The downpour of water that submerged the larger part of Cleveland the other night was an unusual happening. That water should fall over the best built portion of a city with ample drainage in such volume as to flood its streets and undermine residences seems incredible, yet such was the case.

Edouard DeReszke, the famous tenor, heard a waiter in a New York restaurant singing a song the other day, and now the waiter is to go to Paris and have his voice cultivated at DeReszke's expense.

The transportation companies running steamships to Alaska are now in search of settlers for that country, and it is stated that they are preparing to settle the valleys of southern Alaska with thousands of hardy immigrants from Norway and other northern European countries.

Arizona is commonly regarded as a sun-dried and arid territory which produces little besides hot air. But she comes forward this year with the proud report that she has raised $10,000,000 worth of alfalfa.

It seems not to trouble the rulers of Russia that a famine is impending over a portion of that country half as large as Germany. The czar visits Germany and France in an ostentatious manner, and his counselors plan to extend the empire's borders and menace the remainder of Europe.

A prospector who has returned from Cape Nome tells a story of having found on the beach a ship's medicine bottle containing the following message: "July 24, 1879. Schooner Albert wrecked in Unimak pass, 18 hands on board. Storm still raging. C. McLeod, ship's master."

The fifth from the last widow of Brigham Young is dead at Salt Lake City. According to the Mormon theory she will be the "eternity" wife of Joseph Smith, prophet of the church.

A riot in Vienna in opposition to the introduction into Austria of American made boots and shoes shows what Uncle Sam is doing in the foreign markets. In 1895 American exports of leather goods of all kinds amounted to $15,000,000 in value.

Prof. Willis Moore, chief of the weather bureau, declares that after a careful examination of all that has been published in the last two years he is convinced that the idea of protecting orchards and vineyards from hailstorms and frosts by cannon firing is a popular delusion.

America may be the "white terror" of Europe, but up to date that fact has not prevented the old country from placing its orders here when it wants a really good article of any kind.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 12.—Patriotism's glorious festival came to its splendid climax with Wednesday's smiling midday, when 27,000 or more of the nation's heroes paraded past hundreds of thousands of cheering patriots.

Brave hearts were sunny with the warmth of Cleveland's welcome and the sweetness of heroic comradeships renewed.

prayerful praise. The music, voicing the solemn joy of the people at God's mercy was impressively effective.

As the Custer cannon from West Virginia passed the reviewing stand it was fired and a delightful touch of realism given the parade.

At the head of the Columbus body of veterans, Gov. Nash and Candidate Kilbourne, republican and democrat, marched side by side, a remarkable illustration of the extent to which all, save that for which the Grand Army stands, was forgotten in the inspired festival of patriotism.

Ohio's army brought up the rear of the procession, the last of the state's veterans passing the reviewing stand at 1:53 p. m.

The following meeting's were held in the afternoon: U. S. Maimed Soldiers' league reunion, court room No. 1; Third O. V. I. meeting, room 24 St. Clair street arcade; Forty-third O. V. Cleveland, Sept. 14.—Reeling under the shock of the imminent death of President McKinley, the annual encampment of the G. A. R. came to a sudden close Friday.

Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, of New York, withdrew from the race before the nominations were made and as soon as the encampment decided to refer the pension matter to the council of administration.

J. L. Smith, of Cleveland, was beaten for senior vice commander before the convention met, and knew it. However, he was determined to make the fight.

For junior vice commander Thistlewood, of Illinois, nominated James O'Donnell, of that state.

Resolutions were adopted thanking the city of Cleveland, the management of the opera house and the railroads for favors.

The ladies of the G. A. R. elected Mrs. Anna Wall, of Lawrence, Kan., as president.

NAVAL HEROES DAY

Tuesday Was Given to Them to Celebrate.

They Received an Ovation All Along the Line—Naval Reserves Participated—Camp Fires and Other Meetings of Importance Held.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 11.—Never at any encampment was there such a naval parade as the one at this encampment Tuesday morning.

The brave men who manned the union's wooden walls walked with the gait of old men, but their faces showed light hearts and the enthusiasm of youth.

Veterans of the army paid tribute to the veterans of the sea, acting as their escort in the parade.

Commander-in-Chief Leo Rassieur, Gen. R. A. Alger, of Detroit; Gen. J. Warren Keifer, Springfield, O.; Surgeon General John A. Wilkins, of Detroit, O.; Col. A. L. Flack, Tiffin, O.; Gen. H. S. Peck, New Haven, Conn.; Col. D. R. Hunt, Cincinnati; and Col. Jerome J. Musser, aide de camp, Anderson, Ind. They were accompanied by a number of local men.

Admiral Daniel F. Kelley, of New York, was grand marshal. The first division was commanded by Capt. W. E. Wirt, of the Naval Reserves, and was made up of officers and crews of the Michigan and Fessenden, Yantic and Hawk.

In the second division under Lieut. Col. W. H. Pond, were the Fifth and Ninth regiments, O. N. G., and Battery A with four guns.

The ex-prisoners of war formed the fourth division, of which Col. C. C. Shanklin was marshal. They were 500 strong.

At the Central armory a camp fire of the National Association of Union ex-Prisoners of War was held, Mayor Tom L. Johnson acting as presiding officer.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 11.—At a largely attended meeting here to-day in Bethel A. M. E. church, presided over by Bishop James A. Handy, resolutions were adopted declaring that the attempted assassination of President McKinley was "the fruition of the seed of tolerance of crimes too abhorrent and memorable against the native citizens as represented by Parker, the probable preserver of the life of our president."

Paris, Sept. 11.—At Monticau Les Mines, some hundreds of reservists, who were returning in uniform to-day from the army maneuvers entered the town singing the "International" and other revolutionary songs.

Cleveland, Sept. 12.—Secretary Quigley, of the Business Men's League, reported to the police Wednesday that a veteran, whose name was not furnished, had been assaulted and robbed by one of the guides employed by the G. A. R. committee.

VOLUNTEER TRACK-WALKER.

Queer Character Who Thinks He Is an Indispensable Employee of the Southern Pacific.

"Did you ever hear of the S. P.'s track walker between Deming and Yuma?" asked an S. P. conductor of "Ling and Pin."

"He is a tall, slim man, and wears his hair, which is streaked with gray, long, and his face is never clean. But he is a harmless old fellow, and everybody humors him; in fact, the people along the route which he has been traveling continually since 1882 feed him and give him cast-off clothing."

Trainmen have asked him to ride, but he says he could not attend to his duties if he rode. I believe that if he should find something wrong with the track he would flag any train that might be approaching the dangerous spot, and thus prevent a wreck, but if such a case has ever happened I have never heard of it.

The waitress slammed an order of about a spoonful of dried-up mashed potatoes before the customer with a defiant air.

"I like the sample," weakly remarked the patron as he cleaned up the small part of the once luscious roots at one mouthful.

"That was your order; you asked for potatoes," snapped the waitress as her eyes narrowed and her lips assumed the shape of a straight line.

"When do you dig potatoes?" returned the subdued man in an effort to become friendly.

"I dig potatoes from 11 a. m. to two p. m.," said the queen of the table as she nervously fingered a cup which was not "working."

"I should think you did," "But you ought not to complain. Suppose I told them what your reputation is that line actually is!"—Chicago Post.

Mrs. Howes—For myopic's sake, John, what have you been doing in the back yard all the evening? Mr. Howes—You see, dear, it was so much more interesting to hear what the servants said about you and your mother than to listen to what you and your mother had to say about the servants that I staid a good deal longer than I meant to.—Boston Transcript.

It is said that a great broker once told his son that only two things were necessary to make a great financier. "And what are those, papa?" the son asked. "Honesty and sagacity." "But what do you consider the mark of honesty to be?" "Always to keep your word." "And the mark of sagacity?" "Never to give your word."—Chicago Chronicle.

GEN. DANIEL E. SICKLES.

again with the blood that welled from hearts that beat with new vigor at the pride of marching again in army style under the old flag.

As it passed through the crowded streets to the crowning glory of the court of honor and its reviewing stand, flanked by the living picture of school children, the heroes of 40 years ago grew young and realized that they had got what they fought for, a nation of patriots.

Commander-in-Chief Rassieur and the staff mounted and in carriages, rode over the line of march ahead of the army of veterans, and reached the reviewing stand erected for the stricken president at 10:55. Five minutes later the head of the great procession of heroism swung into the court of honor, and the glory of the day was begun.

The parade is called already the greatest in the history of the nation, with its triumph of 40 glorious years. In the stand with the commander-in-chief were his staff, Adj. Gen. F. M. Sterrett, Senior Vice Commander-in-Chief E. C. Milliken, Surgeon General John A. Wilkins, Inspector General Henry S. Peck, Quartermaster General Burrows, Senator M. A. Hanna and Mrs. Hanna, Mayor Tom L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, Gen. James Barnett, Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, Gen. J. Warren Keifer, Gen. George Stone, Gen. Joseph Lang, Gen. W. C. Johnson, Gen. J. C. Goebelin, Gen. Louis Wagner, Gen. Robert Beah, Col. Tom Scott, Col. J. J. Everest, Col. Thomas Lawler, George D. R. Hunt, Gen. A. A. Taylor, L. E. Holden, Mrs. Mary L. Carr, president W. R. C.; Mrs. Kate Sherwood, Mrs. Gen. Black, Mrs. J. L. Bennett, and Mrs. Winans.

Gov. Upperman, of Wisconsin, marched with the Wisconsin soldiers until he reached the reviewing stand, and then entered it, as did many of the other prominent veterans.

As the tattered battleflags of each state passed the reviewing stand those on it arose and stood uncovered while the surrounding thousands cheered.
