"Ah got no use fo' de man," said Charcoal Eph in one of his philosophical turns, "dat donate er thousand dollars 'u' de heathen fund ob de fashionable church wid one han' an' raise de rents on his tenement houses wid de udder. And 'spec' he bettah begin practicing 'crawling fro' de eye ob er needle, Mistah Jackson!"—Baltimore News. The following method is said to be effective in stopping new shoes from squeaking; Take a small oil can and put a few drops of oil around the shoe between the uppers and soles. This will be found to instantly stop the distressing noise shoes frequently make. All the Pennsylvania engines are to be renumbered. The passenger equipment has passed through such treatment, and it is said that in five years the only lettering on the freight car equipment will be the one word "Pennsylvania," each division losing its identity in this respect. "I am willing to risk my reputation as a public man," wrote Edward Hine to the Liverpool Mercury, "if the worst case of smallpox cannot be cured in three days by the simple use of cream of tartar dissolved in a pint of hot water, drank at intervals when cold, is a never failing remedy. It has cured thousands, never leaves a mark." A sensational story was told to Justice P. B. Tarr, of Titusville, of a man recently coming to Titusville who traded his wife to their boarder for a suit of clothes and a pair of shoes. After ten years of married life, the wife appeared to favor the boarder, but the latter did not live up to his bargain, and the husband was seeking to obtain legal satisfaction.—Warren Mirror. The humane society agent at Altoona has entered a suit against Patrick Logue on a charge of cruelty to animals. The case is a peculiar one. Logue, about five years ago, purchased a good horse and devoted it to family use. One day during the winter he was sleighing with his family when a part of the harness broke, allowing the sleigh to slide down against the horse and partly over an embankment. The horse made no effort to get away and Logue vowed that the horse should not do another day's work for his action: for had it started the family would have been thrown into the ravine and badly injured if not killed. This was four years ago and the horse has not been out of the stable since. Logue feeds it and cares for it, but has steadfastly refused to take it out, hence the prosecution. Many children and some older people have a great fear of lightning. Parents are in a great measure to blame for this. A brewing storm is a signal to shut up the house tight and sit around in silence and fear. Such actions are sure to inspire fear in the minds of the children. The Weather Bureau has just issued a bulletin showing the loss of life by lightning. The figures cover a period of eleven years and show that lightning caused an average of about 2.53 deaths annually per unit area of 10,000 square miles. In comparison to deaths by accident upon railroads or in the ordinary industrial pursuits the loss of life is very small. The danger of being killed by lightning is as one chance in 10,000. The fear of a storm is greatly the result of training. The parent does the child a great wrong in training it to dread a storm, for the fear once created rarely ever leaves the mind. LOCAL NOTICES.
