The Value of Correct Breathing.

Nothing is more essential to the proper assimilation and digestion of food, and, consequently, to keeping the blood in good condition, than right breathing. The oxygen of the air is the great vitalizer and purifier of the blood and the renewer and upbuilder of the human system. If pale hollowed-cheeked anemics, narrow chested, predisposed consumptives, and fretful, irritable dyspeptics would only realize this, and, throwing away their drugs and patent medicines, fill their half starved, undeveloped lungs with nature's own unfailing tonic, what a change would be wrought in their lives! Not only physical, but also mental vigor, as well as cheerfulness and will power, are dependent to a great extent, on the amount of oxygen we absorb so we can readily see of what prime importance in the economy of nature is the habit of correct breathing. —"Success."

Bird's-Eye Maple.

A timber buyer from Gerry, N. Y., a suburb of Jamestown, is buying bird's-eye maple in this vicinity and shipping it to a factory at Gerry, says the Bolivar Breeze. He pays $12 per thousand on the stump for the logs. He superintends the cutting and contracts the skidding and hauling and loading on the cars at Bolivar for $12 per thousand feet. The freight is $10.80 per thousand feet, so the logs cost him not far from $40 per thousand feet at Gerry. Bird's-eye maple logs in the rough weigh six tons to the thousand feet, at least that is the way they are billed by the railroads. There is no more beautiful native wood than bird's eye maple and it is very popular for furniture. It is a hard wood not easily worked but it takes on a beautiful polish. It is cut in thin strips and used for a veneer by furniture makers. Solid bird's-eye maple bedroom suites are almost as expensive as mahogany. —Port Allegany Argus.

Able to Endorse it Heartily.

A good story is told of a local preacher, who a few days ago was given a check by a business man, and in order to draw the cash took the paper to the bank. He passed it through the window to the cashier and it was returned with the information that his endorsement was necessary. The domine, whose ideas of business were, perhaps, a little undeveloped, took it to the desk and wrote across the back of the check these words: "I heartily endorse this check." He got the money.

People Who Need Religion.

An exchange says the people who need religion are: The man who left his horse out in the cold all day without a blanket on; the man who grows all day when his wife asks for money; the woman is not what she ought to be, the minister who is looking for an easier place and a higher salary; the man who walks the streets with his hands in his pockets, while his wife carries the baby; the man who keeps a dog and can't afford to take the home paper.

Letter to J. W. Kriner.

Dear Sir: It is your business to know what materials to put into a house as well as to plan it. Of course, you know the effect of zinc on lead in paint—toughens it. Do you also know the effect of zinc ground in?

Your painter can't grind; he can only mix. Devoe lead and zinc is thoroughly ground in oil. The result is an intimate mixture.

Devoe lead and zinc is that; the proportions are right besides. It outlasts lead and oil two to one and costs no more—even less; for hand-work can't compete with machine-work.

F. W. DEVOE & Co.
P. S.—Murry & Coppersmith sell our paint.

The November number of the Woman's Home Companion contains an unusual amount of good fiction. "The Flight of Fenella" is a charming serial, Miss Frances McElrath's "The Thanksgiving McGinties," is an interesting episode in the life of a Western girl. Mr. Ensigns contributes a new animal story, "My Friend the Elephant." "The Revolt of Almer Brown" is a bright little dialogue which will interest golfers. The feature of most interest is Madame Wu Ting-Fung's article on "Some Chinese Ways." A Day's Work in a Great Western Harvest Field" describes the harvesting of a great wheat crop. "Droll Babies in the New York Zoo" will be read with pleasure by all lovers of animals. Wallace Nunting contributes a double page of the most beautiful photographs in illustrating "Thanksgiving at the Old Homestead." Up-to-date fashions and helpful cooking articles go to make up an unusually strong number. Published by The Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year, ten cents a copy; sample copy free.

Red and Inflamed Eyelids.

Red and inflamed lids, lids which look as though the person had been keeping very late hours, says a recent periodical, and lids which have little crusts formed during the night at the root of the eyelashes, are usually an indication of a low degree of astigmatism. In some cases no relief is had for this condition till proper glasses are procured. A large proportion of the cases, however, will be cured by the following ointment: Yellow oxide of mercury, three grains; yellow vaseline, one-half ounce; mix thoroughly and apply a very little to the edge of the eyelids each night.—Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

The Limit.

"Don't you think," said the soulful young thing, "that a ruined old church with the ivy clinging to its crumbling walls comes nearer than anything else to realizing one's ideal of patient resignation?"

"That's what it does," replied the young man with the camera. "I don't know anything that will stand for being photographed half as often."—Exchange.

No Cause For Woe.

Stokes—Speaking of mourning, if your rich uncle were to die, should you put on black?

Bickers—Certainly not. If he left me something handsome, why should I be such a hypocrite as to don the garb of woe? On the other hand, if he left me out of his will, how could I consistently put on mourning for such a curmudgeon?—Boston Transcript.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

(From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.)
This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup and told but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by L. Taggart.

A Christian man is Christ's best monument.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Keller, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by L. Taggart.

The God-dependent are the most independent.
