One's Enemies.

An old adage says that all men are known by the company they keep.
But men can also be known by the enemies they make. Every enemy made marks the man who feels within himself to do manly things. In the forceful struggles of life there will be friction and contest, victor and vanquished.

The man of force does forceful things in a forcible way. Some one is overcome in the struggle and an enemy is made.

In the moral struggle always being waged the same thing occurs. Men of moral force and fibre are continually opposed to another class who stand for vice and evil. The contest here is more sanguinary for it is Truth against Error, Right against Wrong. In every community the moral man of force who opposes injustice, unravels vice, combats error, deals mortal wounds and makes enemies. He is to be loved and revered for the enemies he has made. He is the hope of the day in which he lives as well as of the days that are to come after him.

The man who has no enemies is the man who does nothing. He stands for nothing. When forced out of his place by a stronger than he, he is perfectly satisfied to adjust himself to his new surroundings. He is a barnacle on the ship of progress. Evil finds in him an ally and injustice makes him her apologist.

But while such a man makes no enemies he makes no friends. His friendship is a useless commodity. It would be of no benefit to him who would secure it. One likes forceful friends, such as can be of use. The man of force surrounds himself with strong friends for he in turn can be a strong friend.

A man need have no fear on account of his enemies if such enemies have been made in the struggle for Right.
They are the mark of a man.—Lock

Humility.

The disease known as "swelled head" is more common, and a thousand times more fatal, than is dreamt of in the ordinary philosophy. It is "a malady which slays more than are numbered in the lists of fate."

What is it but a blind and imbecile self-importance that prompts young men, who have a world of usefulness and honor before them, to drink intoxicating liquors, to swagger, to talk fight, to smoke cigarettes and to strut?
It is idiotic vanity.

What induces the coxcomb with the high color and low brow to ogle at every female vampire he meets and imagine that he is a combination of Don Juan and Apollo? Pure self-admiration.

What leads youth from the sweet and wholesome paths of useful labor to the haunts of idleness and sin? Simply swollen and putrid self-admiration.

Humility is a positive virtue. It is the beginning of wisdom. It has been truly said that it was pride that first changed angels into devils; it is humility that makes men as angels. We must stop to rise. Humility does not mean a groveling spirit, but is merely the exercise of a prudent care not to overestimate ourselves. Only the humble can be truly exalted. Humility is strength, for it is a recognition of the fact that lofty character must be built upon a solid foundation.

Plutarch tells us that Epaminodas, finding himself lifted up on the day of his public triumph, the next day went drooping and hanging his head. Being asked what was the reason of his so great dejection he made answer: "Yesterday I felt myself transported with vain glory, therefore I chastise myself for it to-day."

Before we can amount to anything, before we can even begin to fit ourselves for creditable citizenship of the world, we must first realize our insignificance, and that we can have nothing in us that we should ask the world even to tolerate, much less praise, until we have builded by toil and right action, and proven ourselves to be men who can defy the temptations of idleness and sensuality as the oak defies the tempest and the thunderbolt.

The true attitude of a youth whose future promises a glorious manhood of usefulness and honor to his kind, is to stand with bowed head, hat in hand, ready and eager to serve.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

An enthusiastic editor not long since had rolled himself into a difficult alternative as to how he would be able to get his clothes over his wings when he reached paradise. But his difficulty was somewhat eliminated when in response to one of his editorials embracing the question a philosophic contemporary presented the question as to how he could get his hat on over his horns?

When you feel blue and that everything goes wrong, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse and invigorate your stomach, regulate your bowels, give you an relish for your food and make you feel that in this old world is a good place to live. For sale by L. Taggart.

Respectability may be contagious, but some people fail to catch it at the right

The Easy Pill.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers do not gripe or weaken the system. They cure biliousness, jaundice, constipation and inactive livers, by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectually, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach, liver and bowels that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely. These famous little pills exert a decided tonic effect upon the organs involved, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the trouble. R. C. Dodson.

We never see ourselves as we really are unless we have learned the lesson of humility.

A Weak Stomach

Causes a weak body and invites disease, Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures and strengthens the stomach, and wards off and overcomes disease. J. B. Taylor, a prominent merchant of Christman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach, I lost all strength and rundown in weight.
Al. that money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." R. C.
Dodson.

One Minute Cough Cure gives relief in one minute, because it kills the microbe which tickles the mucous membrane, parts. One Minute Cough Cure strengthens the lungs, wards off pneumonia and is a harmless and never failing cure. In all curable cases of Coughs, Colds and Croup, One Minute Cough Cure is pleasant to take, harmless and good alike for young and old. R. C. Dodson.
