Years of experience in newspaper work teaches a man that: The chap who tries hardest to work a newspaper for special favors is the one who never spends a cent with it, and is not a subscriber. That the man who kicks most about the inaccuracy of newspapers is the one who does least to insist in getting the facts accurately when he has an opportunity to do so. That the man who kicks hardest about a certain paper hasn't seen a copy of it for six weeks. That the man who has it in for a paper has had the bitter truth told him by some unusually frank reporter and has a big sore spot. That the man who spends most money with the paper kicks the least. That if you expect a man to find a compliment about himself you must put it on the front page in bold face type. But if you put in a one line roast in nonpareil between two patent medicine ads, on the steenth page, he'll find it and come hunting the man what writ th' piece. That a man protected mericality in rascality never appreciates it, because the protection only encourages him in being the sort of reptile he is. That the paper which tries to please everybody by dying. That the man who spends least money for advertising expects more returns than the man who spends most. That those who patronize the paper systematically and persistently are most level headed and reliable citizens of the community. That slysters are sworn enemies of newspapers, thereby testifying eloquently to the respectability of the craft.—Commoner and Glassworker. Fewer gallons; wears longer; Devoe. An exchange very properly remarks, that the year 1903 must mark the everlasting elimination of the ground hog from the list of trustworthy weather prophets. Six weeks have elapsed since he came out of his hole, saw his shadow reflected by the bright sunlight all day long and retired with the omnious prediction that six weeks more of winter must be endured, and with an inadequate coal supply. The six weeks have gone by and only one of them have been a very wintry week; the rest have been mild, some of them balmy. The ground hog, otherwise the woodchuck, is a fraud unworthy of the eloquence which Daniel Webster, at the age of ten, expended in a successful effort to save him from the executioner. The public, says an exchange, can manage somehow to accommodate itself to the horseless carriages, creamless milk, moneyless pocketbooks, and careless hired girls, but when it wrestles with the question of how to get along with coalless coal bins, that is quite another matter. Danger of Colds and Grip. The greatest danger for colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care be used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by L. Taggart. Left Eyed People. The man who spends half his time trying to classify people said he never saw so many left eyed passengers in one car. "What do you mean by left eyed passengers?" asked his companion. "People who use their left eye more than their right," was the reply. "The species is not common, and of course none but a student in ocular science would be able to detect offhand the few whom we do meet. A left handed person advertises his peculiarity at once; not so the left eyed man. As a rule it takes an oculist to determine which eye has been used most, but there are certain peculiarities of the pupil and lid that may be taken as pretty sure signs by the trained observer. "Left eyed people are made, not born. Most of us have been blessed by nature with eyes of equal visual power, but the attitude we strike when reading or writing causes us to exercise one eye more than the other, and the first thing we know we are right or left eyed. This is a one sidedness that should always be taken into consideration when buying glasses."—New York Times.

A Collector's Prayer. So deeply passionate is Mr. Hodgkin's love for the rare and the curious that one thinks of the Thomas Hearne mentioned by him, who in all simplicity of heart thanked God for his success in collecting. "O most gracious and merciful Lord God," writes this devotee of old books, "wonderful in thy providence, I return humble thanks to thee for the care thou hast always taken of me. I continually meet with most signal instances of thy thy providence, and one act of yesterday, when I unexpectedly met with three old manuscripts, for which in a particular manner I return my thanks, beseeching thee to continue the same protection to me a poor, helpless sinner, and that for Jesus Christ his sake." The prayer is extant and may be read at the Bodleian, where Hearne was assistant librarian.—London Chronicle.

Balzac's Passwords. It was not easy to make one's way into Balzac's house at Chaillot, Rue des Batilles, for it was guarded like the garden of the Hesperides. Two or three passwords were necessary, which were changed frequently for fear they should become known. I remember a few. To the porter we said, "The plum season has come," on which he allowed us to cross the threshold. To the servant who rushed to the staircase when the bell rang it was necessary to murmur, "I bring some brussels lace," and if you assured him that "Mme. Bertrand was quite well" you were admitted forthwith. This nonsense amused Balzac immensely, and it was perhaps necessary to keep out bores and other visitors still more disagreeable.—Miss Wormley's "Memoir of Balzac."

The Place to Buy Cheap — IS AT — J. F. PARSONS'

Letter to F. D. Lect. Emporium, Pa. Dear Sir: Your business is when a house burns down to give the owner some money to build a new one. It is a good business. Queer that the world got on so long without it. We paint the one that burnt down and the new one too. What is better we paint the houses that don't burn down. You insure the houses that burn; we insure the houses that don't. You have the ashes and smoke; all the houses are ours. We paint Lead and Zinc; Devoe. We sell the paint to painters; we don't paint. Lead and oil is the old fashioned paint. Devoe is zinc ground in with the lead and lined oil; the best paint in the world; and the cheapest, because it takes fewer gallons than mixed paints and it wears twice as long as lead and oil. Nobody wants poor paint; there's lots of it, through, in the world. A. M. Griffin, Plainfield N. J., writes: Mr. Aaron Higgins, of Plainfield always used 15 gallons of mixed paints for his house. Last Spring he bought 15 gallons of Devoe and had 4 gallons left. Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & Co., New York. P. S. Murray & Coppersmith sell our paint. Any Church. Or parsonage or institution supported by voluntary contribution will be given a liberal quantity of the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints whenever they paint. NOTE: Have done so for twenty-seven years. Sales: tens of millions of gallons; painted nearly two million houses under guarantee to repaint if not satisfactory. The paint wears for periods up to eighteen years. Linseed Oil must be added to the paint (done in two minutes). Actual cost then about $1.25 a gallon. Samples free. Sold by our Agents. Harry S. Lloyd.
