PERTINENT POLITICAL POINTS.

Roosevelt certainly got what he went after. Still, the correspondents who went along, will look after the mountain lynx.

Alvord has confessed to stealing some $620,000. With him in the dock should stand the careless bank officers who permitted such thefts to pass unnoticed for years.

The Chinese are willing enough to sign anything, if it will get the allies out of their country. Then they will take chances on carrying out what they have signed.

The electoral college held its meetings and cast its ballots almost unnoticed. But just think what a sensation it could have caused by electing somebody else.

We hope that the New York newspapers will now give the country a most deserved rest from the details of the Vanderbilt marriage, at least until the advent of the Vanderbilt baby.

The latest idea in the way of fraud and corruption comes from Illinois, in the suggestion that Senators there shall be chosen by secret ballot. Evidently, the legislators in that State have an eye to the main chance.

The country doesn't seem disposed to enthuse very much over the suggestion of Mr. Hill for Democratic nominee in 1904. Texas, it is true, has invited him to speak there, but then Texas would vote for a yellow dog on the Democratic ticket.

Every attempt to secure action on the Nicaraguan canal bill always meets with opposition on one ground or another. The latest to object being Senator Daniels, of Virginia, who says, "the subject is not yet thoroughly understood."

Senator Hanna is determining that the country shall not be deceived by the cloud of falsehood and misrepresentation stirred up in regard to the subsidy bill by its enemies. He has accordingly inaugurated a campaign of education that will go far to set this measure rightly before the voters of the country.

The execution of the British peace commissioner by the Boers may be unfortunate, but it is war, and just as justifiable as was that of Andre in the American revolution. Any man who visits an enemy's camp to try to persuade his troops to desert their cause is just as liable to death as one who seeks to bribe an officer to betray his post.

The present opposition to the army bill is largely disingenuous. The bill does not give the President any power to increase the army. It fixes its size at 100,000 and then empowers him to decrease it if he thinks it advisable.

Quay's Triumph.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Mr. Quay," says the New York Times, "is reported to be exceedingly pleased with his 'vindication' secured through his re-election to the United States Senate."

Well, why should he not be? But the Times goes on to remark that "of course, in no rational and honorable sense has he been vindicated at all."

We submit that this New York journal insults the people of Pennsylvania when it gives vent to its spleen in this manner.

The ignorance displayed by the New York newspapers of all things outside of the narrow confines of Manhattan Island is proverbial.

They do not even know the boundaries of their own farm lands and truck patches that constitute the so-called Greater New York.

Accustomed to being robbed and plundered by Tammany Hall, they think themselves to be the spokesmen of a patriotic and self-sufficient people.

When they comment on matters outside their own backyard they are woefully ignorant.

The New York Times knows just about as much about Pennsylvania, the greatest State industrially and the best educated State in the Union, as it does about life in the planet of Mars.

What right does it possess to call Pennsylvania to account for electing Quay to the Senate? Pennsylvania looks after her own interests.

Quay saved Pennsylvania in the Wilson bill fight when the New York Times was an advocate of destruction.

We know what we are doing over here, and we are not disposed to take the criticisms of an ignorant New York newspaper as gospel.

The facts about Quay are these: He was a candidate before the Legislature of two years ago, and he was beaten because the new "reform" movement threw tens of thousands of dollars into the fight to buy votes against him after he had won.

Since that time the State has been thoroughly canvassed. There was a contest for the election of delegates to the State Convention of last April, and that contest resulted in a four-to-one majority for Quay.

He was named as the Republican candidate for Senator by that convention. He went before the people—personally appealed to them in various legislative districts.

Wherever he spoke he won against all that his adversaries could do. Never has he lost when he went directly to the people.

He carried the State by nearly 300,000 majority, and that majority carried with it 150 pledged votes in the Legislature when, in a full Legislature, he needed but 127 to elect him.

He did not get his 150 for the very good reason that boodle was again in evidence and that man after man was bought with cold cash.

You do not discover any great movement on the part of the anti-Quay bolters to secure a Senatorial investigation, do you, Mr. Times? No! nor will there be any from that quarter.

The reason is plain. There is not an insurgent leader that dares seek an inquiry, for they all know full well that among their followers are men who have taken the cash of bribery in exchange for their treachery to their constituents.

Senator Quay was elected by the people, and he has had to fight against the most corrupt campaign that this State has ever known.

That he has triumphed over boodle in such vast quantities is little less than a marvel, but he has triumphed, and he has the endorsement of a very great majority of the voters of Pennsylvania.

Could he run for the Senatorship to-morrow by popular vote he would be elected by the greatest majority ever given a candidate for any office in Pennsylvania.

His victory is exceedingly popular. He has been maligned and vilified, and if there is one thing that an American citizen hates it is persecution—and especially hypocritical persecution.

Of course, Quay's New York maligners cannot understand that. An American citizen—the genuine American—is most rare in New York.

Senator Quay has triumphed over his self-seeking enemies, and he has triumphed with the applause and the indorsement of Pennsylvania. Why should he not be pleased?

A Deep Mystery.

It is a mystery why women endure headache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles.

The New York Sun says: "Matthew Stanley Quay is again a Senator of Pennsylvania. He has won against the most bitter and powerful opposition that a politician ever faced and conquered. There will be many ugly explanations of his victory, but the fundamental reason for it must be plain to all. It is that the vast commercial interests of Pennsylvania have looked upon Mr. Quay as a safer and more valuable representative to speak for them in the Senate than any rival who could have been put forward by the opposition. Without this overwhelming force in politics, Quay never could have achieved his victory."

Women are Like Flowers.

Healthy and strong and bloom. Sickly, they wither and die. Every woman ought to look well and feel well. It's her right and duty, but she might as well try to put out a fire with oil as to be healthy and attractive with disease corroding the organs that make her a woman. Upon their health depends her health. If there is inflammation or weakening drains or suffering at the monthly period, attend to it at once. Don't delay. You're one step nearer the grave every day you put it off. Women can stand a great deal, but they cannot live forever with disease dragging at the most delicate and vital organs in their body. You may have been deceived in so-called cures. We don't see how you could help it—there is so much worthless stuff on the market. But you won't be disappointed in Bradfield's Female Regulator. We believe it is the one medicine on earth for womanly ills. There is as much difference between it and other so-called remedies as there is between right and wrong. Bradfield's Female Regulator soothes the pain, stops the drains, promotes regularity, strengthens, purifies and cleanses. It does all this quickly and easily and naturally. It is for women alone to decide whether they will be healthy or sick. Bradfield's Regulator lies at hand. $1 per bottle at drug store. Send for our free booklet.
