For Governor, S. W. PENNYPACKER, Philadelphia. For Lieutenant Governor, WILLIAM M. BROWN, Lawrence For Secretary of Internal Affairs, ISAAC B. BROWN, Erie. For Congress, S. R. DRESSER, McKean, E. J. JONES, Elk. Subject to Decision of Senatorial Convention. EDITORIAL MENTION.

It is possible that the President will convene Congress in extra session in November unless a solution is forthcoming of the troubles that confront Cuba and our own country over the proposed issue of Cuban bonds and the causes it is believed make their issue a necessity.

The Navy Department has accomplished a work of saving to the Government and of thoughtful care for the sailors and marines who need transportation between New York and San Francisco by securing the very advantageous rate of $28.75 per man, as against a regular fare of from $75 to $63 for regular passengers, and a sleeping car rate of $6 instead of the regular

Those who have met Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson believe him when he says, "I am tired of this hero business." Hobson has visited many places this summer and lectured on "Our Navy and the United States as a World Power," and every audience he has appeared before has been agreeably surprised. He is a modest, unassuming gentleman: he is physically perfect, and commanding in appearance; he is a fine lecturer, and in all respects is far different than the press would have the public believe. He is graceful on the platform and a more patriotic, earnest speaker never appeared before an audience. In a recent speech he said: "At present American peace is not secure, owing to the weakness of the present navy. We possess at present 17,000 miles of coast line dotted with cities containing 20,000,000 people owning millions of dollars worth of property. All of this must of neccessity be protected by naval forces. Our commerce on the seas is greater than that of combined Europe. This also can only be adequately protected by a navy. Our navy should be the greatest in the world, equal to almost that of combined Europe. Our present commerce is only a symptom of that which is to come. Our development is only in its infancy. The average Ameri-can is equal to 2 or  $2\frac{1}{2}$  Europeans. He does twice as much work, mentally and morally. He will produce four times as much of a given product and do it easier. The time s not far distant when America will be the world's workshop, producing more for the market of the world than Great Britan, Germany and France combined. The importance of new markets cannot be over estimated. "New Markets. is the battle cry of nations and all rushing toward that goal. The result will be inevitable. A clash will come and the power possessing the greatest naval strength will be the victor.'

The New Twenty-First District. The Twenty-first Congressional District—a new one created by the recent apportionment. The Republicans have nominated S. R. Dresser, of McKean County, and the Democratic candidate is Delos E. Hibner, of Clearfield, says Philadelphia Press.

This district, composed of Clearfield, Center, Cameron and Mc-Kean, is one the Republicans may safely rely upon in the coming election. It is no secret, however, that the opposition will be very active in all the four counties. Last November on the vote for State Treasurer the district gave a Democratic majority of 395. But little more than one-half the Republican vote was pulled at that time, however, amounting to 10,-854. In the last presidential election on a full poll the aggregate Republican vote of the four coun-ties was 19,909, and the Republican majority was 5753. It can be seen, therefore, that anything like a reasonable poll of the party vote makes Republican success certain.

The Republicans of Clearfield and Center Counties for the first time within memory find themselves associated with Republican counties in a congressional district, and the fact has inspirited them to a notable degree. They have worked in perfect harmony in their new relation. The district was the first to agree upon a method of making nominations, and the wisdom of its action has been confirmed by the fact that it presents a candidate whose nominationw as secured without the least friction, and leaves no disappointment or resentment.

Mr. Dresser is a new figure in the active politics of the State, though a life-long Republican. He is a leading business man of his county, with every qualification for a seat in Congress, both in charac-ter and ability. The party in the district has made a long-headed choice for its first candidate, one which will command the united Republican vote and gives unqualified assurance of success.

A Busy Senator.

The bulk of Pennsylvania's business in Washington rests on the broad shoulders of Senator Boies Penrose. The junior senator has always borne this burden. It is an heritage of the office. Quay did it when Cameron was the senior senator and Penrose does it now that Quay is his senior. Here are a few statistics and facts about the junior senator's daily work when congress is in session:

His daily mail averages between 400 and 500 letters. It embraces everything from the prayer of a broken hearted mother whose soldier son has been court martialed and for whom she is begging pardon down to the request of a farmer for an agricultural bulletin on the destruction of plant lice. Every mail is a mixture of tearstained epistles, begging, threatening denanding and commending letters.

Every letter is answered within wenty-four hours of its receipt. People imagine that Senator Pens private secretary attends to all the business of his office, while the senator does nothing but make speeches and sit in the cloak rooms. That is a dream of the canal boat era. To attend to correspondence, file and tabulate it, so that any letters received within five years can be produced in five minutes requires the services of an assistant to the secretary and four steno-graphers. His correspondence is greater than that of any other except Hanna of Ohio, who is chairman of the Republican national committee.

The rooms of the committee on immigration is Senator Penrose's office. Here he receives hundreds of callers every day. Secretary Andrews is in charge and here letters and telegrams are dictated. The actual work room is over in the Malt by building, where all day the "clack" of the typewriter goes ceaselessly on. There are the documents, maps, plans, seeds and other impediments of senatorial life are folded, wrapped and expressed.

Four persons are engaged in this. In addition, two men are constantly employed in visiting the departments and gathering information in which constituents are interested. In all a staff of eight persons is required to attend to his purely clerical and departmental work.

Senator Quay and His State.

The Portland, Me., "Daily Press." Senator Hanna having failed to make any impression on the strike, the coal miners are turning to Senator Quay, and have addressed to him a hundred thousand letters or more, asking him to use his influence to obtain for the miners a small concession that will end the strike. Mr. Quay will probably be as powerless as was Mr. Hanna, call it the truth. but he has one advantage. He is the undisputed boss of Pennsylvania politics, and the Pennsylvania Legislature is to a large extent under his domination. The coal companies are located principally in Pennsylvania, and they all must fear more or less hostile legis-lation. Mr. Quay is perfectly capable of telling them that they must make terms with the miners or they will suffer. He has never hesitated at anything that the people of Pennsylvania as a whole demanded. When the Democratic Wilson tariff bill was going through the Senate he deliberately held it up with an interminable speech until the iron and steel schedule was made satisfactory to Pennsylvania. He has held up measures which his party was pledged to pass in order to please Pennsylvania interests. His whole career has been based on the principal of doing the thing wanted, no matter what might stand in the way. He does not care particularly about means or methods, platforms or principals, when the goddess Pennsylvania waves her hand. Such a man as that may do apparent mpossibilities, when the impossibilities are demanded by thousands of exasperated men. In this case he may not be able to help the coal miners, but if he tries he can come nearer than any other man on the

Not Over-Wise.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralled by the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safe guard against bowel complaints, whose ictims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is every where reconized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases For sale by L. Taggart.
