An exchange gives the following recipe for scandal: "To a little suspicion add a grain of falsehood, an ounce of gad-about, and a like quantity of limber tongue, a handful of backbite and a tablespoon of 'I'll tell if you promise not to tell it,' put in a few drops of envy mixed with jealousy, and stir well, after which strain through a bag of misconception, then pour into a meddlesome bottle and hand it to any gossip for distribution."

The Cambridge Springs Enterprise gives the following advice to its readers. Its good and applicable to every city and town in the country:

"Every citizen should believe in the town he lives in, and if he doesn't think it is a little better in most respects than neighboring towns than he should move out. When away from home, do not neglect to give those with whom you come in contact to understand that you live in a live town populated by enterprising, go ahead, progressive people, and one that is advancing instead of retrograding."

"If you can truthfully speak in commendation of the ability of your professional men, the square dealing methods of your merchants, the superiority of your schools, etc., let nothing prevent you from exercising that privilege. It will not be necessary to mention the drawbacks if there are any. Strangers seeking a location are always greatly influenced in favor of any place where the citizens are enthusiastic in its praise."

"Unless its inhabitants appreciate the excellence and virtues of each other and will collectively spread abroad their faith in the prosperity and future greatness of their own locality no city or town can expect to attain prominence over its rivals. When rightly utilized, talk can be made effective in many directions, and this is one of them."

Letter to Keystone Powder Co.
Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sirs: H. M. Hooker & Co., Cooperstown, N. Y., have sold Devoe paint for 42 years. D. T. McGown, of that firm, built a house in '85 and painted Devoe of course. The paint lasted ten years.

A year or two later, a neighbor built a house, and painted it lead and oil. The neighbor's house was repainted twice in the same time.

This looks as if the neighbor's house was painted three times in eight or nine years, and McGown's once in ten years. We are not quite sure—we tell the tale as it comes to us.

It is enough to say that Devoe lead and zinc lasts twice as long as lead and oil.

It is risking something to ask the public to place a piece of fiction alongside of Poe's best work. The Editor of The Cosmopolitan ventures this in the following note, which appears in the September issue: "One does not often find a story which seems to come in the classification of Edgar Allen Poe's best work. Yet one might be tempted to ask such a place for 'The Canonic Curse' which Arthur E. McFarlane contributes to The Cosmopolitan for September."
