John P. Elkin and His Opponents.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

No Republican, either leader or voter, who understands the political conditions in Pennsylvania should consider for a single moment the argument that if John P. Elkin is nominated for Governor several Congressional districts will be lost and the re-election of Senator Penrose will be endangered. For who are the persons who are using such childish arguments? They are principally composed of Mr. Acheson a Congressman from the southwestern end of the State, and the editors of a few insurgent newspapers. The newspapers in question are wholly without influence, and as to Mr. Acheson, he has been advocating the rule of the minority so long without result that his views are not valuable nor even worth listening to.

Among the districts that are said to be in danger by the opponents of Mr. Elkin is that of Representative Connell. But you do not find Mr. Connell joining with Mr. Acheson and the insurgent newspapers. On the other hand, he is sturdily in favor of the nomination of Mr. Elkin. Listen to what his own newspaper, the Scranton Tribune, has to say:

Mr. Elkin has few, if any, superiors among the younger men now in American public life. The stone-throwing he is now undergoing does him absolutely no harm, as is shown by the returns from the various primaries, and his nomination for Governor, now generally recognized as likely to come to pass, will be followed by a stirring campaign, crowned with victory certain and impressive.

"Certain and impressive" would be the Republican victory under his leadership undoubtedly, for there is no candidate in the State who can better appeal to the people than Mr. Elkin himself. "Republicans who know Mr. Elkin only as he is pictured in the insurgent newspapers," continues the Tribune, "will know more about him before long, and we ventured to say that the knowledge will dispel any doubts which may now exist in minds open to reason as to the wisdom of his nomination."

There can be no serious questioning of that statement. A man who is of the people and fights his way by sheer force of will and of self-gained education is always safe in the hands of the people. The popularity of John P. Elkin is a matter of common knowledge. Against a most formidable machine, that of Mr. Watres, he has swept everything. In the country districts contests at the primaries are always above board. Not even the most bitter enemies of the Republican Party would dare to contend that in the country, at least, there is not a fair expression of opinion. If there is so much opposition to Mr. Elkin how happens it that, with a rival candidate in the field and fighting hard for delegates, it is Mr. Elkin, who is capturing all of the delegates, and by great majorities?

We make the declaration without the slightest reserve that no more popular candidate could be found in all Pennsylvania than Elkin, and if under him the State would not vote the Republican ticket, then no man could save it.

But the idea of losing Pennsylvania to the Democrats and of handing the Legislature over to the control of Colonel Guffey and of beating Senator Penrose if Elkin is nominated is simply preposterous.

A Spring Tonic.

Everybody needs a tonic in the spring, at this time the system craves a tonic. It is housecleaning time for your body. Light's Celery Nerve Compound will tone up your nerves, blood, kidneys and liver and fill you with health and energy. Sold by L. Taggart.

PHOSPHORESCENT OCEAN.

Little Gelatinous Organisms Which Create the Appearance.

A milky opalescence, permeating the entire sea for immense distances bounded only by the horizon, is a somewhat rare phenomenon. It appears quite suddenly, lasts perhaps for several hours and passes away as rapidly as it came, and this without apparent cause. At midnight we had the singular whiteness enveloping the sea, while the more brilliant kinds of phosphorescence shone in the midst of flashing green, yellow or bluish lights, as the case might be—a gorgeous nocturnal display.

During these hours my surface trawl net drifted astern of the ship. The water was alive with countless myriads of little gelatinous sacs measuring one-sixth of an inch in length—delicate tubulate organisms which required the aid of a microscope to reveal their perfect structure. A few specimens placed in an empty meat tin in a darkened cabin could be seen indeed with the naked eyes careening madly around in the salt water, each one glowing with that peculiar opalescent light which saturated the entire sea for so many miles. It was a small species of salpa, nearly related to a much larger kind on the side of which the late Professor Moseley wrote his name with his finger, the signature being visible on the dead body throughout the night, glowing with the brightest phosphorescent light.—Cornhill Magazine.

Speaking English.

Almost any one who speaks English might be put down successively in half a dozen places where English is supposed to be the mother tongue and hear as many dialects spoken, not one of which he would understand until it was interpreted. An old Lancashire worthy and a London lady were one day occupants of a railway carriage. The train had been waiting long at a certain station, and there was no appearance of it starting when the worthy remarked:

"They're a gly, tanglesome lot here."
"I beg your pardon," said the lady.
"I'm sayin' they're a gey daidlin' lot here."
"I really beg your pardon, sir."
"I'm observin' they are a vera dreich lot here the nicht."
"Really I must again beg your pardon. I don't comprehend you."
"I was just tryin' to say that the train was late."
"Indeed, sir, it is—very late," agreed the lady and then collapsed.—London Tit-Bits.

Sulphur.

Sulphur occurs very widely distributed in the mineral kingdom, partly free and partly combined with other elements. The free sulphur is either found pure in regularly formed crystals or intimately mixed with earthy matters. In its native state sulphur is largely found in Sicily and Italy and as a general rule in abundance in volcanic districts. The brittleness of sulphur renders the cleavage imperfect.

Sulphuric acid is an important combination and a very dangerous one in inexperienced hands. Sulphur combined with a number of elements, such as iron, copper, lead, etc., furnishes the sulphides. In the vegetable kingdom sulphur is a small constituent of the albuminous bodies and of certain volatile irritant oils. Moreover, the vegetable juices contain it in the form of certain sulphates.

An East Indian Amulet.

In India a variety of gems and stones are used as amulets. The most common is the salagrama, a stone about as large as a billiard ball and which is perforated with black. This is supposed to be found only in Gandaki, a river in Nepal. The person who possesses one of these stones is esteemed highly fortunate. He preserves it in a clean cloth, from whence it is sometimes taken to be bathed and perfumed. He believes that the water in which it is washed, if drunk, has the power to preserve from sin. Holding it in his hand, the dying Hindoo expires in peace, trusting in a stone rather than in the living God.

A Taste of Brogue.

An Englishman met a man at a French table d'hote, who addressed him in French. His accent betrayed him, and, rather rudely, the Briton said, "Ah, you are English."
"The devil a doubt of it, darlin'," replied the stranger.
"An Irishman, too, still better," went on the other.
"Well, thin, isn't it strange," said the man, "my French always shows me to be English and my English to be Irish?"

The First Step.

The children were having a writing lesson.
"Set me copy, too!" pleaded little Ronnie.
"But you can't write, dear!" the governess reminded him.
"Then set me some b'ots!" commanded Ronnie.
He evidently considered blots a step toward writing.—Home Chat.

Dinner Among the Romans.

The Romans in the time of Cicero and Augustus took an early breakfast, from 3 to 4 in the morning, a luncheon at 12 or 1 and at about 3 o'clock the cena or principal meal of the day, corresponding with our dinner. Concurrently we read of some not dining until sunset.

Cramped Lives.

According to the London Lancet, it is quite exceptional to find in a child bred in parochial charity institutions that healthy individuality which is characteristic of children who have been boarded out in the freer and more natural atmosphere of family life.

First Fork.

R. B. B. Crum, was bidding his patrons good by on Saturday.

Isaac Bowen has treated his house to new windows and repairing and painting up generally.

The First Fork stage is a thing of the past, as the mail will be carried on the railroad, beginning with to-day.

The saw mill here has been shut down a day or two on account of Mr. Yeager, the manager, being called to Genesee by the death of his mother.

It was P. H. Farrell of Austin, instead of B. C., his brother, of Costello, who died a few days ago. He was in the employ of the Goodyears.

A young man by the name of Rolling-er was taken to the Austin hospital on Wednesday last, having been hurt by logs rolling on him, caused by a chain breaking on the log train. It is reported his back was not broken as first reported.

Quite a number of young men leave this morning for Idaho with the intention of taking up timber or mining claims. Among them are Ezra Logue and Oliver Berfield, of First Fork; Chas. David, Orrin Card and J. Leon Nelson, of Packer. Another hand expects to leave later in the season.

The house of John Caldwell was destroyed by fire on Saturday last, the fire catching in the roof. The contents were mostly all saved. We understand there is no insurance. Mr. Caldwell and wife were visiting their daughter Mrs. Nelson at Sizerville, at the time of the fire, Mrs. Russell, another daughter keeping house for them while away.

April 7, 1902.

Letter to Dr. A. W. Baker.

Emporium, Pa.
Dear Sir: You know chemistry. Lead and zinc is a better paint than lead alone or zinc alone. Lead chalks off, zinc peels off. Lead and zinc stay on, if properly ground.
Devote lead and zinc is the paint. It is ground fine and thoroughly mixed. A painter ought never to mix lead and zinc; it wants grinding; mixing isn't enough. A streak of lead and a streak of zinc is not lead and zinc.
The object in grinding Devote is to grind the lead into the zinc and the zinc into the lead, which a painter can't do, with a stick in a tub.
And yet lead and oil will wear longer with 20 or 30 per cent of zinc mixed in with it, even as painters do it.
But Devote has lead ground in with zinc. The lead is fine enough; so is the zinc. The grinding is to grind the two into one. And grinding costs little or nothing done by machinery.
Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOTE & CO.

When the Atlantic Was Bridged.

According to the distinguished French anthropologists Gabriel and Adrien de Mortillet there was a junction between Europe and America by way of the British Isles, the Faroes, Iceland and Greenland in what is known as the Chellean epoch, which is supposed to have ended 150,000 or 160,000 years ago.—Baltimore Sun.

Chronic Bronchitis Cured.

"For ten years I had chronic bronchitis so bad that at times I could not speak above a whisper," writes Mr. Joseph Coffman, of Montmorenci, Ind. "I tried all remedies available, but with no success. Fortunately my employer suggested that I try Foley's Honey and Tar. Its effect was almost miraculous, and I am now cured of the disease. On my recommendation many people have used Foley's Honey and Tar, and always with satisfaction." L. Taggart.

His Fluent Fount of Tears.

There are funny incidents in the life of a photographer. A man came in the other day and looked over at the samples, asking the price of each.
"Do you want a sitting?" I asked.
"I don't see nothin' like what I want," he replied.
I told him if he would indicate what he wanted I might arrange it.
"You see, it's like this," he began. "I had a girl that I loved, and we was going to get married. She had her things made up, and we was all but ready, when she was taken ill and died. And what I wanted was a picture of me sittin' on her grave weepin'."

I was touched at the homely story of grief and told him I could send a man with him to the grave and have the picture taken as he desired.
"It's some distance," he said. "It's over in Ireland. I expect it 'ud cost a lot to send over your traps for what I want?"
I said it would.
"I thought," he answered, "that maybe you could rig up a grave here in your shop and I would weep on it and it would do just as well. It's no trouble for me to weep anywhere."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Basily Accounted For.

Blobbs—he says he would rather fight than eat.
Slobbs—Pugnacious, eh?
Blobs—No; dyspeptic.—Philadelphia Record.

This paper might be filled with items like the following, and every one be the absolute truth. I had rheumatism for years and tried almost everything, but got no permanent relief until I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, three bottles of which have cured me. It is the best medicine I ever used.—Philip E. Rhoads, Pennville, Mo. Pain Balm is for sale by L. Taggart.

Virtue is like precious odors, most fragrant when they are incensed or crushed.

'The Best Blood Purifier.
The blood is constantly being purified by the lungs, liver and kidneys. Keep these organs in a healthy condition and the bowels regular and you will have no need of a blood purifier. For this purpose there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, one dose of them will do you more good than a dollar bottle of the best blood purifier. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at L. Taggart's drug store.

Money is like muck, not good unless it spread.

If troubled by a weak digestion, loss of appetite, or constipation, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Every box warranted. For sale by L. Taggart.

Boldness is a child of ignorance and baseness.

Save the Loved Ones!
Mrs. Mary A. Vliet, Newcastle, Colo., writes: "I believe Ballard's Horehound Syrup is superior to any other medicine, and will do all that is claimed for it, and it is so pleasant to take. My little girl wants to take it when she has no need for it." Ballard's Horehound Syrup is the great cure for all pulmonary ailments. 25c, 50c and $1.00 at L. Taggart's.

Labor is the girdle of manliness.

Herbino Cures
Fever and Ague. A dose will usually stop a chill, a continuance always cures. Mrs. Wm. M. Stroud, Midloian, Texas, May 31, 1899, writes: "We have used Herbino in our family for eight years, and found it the best medicine we have ever used, for la grippe, bilious fever, and malaria." 50c at L. Taggart's.

The wise man flatters the fool, but the fool flatters himself.

Walks Without Crutches.
I was much afflicted with sciatica, writes Ed. C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgewick Co., Kan., "going about on crutches and suffering a deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which relieved me. I used three 50c bottles. It is the greatest liniment I ever used; have recommended it to a number of persons, all express themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm." 25c, 50c and $1.00 at L. Taggart's.

Religion is the best armor a man can have, but it is the worst cloak.

Good for Rheumatism.
Last fall I was taken with a severe attack of muscular rheumatism which caused me great pain and annoyance. After trying several prescriptions and rheumatic cures, I decided to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I had seen advertised in the South Jerseyman. After two applications of this remedy I was much better, and after using one bottle, was completely cured.—Sallie Harris, Salem, N. J. For sale by L. Taggart.

Give because you love to give—as the flower pours forth its perfume.

"A neighbor ran in with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when my son was suffering with severe cramps and was given up as beyond hope by my regular physician, who stands high in his profession. After administering three doses of it, my son regained consciousness and recovered entirely within twenty-four hours," says Mrs. Mary Haller, of Mt. Crawford, Va. This Remedy is for sale by L. Taggart.

There is just about the same real feeling when girls or billiard balls kiss each other.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE.
"I have not the slightest hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all who are suffering from coughs or colds," says Chas. M. Cramer, Esq., a well known watch maker, of Colombo, Ceylon. "It has been two years since the City Dispensary first called my attention to this valuable medicine and I have repeatedly used it and it has always been beneficial. It has cured me quickly of all chest colds. It is especially effective for children and seldom takes more than one bottle to cure them of hoarseness. I have persuaded many to try this valuable medicine, and they are all well pleased as myself over the results." For sale by L. Taggart.
