J. R. Buckwalter.

Some may raise the question as to whether it is within the limits of propriety for the editor to step aside from the current events, of every day life to notice individuals, their business operations, and, as a consequence, the effect upon the neighborhoods or communities in which they live. But we notice that whenever the successful politician with his flattery, shys his caster into the field, that the papers of his ilk politically, especially, and often other papers, are loud and long in their encomiums of his virtues and usefulness and, if it will bear it, likewise of his genealogy et cetera. Just here then we would like to ask a question! Aside from the politician is it not equally of as much, or more importance, and of at least as much or greater benefit to the community to write up the facts, and the effect resulting from the course of the useful, prominent and leading business men in the community? We needed no apology for what we are about to say, in the community? We needed no apology for what we are about to say, but the foregoing is merely prefactory to these lines in reference to the man whose name stands at the head of this article, John R. Buckwalter.

To say that Mr. Buckwalter is a successful business man is putting it mildly; he has known nothing but success, at least, since our first acquaintance with him, in the lumber, saw mill and mercantile business. Purchasing large tracts of timbered lands, as he finds it conductive to the success of his enterprise. Hundreds of thousands of dollars involved. His large mill and mills, including booms and other works essential thereto located on the Licking river tributary to him for a distance of one hundred and fifty, to two hundred miles from Salyersville down. How many thousands of dollars he scatters in Rowan, Morgan; Magoffin and other counties we do not know, but will venture to say many thousand annually. How m 'my little country stores, their propetors, are kept going in business free the dollars that flow from him it we do take a considerable trip and care of observation and inquiry to tell. I en how many poor men, and their families, especially in Rowan county, are kept above want and comparatively independent by being in the employ, either directly or indirectly of John R. Buckwalter, we do not in the rush of matters often think of. We do not wish to be too personal, but Mr. Buckwalter's liberality and square dealings, his kindness to those in his employ when themselves or families are sick, and his indulgence of and waiting on them when they need help is almost proverbial, yet doubtless some find fault, and so it has always been and ever will be.

But John R. Buckwalter is a tower of strength and great good to his com-

But John R. Buckwalter is a tower of strength and great good to his community. Without being extravagant we undertake to say that his record is made, as firm as the rock ribbed hills, and it will stand, while the pebbles cast by those who envy him will only rebound to remind them of their futile efforts. We might add that Mr. Buckwalter was a veteran soldier in the great Army of the Union during our Civil War, yet he has no prejudices against those who were opposed to him. His motto is: "Charity for all?" He knows no such thing as stooping to a little act. But in conclusion we say, all honor to the man of affairs, the business man, who like the heart in the physical anatomy, at each pulsation sends the life giving power to the extremeties. We fail to appreciate such men, they are the real benefactors, they do not feed on the community, and whether they will or no, they But John R. Buckwalter is a tower of tors, they do not feed on the community, and whether they will or no, they do not work for themselves alone, but for the benefit all around them, and so it may be truly said, of John R. Buck-walter, a real and tangible benefit to

Has a Grievance.

Daniel Britton called at the PRESS office last Saturday and entered a vigorous protest against his treatment by the poormasters of Lumber township. Mr. Britton claims they are neglecting him in his feeble condition. We know nothing of the trouble between the parties but we firmly believe something should be done for the unfortunate man.

Proportionate Power.

The Republican conference held here yesterday afternoon and evening did well, we think, in adopting a plan for nominating congress candidates which will proportion to the voting strength of the several counties comprising this congressional district.

The small county of Cameron had a powerful and eloquent champion in Hon. B. W. Green, but it was impossible to convince those representing the larger counties that his equal representation was the proper thing. He was able, however, to secure what amounted to a compromise, as rule 3 county has on the opening of the balloting by the conferrees an equal representation, and only falls behind when there is a failure to nominate on twenty This compromising proposition was offered by Mr. Arnold and the principal was recognized as the one upon which concession could be made to small counties without leaving the people of the larger counties bereft of power in proportion to voting strength whenever proceedings were blocked by a balance in the meeting of conferrees. -DuBois Courier.

Another Death Claim Settled. Last Thursday the New York Life Insurance Company, through its agent | will again favor our people on Feb. Don M. To Make Hens Lay.

Here is an item for our farmers and good receipt that can be relied on, as the New York chemist remarked while lecturing before the chemistry class, and analyzing an egg said if hens were fed regularly they would lay as many eggs in winter as in summer. Powdered red albumen and black pepper, one pound of each, mixed. Then mix wheat, bran and cornmeal, same quanalbumen and pepper to each twelve hens. In the evening feed whole grain and in two weeks' time your hens will be on duty the same as in summer. The professor said further that the hens would not set until he quit feeding this mixture. In an egg famine like this it is worth trying.

"Silver Star" Representatives.

Last Thursday evening Ladies Devling, Whiting, Howlett and Stephens, lation at Emporium. Mr. Anderson, ing. The other lady returned home, the Tent: but no one seems to know how she came. They all report a splendid reception and a jolly good time, and declare that none of them were lodged in the stone house on the hill. No telling what might have happened though, had these ladies remained in town over night, for it is said that two of them were closely followed by Mrs. Swope and her daughter.

A Coming Event at The Opera House.

Arrangements have lately been made whereby the Thespians, a dramatic organization of The Pennsylvania State College will play here on Saturday, Feb. 8th, for the Presbyterian church We are glad to hear this as it will probably be one of the big events of the on. The young men have many friends in this place. We understand that the play they are presenting this ason is "A Russian Honeymoon" by Mrs. Burton Harrison.

The State College boys need no in troduction to our people as many will remember their very fine rendition of "David Garrich," last winter. We are assured that the popular organization above noted will present a stronger cast than ever, and will no doubt be greeted by the large and intelligent audience. Many of our people no doubt remember the very credible performance of "David Garrich," by the State College Thespians last winter. It affords us much pleasure to announce that this popular organization 8th. The entertainment will be for the benefit of the ladies society of the without saying.

In falling his left left leg caught between the ties, and he was suspended over the ice covered stream when found by the railroad men, whose attention was attracted by his cries for help. Dr. Smith was summoned and reset the leg, which had previously been broken, several years ago.

Enjoyable Evening.

Mr. U. A. Palmer entertained a number of gentlemen friends last evening and Aght royally feasted the boys, with one of the grandest spreads we ever sat down to. Ye editor, who never has much of an appetite had to tity of each, and to each quart of this take a back seat when such big guns as mixture add two teaspoonfulls of the Stowe Barton, E. C. Davison, T. H. Norris, F. A. Hill, Geo. J. LaBar, D. W. Felt and others moved to the front. We were not in it for a minute. However, it was a great success and Mr. Palmer with the assistance of his good wife and Mrs. S. L. Barton and Miss Mattie Law, saw that all were feasted to their utmost capacity.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

HOBAN.

MISS CATHARINE HOBAN, aged 33 years, died at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Richard Kelley, on Fourth street, last Saturday evening, after an illness of several months, during which she was a great sufferer with that awful disease, consumption.

Surrounded by loving care her passing away was peaceful and happy. The funeral took place last Tuesday morning, from St. Mark's church, Rev. Father Downey reading High Mass. The remarks of Father Downey were beautifully eulogistic of the deceased. A very large number of citizens viewed the remains of the deceased, prior to their removal to the church, which although sad was one of the most beautiful scenes ever seen in Emporium. All that was mortal of the good girl rested as though asleep upon a couch casket, clothed in white, all surmounted with a lace canopy. This beautiful effect was the careful handiwork of Mr. B. Egan, funeral director, for which he deserves this mention.

Among the relatives of the deceased present at the funeral were Edward Hoban (brother) and wife, Syracuse, and Patrick Hoban, (brother) Allegany

The Thespians.

The Dramatic Organization of the Pennsylvania State College, The Thespians, have recently made arrangements to play in this city at the Opera House. The cast is composed of young men and both the male and female parts are taken by them. They have recently had the services of an experienced coach from Buffalo and at a dress rehearsal given before a few members of the Faculty and their wives every one declared that the boys acted their parts in the best style The play this year will be the three-act comedy "Russian Honeymoon."

The Thespians will be accompanied by the college quartet who will sing college songs and medleys. They will also have their own Orchestra which is omposed of students.

They will be here on Saturday, Feb. 8th, and we hope the people will come out and give them a good welcome.

BRIEF MENTION.

The First Methodist Episcopal church of Emporium has had 14 more accessions to membershsp.

The Erwood Theatrical Company have been playing to crowded houses at the opera house, giving excellent satisfaction. They remain here the balance of this week

At Atlantic City on Sunday, Insurance Commissioner Durham said: "I am sure Attorney General Elkin will be nominated and elected. Beyond that I have nothing to say on the situation in Pennsylvania." Ex-Judge W. H. Jessup aged 72 years, died suddenly at his Scranton home last Thursday, of heart failure. He was one of the most prominent and able lawyers in the state. Years ago the Judge visited Emporium and delivered a telling political speech in the court house

An exchange says, there is such a thing as genuine aristocracy founded on real worth and merit. But when it is founded on the assumption that the young man or woman who works in the shop or kitchen is beneath the notice of those who call themselves the cream of society, it is positive evidence of a lack of brains and good sense. A preacher, rai ing his eyes from his pulpit in the midst of his sermon, was paralyzed with amazement to see his son in the gallery pelting the hearers in the pews with horse chestnuts. But while the good man was preparing a frown of reproof, the young hopeful cried out. "You'tend to your preaching daddy, and I'll keep 'em awake.—Ex.
