings, credit us with good intentions at least, and give us an opportunity of proving what we say. EMPORIUM'S PROGRESSIVE GROCERY. J. H. DAY. Telephone 6, Fourth St.
