his success is dear to their hearts. Delamater was—well, Delamater was different. In the village of Smicksburg, just a few miles below Pannsylvania, where there are plenty of people still living who knew John P. Elkin as a barefooted urchin, "with his satchel and shining morning face creeping like small unwillingly to school," and who have watched his struggles from obscurity to eminence, would regard his elevation to the Governor's chair as a personal vindication of the American boy. And it would be so regarded by every one who knew the history of his early life. His father did him the kindness to emigrate from Ireland when a young man and permit his son John to be born in America. That was all. John did the rest.

Rich Valley.

The severe winter weather has changed suddenly to mild breezes. The schools of the Valley will have their vacation Xmas week.

The Sunday School at the church is a permanent organization. A good move indeed.

Miss Gertrude Barton is visiting her father Charles Barton at Emporium a few days.

We observe that Wm. McGee has returned from Potter county to spend the Holidays.

Mrs. Josephine Carter is steadily improving, a fact we are glad to apprise her many friends of.

We learn that Frank Lockwood has disposed of his two teams of horses to Howard & Co.

We are delighted to note that Miss Gertrude Housler, who has been dangerously ill, is some better at this writing.

The Wesleyan Methodists expect to hold revival services in the Valley in the near future. The harvest surely is ripe.

The oyster supper at L. Lockwood's on Christmas eve is an event eagerly looked forward to by our young people.

The people of the Valley are visiting Emporium quite frequently the past few days, looking for the place where Santa Claus' cart tipped over.

Of Benefit to You.

D. S. Mitchell, Fulford, Md., "During a long illness I was troubled with bed sores, was advised to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and did so with wonderful results. I was perfectly cured. It is the best salve on the market." Sure cure for piles, sores, burns. Beware of counterfeits. R. C. Dodson.

COUGHS AND COLDS IN CHILDREN

Recommendations of a Well Known Chicago Physician. I use and prescribe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs, with direct results. I prescribe it to children of all ages. Am glad to recommend it to all in need and seeking relief from colds and coughs and bronchial affections. It is non-narcotic and safe in the hands of the most unprofessional. A universal panacea for all mankind.—Mrs. Mary R. Melendy, M. D., Ph. D., Chicago, Ill. This remedy is for sale by L. Taggart.

Fools build houses and wise men buy them.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Christenson, of Hayfield, Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsel of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. R. C. Dodson.

Now everybody is rushing to get into a tunnel scheme.

Information Wanted.

The manufacturers of Banner Salve having always believed that no doctor or medicine can cure in every case, but never having heard where Banner Salve failed to cure ulcers, sores, tetter, eczema, or piles, as a matter of curiosity would like to know if there are such cases. If so they will gladly refund the money. L. Taggart.

To Get Rid of a Troublesome Corn.

First soak it in warm water to soften it, then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing the blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn for a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by L. Taggart.

Every canal man in Congress has his spade out.

When you feel that life is hardly worth the candle take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse your stomach, tone up your liver and regulate your bowels making you feel like a new man. For sale by L. Taggart.

Flinn's Newspaper Friends in Allegheny Score Wanamaker.

A VERY SIGNIFICANT BREAK

The Old Insurgent Combine Has Lost Connections in Pittsburg and Philadelphia, and is Now in a Very Bad Way.

(Special Correspondence.)

Harrisburg, Dec. 17.—Evidence multiplies to show that the insurgent organization which has been arrayed against the Republican party in Pennsylvania is disintegrating rapidly, and that there will soon be nothing left of this guerrilla combination but the personal machine of John Wanamaker and the newspapers whose political policy is controlled by the advertising patronage and other considerations which come from Wanamakerism and always seem to bring practical results.

Throughout the last two sessions of the legislature of Pennsylvania, when the Wanamaker adherents and other insurgents were lined up against the Republican members of the senate and house, the David Martin followers of Philadelphia and the supporters of William Flinn, of Allegheny, constituted a large majority of those elected as Republicans who refused to abide by the action of the Republican caucus as voicing the will of the majority of the Republican members of the general assembly. These Philadelphia and Allegheny members, with the scattering insurgents from several interior counties and the Democrats, formed a combine which for an entire session prevented the election of a United States senator.

In the last session the regulars were enabled to organize both branches of the legislature, to elect a United States senator and pass legislation restoring the $1,000,000 taken from the public schools, giving the farmers the necessary legislation to prevent the sale of oleomargarine colored as butter, and to enact other laws demanded by the farmers, the laboring men and the business interests.

The master mind of the combination arrayed against the Republican party, the most general generous contributor to the "cause of reform," and never relenting foe of the stalwart leaders of the Republican organization, John Wanamaker, has from the time he engaged in state politics, always counted upon the support of Martin and Flinn. Now Martin has practically been bowled out of politics in Philadelphia by reason of his continued warfare against the Republican organization. It is conceded that Martin will not be able to succeed himself in the state senate. In the recent campaign, when he espoused the cause of the Union party, the Republican candidates carried his district by nearly 1,000 majority. Districts which Martin controlled in the last legislature will unquestionably be carried by the Republican stalwarts at the next election for members of the legislature. The Philadelphia delegation will practically be unanimous for the re-election of Boies Penrose to the United States senate.

With Philadelphia lost to Wanamakerism in the coming contest, and Allegheny also no longer affiliated with his insurgent political interests, Wanamaker will have a hard time getting together a corporal's guard to follow his insurgent standard. Without entering into the controversy between the leaders of the several elements in Allegheny county, there can be no questioning the fact that there is no faction that will co-operate with Wanamaker in any crusade he may inaugurate against the Republican organization.

Within the last few days the Wanamaker newspaper of Philadelphia has had a series of articles reflecting upon practically all of the newspapers of Pittsburg, as none of them has any consideration for the Wanamaker brand of politics. The Pittsburg Times, which for years was owned by the late Senator C. L. Magee, and which has since his death been a supporter of the Allegheny county organization, of which Senator William Flinn is the leader, paid its respects to Wanamaker and his journalistic mouthpiece in a manner to indicate the loss to Wanamakerism of the Flinn element in western Pennsylvania.

Said the Pittsburg Times, under the caption "A Deliberate Lie," the Philadelphia North American, having failed so brilliantly to reform the city of Philadelphia, has now taken up the task of giving to Pittsburg some faint air of respectability. In the course of a column or so of tommy-rot printed in its issue of yesterday this great engine of truth permits one of its hired hands to discuss the reasons for Pittsburg's so-called lack of public conscience—as if the North American had either a public or a private conscience. It appears that the depths of woe in which this journal finds Pittsburg are largely chargeable to the newspapers of this city. As to what it says of other papers in Pittsburg the Times has no concern. But the following is a deliberate lie, and the man who wrote it, as well as the man who inspired it, knew it to be a lie.

The Times then quotes from the North American charging it with being controlled by official advertising, and replies that such advertising was obtained through open and competitive bidding. In concluding the Times says: "The North American, absolutely controlled as it is by John Wanamaker, yet afraid to admit it, as he is ashamed to confess it, should in all decency keep hands off other newspapers. Nowhere in the United States is there a newspaper so entirely unreliable as it is in its every feature, or so utterly unworthy of credence in whatever it does or says. Its only respectable portion is that which is devoted to advertising, which is too meagre to count for much."

That Flinn and Wanamaker have dissolved political partnership would seem to be apparent.

NO MORE FUSION

Democrats and Republican Allies Have Had Enough.

SENTIMENT SEEMS GENERAL

A Widespread Feeling in Favor of Strengthening the Regular Organization of the Two Older Parties and Let Insurgents Flock By Themselves

(Special Correspondence.)

Philadelphia, Dec. 17.—That the regular Democrats of the Quaker City have scored a triumph over the annex of the insurgent Republican outfit, known as the Gordon Democracy, would appear from statements made by leading members of the executive committee of the Democratic state committee and members of the Hason committee, which was appointed by the last state convention to reorganize the Democracy of Philadelphia.

Since the failure of the campaign to elect the Union party candidates, Yerkes and Coray, there has been a growing sentiment among Democrats throughout Pennsylvania to stand by straight Democracy hereafter and to insist upon independent Republicans voting for Democrats when they seek to defeat regular Republican candidates.

There were several meetings of the local Democrats within the last few days. The regulars have revised their rules so as to let the bars down for all Democrats of whatever faction to attend the primaries in January, and they are ready to submit to the state leaders copies of their new rules and agree to any reasonable proposition to let the bolting Democrats who went over to the Union party back into the Democratic fold.

FUSION HAS BEEN A FAILURE.

The sentiment in every part of the state among Democrats against having anything to do with the Union party Republican malcontents is so universal that Guffey will have to cut loose from the Union party politicians to retain his leadership in the Democratic organization.

In Chester county the straight Democrats served notice upon County Chairman Cavanaugh that if he did not declare in favor of a policy of straight Democratic nominations and in opposition to all fusion schemes, he would be deposed from the chairmanship of the county committee. Cavanaugh was quick to recognize the feeling among the rank and file of his party and promptly announced that hereafter he will be against fusion nominations of every kind.

In Democratic counties, particularly, the hostility to the Union party is very pronounced. The trend of sentiment appears to be in favor of loyalty to regular party nominees, both Republican and Democratic.

The Democrats find that they have gained nothing by affiliating with the Republican insurgents, and the Republicans who took the advice of the insurgent leaders and cut the Republican ticket have discovered that they have lost standing among their Republican neighbors, and have gotten nothing for their disloyalty to their party and their assistance given ambitious men who have been working them for their own selfish purposes.

FOOLISH CAMPAIGN TACTICS.

While the Union party leaders have been steadily losing their following in the several counties, they have not given up their insurgent campaigning in the newspapers.

They have been aided by one or two ambitious Republicans, who, while claiming to be regulars, have been sowing seeds of discord with a view to weakening regular Republican leaders and favorites and make the road to the attainment of their objects less difficult. Candidates for honors from the state convention to be held next year have been sending to Republican newspapers material which on the surface would appear to be in favor of Republican harmony and the advancement of the Republican organization, but which in reality would tend to serve the cause of the insurgents by misrepresenting the work of the Republicans in the last legislature and making it appear that the present leadership of the Republican organization has not acted wisely and with the best interests of the party and the state at heart.

Such methods must certainly react upon those responsible for them, and in the end the rank and file of the Republican organization will become acquainted with the facts and express themselves accordingly at the primary elections.

With the Democrats deserting the Union party, and with the insurgent organization rapidly breaking up, men who claim to be stalwart Republicans and who secretly try to weaken the present Republican organization, will not succeed in anything they undertake.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania are determined to keep their party in line with the national organization and in good shape for the election of Republican members of congress and the success of the entire Republican state ticket next fall.
