LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Contributions invited. That which you would like to see in this department, let us know by postal card or letter, personally.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McGrain are rejoicing over the arrival of their first boy baby.

Mrs. J. M. Gillon, of Towanda, is guest of Dr. and Mrs. Smith, visiting her many Emporium friends.

Mrs. Fred Linsel, of Wilcox, visited her mother Mrs. Ida Hamilton at this place, several days last week.

Mrs. M. H. Terwilliger is seriously indisposed, the Press as well as her many friends will regret to learn.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. J. LaBar pleasantly entertained a party of lady and gentlemen friends yesterday afternoon.

Jasper Harris made Olean a business visit Monday. Mr. Frank McCabe had charge the store in Mr. Harris' absence.

Mrs. Samuel Faucette, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, her many friends will be pleased to learn is improving.

Joseph Kaye, a member of the firm of C. B. Howard Company, left for Wisconsin on Monday, to inspect a large timber tract.

A. J. Turley came down from Sizerville yesterday and transacted business. While in town he made the Press sanctum a visit.

F. T. Beers, employed as chemist by Climax Powder Company, at this place, has been elected a member of the American Chemical Society.

Mrs. W. Garrity has been a very sick lady for several days but we are glad to hear her condition, under Dr. Smith's careful treatment, is improved.

John Johnson, Esq., of Watson Farm, Forest county, and James Johnson, Esq., Erie, Pa., brother and nephew of W. D. Johnson, Esq., of this place visited the latter during the past week and evidently were royally entertained by W. D., who never does anything by halves.

The other evening T. EUGENE, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Newton being ill for some time with a bad cold, his mother being in the habit of using camphorated oil through mistake got hold of the carbonic acid and applied it on the child's breast before noticing the mistake, burning the child severely. Dr. Bardwell was quickly summoned and the child is doing nicely under his careful attention.

John Cruise, Will Auchu and Bert Hillyard drove over to Austin last Sunday and enjoyed (?) being dumped in in the snow.

Mrs. Chas. Krebs, who has been receiving treatment at Williamsport Hospital, returned home last Saturday, slightly improved.

Miss Edna Warner returned to Philadelphia last Friday and entered a business college for the purpose of taking a full business course.

C. H. McCauley, Esq., of Ridgway, one of the most prominent attorneys in this section of the state was an Emporium visitor last Tuesday.

Little Miss Dorothy Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Howard's only child, was quite ill with pneumonia the past few days, but is better now under Dr. Heilman's treatment.

Rev Mr. Robertson, Rector of Emmanuel church, left this morning for Pittsburg to attend a church convention. Mr. Josiah Howard will conduct the church service next Sabbath.

Amos Barber, of Driftwood, one of our oldest and most respected citizens as well as valued subscribers was a welcome caller today and pushed the date on his Press ahead another year.

Mrs. Gordon Baker has been very dangerously ill for several days but we are pleased to inform our readers that, at the hour of going to press, Dr. Bardwell reports her condition improved.

T. M. Matteson and wife came over from Norwich, where they have a farm, last week, to spend a few days at their home near Emporium. Mr. Matteson was a very welcome Press caller yesterday.

Do Not Salt your Sidewalks.
It has been observed recently that many of our business men use salt to remove the snow and ice from the pavements in front of their stores. An exchange cautions its readers regarding the matter as follows: "Do not salt your sidewalks. Snow is preferable to a mixture of salt and snow, the temperature of which is fifteen degrees lower than that of the surrounding air. The brine slush is a prolific pneumonia breeder and is prohibited in cities. Use sand or ashes on the walks instead of salt."

Responsible For Soup Houses.
Since the starved years of 1894, '95 and '96, when Tariff reform and soup houses were concomitants, the remark that Free-Trade was the cause of soup houses has been a favorite one with many newspapers and public men. The Louisville "Courier-Journal" the other day tried to wipe away altogether the causal relationship posited for them, asserting in substance that the reasoning which joined them causally was utterly fallacious, being in the nature of proper hoc reasoning. We discussed in this column a short time ago the relationship between Tariff revision and soup houses. We repeat what we held then, that the Wilson act of 1894 was not the cause of soup houses, but one of the causes. It might be termed the occasion or the final cause. It would be demagogic in the highest sense to put the entire soup house burden on the back of Free-Trade.

The Democratic party during 1892 and 1893 did everything possible to help precipitate a panic. Gold exports were the order in 1892. The currency was becoming dangerously inflated by the $50,000,000 annually put out under the silver purchase act of 1890. The Argentine crisis and the failure of Baring Bros., the London bankers, in the following year, brought about a collapse. British capital was withdrawn from this country to meet the demands occasioned by the Baring failure. After the great wheat trade of 1891, which had temporarily relieved the situation, reaction set in. The bottom fell out of the speculative market, and in sympathy with a fresh movement abroad to get rid of American securities, holders of gold on this side began to hoard the metal. It would have been impossible to escape the consequences of the Baring panic and the silver purchase act, but it would not have been outside of possibility to mitigate the effects. The Democratic party had the opportunity of a lifetime. Yet it proceeded deliberately to pile on all the irritants it could devise. In the spring of '92 the Democrats, who had a plurality of 149 in the House of Representatives, passed by large majorities a series of bills removing import duties on wool and woolen goods, cotton bagging and binder twine. The Senate, being Republican, checked these attempts to reduce the revenue.

The Democrats were blinded by the worship of principle, principle founded in theory at that. It was a fine time to talk Free-Trade when even the high Tariff act of 1890 was beginning to show signs of inability to produce a safe revenue.

Cleveland was elected in 1892 on the Tariff reform issue. No sober minded disputant will deny that this election gave to the fears of the business community an additional filip. Great stress is put on the fact by the Free-Trade advocates that the panic of 1893 began a year before the Wilson Tariff bill was passed. Promises, where the promisors are able to carry them out, are as effective as acts. The Democrats made a promise to lower the Tariff, and after the success of the Democratic party in November, 1892, the business community was as much disturbed as if Free-Trade had actually been established. Moreover, the Democratic platform of 1892 condemned the silver purchase act of 1890 as "a cowardly makeshift," thereby intimating that Democrats stood for free coinage. Free coinage would have been the crowning folly of the Cleveland administration. Better sense prevailed in '93 and the act of 1890 was repealed. Of the 43 votes cast in the Senate for repeal, 23 were Republican votes and only 20 Democratic. In '94 the Wilson act was passed. Trade was prostrated, credit shaken and there was a deficit in the Treasury. The need for more revenue was pressing then if it ever was. Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle had devised an income tax to make up the estimated deficiency under the Wilson act, but the law providing for the tax was declared by the courts to be unconstitutional. Even if the law had gone into effect, there would not have been money collected sufficient to meet the expenses of the Government.

The cause of soup houses were many, but Free-Trade was among them and it stood pretty well up.—Albany "Journal."
