Death of Jessie B. Fremont.

It is sad news that Jessie Benton Fremont is dead in poverty at the age of 79 years. She has long been forgotten and neglected by a Nation that owes much to her. In a sense it is to her that we owe the acquisition of California. More than 60 years ago she was the belle of Washington, the daughter of the famous Missouri Senator who made the record of 30 years in that body. She married the dashing Fremont who set out to explore California at a time when it was still Mexican territory. The government having authorized the expedition, suddenly took fright and ordered him back, but the romantic Jessie circumvented the authorities and the pathfinder went on his way and came back loaded with honors. In due time California became part of this country, and Fremont was the first Republican candidate for the Presidency.

It often has happened in our history that we have neglected those to whom we owe so much, and never was the case more conspicuous than in the treatment of Senator Benton and his daughter. Benton was one of the best equipped legislators we have ever had, a man who stood for sound financial legislation, for freedom of action, on the part of individuals and against slavery extension. He was the backbone of the Jackson administration in the Senate, and his merits have well been set forth by President Roosevelt. As for his daughter, she did what she could for her country and received no reward save that of a good conscience. Now that she is dead there will be tributes paid to her that would be much more fitting if she had been allowed to live in comfort during her declining years.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Our Apple Crop.

We are apple growers in the United States because are people are apple eaters. Every state in the Union is engaged in the business of apple-growing, and in some it is a very important industry. What is more, it is growing almost everywhere, so that in a few years hence our apple product will be very considerably augmented. The Southwestern states, especially Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas have entered upon the apple business with great energy during the past few years and bid fair to rival the more northern and eastern states which are at present the greatest producers.

At the present time Missouri is credited with the most trees, 20,000,000 in number which is 5,000,000 more than New York has, and 9,000,000 more than Pennsylvania. But the Missouri orchards have been set out in recent years, and one-half are not yet bearing, so that during the present year she grew only 10,000,000 bushels to New York's 36,000,000 bushels, Pennsylvania's 10,000,000, Ohio's 14,000,000, while Michigan, Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia nearly reached her output. No tables are given for the output of Oregon, Washington and Utah, but these are also growers of excellent fruit, rivaling the crops in many of the states in the east.

The output of the principal fifteen apple-growing states have been estimated for the present year at 161,000,000 bushels; in 1901 it was only 126,000,000, but in 1900 it reached 207,000,000. The productive capacity of the 201,000,000 trees in the first fifteen producing states is estimated at 300,000,000 bushels, or 100,000,000 barrels, but as full crops are never grown the entire country over in the same year, such a crop is not to be looked for.

From the number of trees it would naturally be supposed that the quantity of bushels produced would be much greater than it really is, as given above. The average crop of a tree in New York is found to be only three and a half bushels, while in the Mississippi valley it hardly exceeds one bushel per tree. This must seem very strange to most readers, who see trees here in Pennsylvania that bear from five to fifteen bushels.

"A Chinese Honeymoon."

Talbot & Dance's tuneful importation pronounced on all sides to be the very limit of grandeur in scenic embellishment and the very best musical comedy or comic opera this country has ever seen, dwarfing in comparison the delicious lyrics and comedy of "Mikado," "Pinafore," etc., and establishing a new standard of excellence in the musical comedy with its all-star cast. will be Nixon & Zimmerman's offering at the Alvin, Pittsburgh, next week, January 12th to 17th, forming, as has been widely heralded, the season's greatest event, socially, musically, and from a theatrical standpoint. The opera has to its credit nearly three hundred performances at the New York Casino, seven successful weeks in Philadelphia and the unlimited praise of all who have witnessed its performances, while the strains of "Mr. Dooley," "Roley Poley," "The Honeymoon," "The A-La-Girl," "The Chinese Fair," "I Want to Be a Lady," "Nursery Rhymes," "Breaking Hearts," "Frocks and Frills," "Martha Spanks the Grand Panner," "I Love but Thee," etc., are heard on every side and loudly applauded and demanded again and again whenever their gentle rhythms resound, for never has a more tuneful, more deserving score been heard. Among that all star cast which has aided so materially in the success of "A Chinese Honeymoon" we find Toby Claude acting as "Fi Fi," who is a hit of the most pronounced order; John E. Henshaw, as Emperor; W. H. Clark as Admiral Hi Lung; May Tenbrooke, as the Mother in Law; Bell Harper, as Mrs. Pineapple, and eight of the most strenuous of footlight belles for the bridesmaids and a chorus. The like of which has never, no, never been seen in comic opera anywhere in this country. The engagement is for one week only, with matinee Wednesday and Saturday, and should be a record-breaker for the successful Alvin.
