HANDY GRAIN CHUTE.

In a great many farm barns the feeding grain is kept on the upper floor, and all that is fed out is carried down in one way or another. My barn is so arranged and in the basement there is no suitable space for a grain bin. As a way out of the difficulty I put in some grain chutes to run from the bins above as shown in the accompanying cut. In some cases the chute could cut. be allowed to drop directly from the bin above without any joints. Under few circumstances will a chute with less than half pitch be satisfactory. Oats will run through such a pitch with little difficulty. Wheat or rye will fol-low even a less slant, but with bulky stuff like ground feed there is considerable danger of clogging.

The interior of the chute ought not to be much less than six inches square; six by eight would be even better. The interior should be free from all ob-structions. The hopper-shaped device just under the bin is quite neceswith oats and ground feed to give greater headway. The cut-off, a, is an ordinary draw supported by two cleats on either side. An extension is also made to the rear board of the chute so that it projects about onehalf inch outward, thus giving chance for holding a bag if necessary .-- C. P. Reynolds, in Orange Judd Farmer.

WASHING THE BUTTER.

Some Dairy Authorities Condemn the Operation, Many Others Are in Favor of It.

Some suggestions of Prof. R. R.

Pearson as to washing butter are un-der discussion in different journals. "After drawing off the buttermilk," says Prof. Pearson, "we again come to a point where there is a difference not only of opinion, but of practice. Some pour in more water and after a few revolutions of the churn draw it off, and repeat the process until the water is perfectly clear, while others claim that the flavor may be washed out, and wash as little as possible.

"Some excellent buttermakers that I know never wash butter at all. The flavor is an integral part of the butter and can no more be washed out than the sweetness can be washed out of sugar. If you do not believe it, feed the cows a mess of onions and try to wash out the flavor."

Practical buttermakers favor some washing, but not too much. Even the illustration of the professor does not seem fortunate, or too much dilution of sugar would leave little concentrate ed saccharine. Some taints of butter, it is quite certain, may be washed out, though not that of garlic, which has come from the diet of the cow not from exposure afterwards. But even this, we add in passing, may be wholly antidoted by feeding the cows with a certain preparation (medicated food). whethe ripeness of the wood materially in-fluences the production of fruit the following season. This is true not only of vines but of fruit trees. The influence of ripeness is felt in two ways: It modifies the ripeness and the position of the fruit buds and also the number of fruits. With well-ripened wood the fruit buds be-which they are borne, say the third bud, while on shoots of poorly-ma-tured wood the fruit buds commence to form only with the fifth bud. Be-sides, the shoots in the first case will carry two or three branches, while in the second there will be only one. The production of a fruit crop, therefore, is subject to the influence of the meteorological conditions of two seasons: The year preceding, which determines the degree of ripeness of the shoots, and thus the position and number of bunches, and that of the same year, which affects florization, frutification, and the maturing of the crop. An examination of the weather record and of vintage production over long periods of time showed that dry years, which permit of the thorough ripening of the wood are usually followed by abundant har-vests, while wet years, which favor tical application, and furnish a ra-tional basis for the pruning of dif-ferent varieties in different localities. If the season has been such that the

He telles his story as follows: Gentlemen-I find Vogeler's Compound a remedy above all others; for about this time last year I was in a thorough bad state of health, and could hardly drag one leg after the other. I had tried dozens of remedies advertised to cure indigestion and all its attendant evils, but was rapidly going from bad to worse, when I had the good fortune to be recommended to take Vogeler's Com-pound. Fieharty. What used to be called female dis-eases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the pelvic organs are the cause of most cases of female disease. Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's great physicians to make this discovery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women, and long ago he reached the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these or-gans would not be subject to female disease. He therefore began using Pe-runa for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now become the most famous remedy for female dis-eases ever known. Everywhere the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female disease. Dr. Hartman has probably cured
