January 11, 1902.

The at-home cards with this an-nouncement read: "Mrs Gjorund Sonsteby, Waseca, Minn. Miss Sonsteby." These announcements were engraved on heavy plate stationery and in every particular were a reproduction of the form of a marriage announcement, except that the word divorce was used and the permission by the court for the divorcee to resume her maiden name was noted. Doubtless, Miss Sonsteby accepted on the return day-that is, the at-home daythe congratulations of her dear five hundred friends! One cannot help wondering a little if Ernest J. Bryant received one of the cards for the reception. Miss Sonsteby goes back to her paternal roof, legally absolved from presumably unhappy marriageties, and her parents announce the fact 'in the conventional manner and accept it as an occasion for social ex-

Candy-Eaters. ported by the New York Post: There are probably no mercantile establishments in existence that cater to the wants of a more varied line of customers than do the candy stands at the Brooklyn bridge entrance. "I begin business at three o'clock," said the keeper of one of these stands the other day, "and I close up after the rush is over. In those four hours I sell 2,000 one-cent pieces of candy, or 500 an hour, exclusive of more expensive kinds of candy, and those which are bought in larger quantities. People generally suppose that small boys and girls, and the parents of small boys and girls are the buyers of penny candies. That is a mistaken idea. Men of all grades of society buy these little sticks and squares, simply and solely because they want to eat them. The only reason everybody doesn't know this is because it takes such a short time to eat a penny candy that the process is over before a man gets 50 feet away from the stand, and people down in the street don't get a chance to see him."

Returning to the more densely populated states, Massachusetts comes next to Rhode Island, with not quite 349 inhabitants to the square mile. New Jersey occupies the third place, with 250 inhabitants to the square mile. Then follows Connecticut with 187, New York with 152.6, Pennsylvania with 140.1. Maryland with 120.5, Ohio with 102 and Indiana with 70.1. The density of population is obtained by dividing the population of each state and territory by its total land area in square miles at each census. THE CONGRESSIONAL VICTORY

Result of Elections Shows a Preponderance of Republicans Throughout the Country.

The republican majority on congress is small, but it is sufficient. Nobody looked for any such lead as was gained in 1900, when there was the stimulus of a presidential canvass to bring out g vote. There was a larger issue, then than was at the front this year, for the money question did not figure in the canvass just ended. That question, in any shape hitherto known, will not be up again in any campaign, presidential or congressional. The victory in 1896, which gave the republicans complete control of the government, which they utilized by putting the gold standard in the statutes on March 14, 1900, supplemented by the republican victory in the fall of the latter year, settled the money issue. Under such circumstances it was not possible for the republicans to get up the interest in the election of 1902 which was aroused in 1900. The re-publican majority in congress, however, is gratifying to the party and will be encouraging to the country, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The result on congress shows that the republican tide throughout the country is still at the flood stage. The reduction in the majority as compared with 1900 is less than the average deeline for the mid-presidential term congressional elections. There is always a falling off in those years for the party which holds the presidency, and often it is enough to put the other side in the majority in congress. This was the case in 1874, 1882, 1890 and 1894, to go back no further than 30 years. This year the republicans made an excellent exhibit. They had the general business conditions throughout the country on their side, and the issues were with them. The issues, however, were not so exciting as were those of 1900, for the democrats made no serious fight on anything. The democrats saw the absurdity of the militarism cry long ago, and dropped it. The imperialism pretense, too, vanished before the canvas was fairly under way. The president's words and acts on the trust question knocked out all the democrats' follies on that question, and removed it from the canvass. No fight of any consequence could be made by the democrats, and the interest in the canvass diminished accor-

Apathy this time did not hit the republicans. The causes of the apathy were these-the republican prosperity throughout the country gave the average voter something else to think about than politics, and the democrats were so manifestly and decisively wrong on the issues that they made no fight of any consequence on any-thing, and this deprived the republicans of all incentive to make an active canvass. The result of the election is a fine tribute to the courage and wisdom of the republican party and to the personal popularity of President Roosevelt. It shows that the country is unwilling to make any experiments like that of 1892. The panic which the latest democratic victory brought was lesson which will not have to be learned over again for a few years at least. The democrats were more nearly united in the congressional canvass of 1902 than they were in any previous campaign since 1892, but this did not avail them. The democratic victory of ten years ago was not due to the popularity of Cleveland, or to a loss of public confidence in the republican party. It was caused by a foolish notion that the prosperity which the country had been enjoying for many years at that time was so permanent that not even the success of the de-mocracy could shake it. The convulsion which came on a few weeks after Cleveland's inauguration in 1893 showed the folly of that view. The re-sult in the congressional election shows, what was often shown in the past, that on any square division between the parties, even where the democrats are, as they were this year, united, the republicans are in the preponderance throughout the country COMMENT AND OPINION.

ROOSEVELT INDORSED.

Policies of the Administration Approved by a Majority of American Voters.

The more carefully the returns of the late election are analyzed the more significant appears the result. This is particularly true of the congressional battle, which was fought on national issues. In every state the voters-for congressmen went to the polls with Roosevelt's policy and administration in mind, says the Chicago

Nineteen western and northwestern states which in 1900 elected 101 re-publican congressmen, elected 115 this year. In 1900 Colorado sent two silver men to congress. This year it sends two republicans and one democrat. Idaho and Montana each was represented in the Fifty-seventh congress by a silver or independent congressman. In the Fifty-eighth con-gress each state will be represented by a republican.

Nebraska elected in 1900 two republican and four fusion congressmen. In 1902 the congressional delegation stands five republicans and one crat. Illinois in 1900 elected 11 republican and 11 democratic congressmen. This year the delegates stand 17 republicans and eight democrats. In every state except California there was a straight issue between republicans and democrats, and there is a gain in the 19 states of 14 congressmen for the republicans.

In Nebraska there was an issue between republicanism and Bryanism, The republicans gained three congressmen. In Utah the struggle was for the control of the legislature. No man in the senate was more conspicuous for slander of our soldiers and for opposition to the Philippine policy of the administration than Senator Raw-

In expressing his extreme views and in attacking the administration Mr. Rawlins claimed to represent the people of his state. In answer to this claim the people of Utah have given the republicans a majority in the legislature of 39 on joint ballot. This means that republican is to succeed Mr. Rawlins in the senate.

Mr. Patterson, representing the democrats of Colorado, made himself almost as conspicuous as Mr. Rawlins in abuse of the soldiers and the government. The state which gave Bryan a plurality of 29,661 in 1900 this year gives a republican plurality on the state ticket and probably elects a republican majority in the legislature.

In the states of the middle west, including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, no ground has been lost, and in several of them majorities have been in-creased. What is true of the great states of the middle west is also true of Pennsylvania and most of the New England states. The republican states of 1900 are solid behind Roosevelt in 1902, and they have been reenforced by Colorado, Idaho and Montana.

NOT ONLY REPUBLICAN.

The Election Results Constitute a Victory for the Intelligence of the People.

That the thoughtful citizens of the United States are unswervingly in favor of principles and policies of the republican party has been proved conclusively by the results of the fall elections, says the Albany Journal.

That all who could be reached and influenced to turn against the party in control by means of appeals to passion and prejudice were reached and influenced, is beyond doubt. For weeks and months the democratic campaign managers everywhere had been doing their utmost to develop to its largest possible proportions and its greatest possible strength the tendency to lay the blame for every public condition that may be displeasing to a few or to many, upon the party in power.

In the circumstances, reduced republican pluralities and a decreased majority in the house of representapublican party been weak at point it would have been defeated this year when a multitude of democratic campaign speakers and news-papers were tirelessly engaged in urging the masses to charge every-thing with which they had reason to they were finding fault without reason, to the republican party. The foundation strength of the republican party has been put to the severest of tests, and withstood it triumphant. They whose faith in the umphant. They whose faith in the soundness and beneficence of repub-lican principles and policies remained firm through such a campaign of mis representation, and faise accusation, and abuse and slander, as was carried on by the opponents of republicanism, will never waver in their allegiance to the party of progress and prosperity, the party that has proved itself the true friend of the

The attempt to start the people on the way to a repetition of the blunder of 1892 has failed. The men of this country who think for themselves, who reason, who trace effects to their real causes, whose minds are proof against the clamor of the demagogue—thank heaven they are in the majority!—have said that party that brought prosperity back shall be permitted to hold it with us

The results of the elections const tute far more than a victory for the republican party, they constitute victory for the intelligence and the calm judgment of the people of the

REFUGEES ARRIVE.

At San Francisco, on City of Para.

Thousands of Indians Asphyxlated or Burledin Sand—Volcanoes Still Spouting—Robbers Murdering Refugees on the Road.

San Francisco, Nov. 20 .- The first of the refugees from the devastated lands of Guatemala arrived yesterday on the Pacific mail steamer City of Para. They came from the districts from the inland sea and traveled over a country laid waste by sand, ashes a country laid waste by sand, ashes and pumice before reaching a rail-way station. From the latter places they made the journey by rail to Chambperco and there took the steamer to San Francisco. They sailed on November 7, when the volcano was still smoking and rumbling of thunder and flashes of lightning gave evidence of more eruptions to come. These people fled from their come. These people fled from their plantations in fear for their lives. They escaped to the seaside with little more than the clothing they wore, transportation being so difficult as to preclude of carrying off baggage. The refugees confirm stories of the loss of life. They say that the victims, for the most part, are Indians. They had not heard of any white people being lost. Thousands of Indians were as-phyxiated or buried in the sand. Miles of plantations are under ashes and ab-solute ruin is the lot of many plant-ers whose all was invested in the Fincas. One refugee comes from within a half an hour's ride of Gen. Barillos and brings the information that the general and his family are safe. The refugees say that it is not the grater of Santa Maria that is in action, but a smaller mountain rising tion, but a smaller mountain rising from one of the western slopes of Santa Maria, called El Fosaio.

Bands of robbers are now swarming the depopulated sections, robbing and murdering refugees on the road and looting the abandoned and desolate plantations.

The people left behind on the plantations, it is said, are in danger of death from starvation, for the food supply has been cut off, and there is no way to send in supplies to the afflicted districts.

The steamer City of Para met evidences of the volcanic eruption soon after leaving Odos. Great quantities of pumice were found floating on the Word had been received from Mazword had been received from Max-stenango, on the outskirts of the rulned territory, that Santa Maria opened a crater on the west side near its base, and not far from Helvetia, and belched forth volumes of ashes and lava over Tolhu. It was noted and lava over Tolhu. It was noted afterwards that several more craters in the neighborhood of the mountain had opened up and all were spouting volcanic debris over the plantations of the district. All the territory about Palmer, San relipe, Pueblo Nuevo and Retalquies were buried under ashes. Many of the plantations were buried under from five to seven feet of debris and all hope of ever refeet of debris and all hope of ever re-claiming them had been given up. The entire neighborhood for miles was a burning wilderness.

This industry has practically succumbed to the invasion of foreign flour, the great bulk of which is imported from America. The new scheme, if successfulry carried through, will stimulate the industry, as new mills, it is stated, are to be erected in all the more important cen-ters of Ireland, The capital is, according to a well known local mer-chant, set down at $20,000,000. It is intended by the syndicate to turn out majority in the house of representa-tives are by no means an indication of republican weakness.
