WASHINGTON LETTER.

m our Regular Correspondent.) Washington, June 22, 1903.

With the publication of the reply of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow to the Tulloch charges, the Postoffice investigation took a fresh start this week, and has been almost the sole topic discussed in official Washington. Bristow's reply so thoroughly supported the charges preferred by Tulloch and reflected so gravely on the administration of ex-Postmaster General Smith and ex-First Assistant Postmaster General Heath that they produced a sensation and when it was discovered by a comparison of dates, that Postmaster General Payne was in receipt of the Bristow reply on May 4 and it was until May 16 that gave his now famous interview in which he said that Tulloch's statement was a "stump speech," "Hot air" etc., and that unless Tulloch could "make good" he should be "branded as a slanderer and a back-biter," the demand for Payne's resignation became clamorous, even staunch Republican papers joining in the insistent representation that Payne had demonstrated his unfitness for his present position.

The most grievous offense of the Postmaster General was, however, what appeared to be an attempt to drag in the name of President Mc-Kinley. He said in the statement which accompanied the Bristow report, "The charge of Mr. Tulloch is in its essence against President McKinley and Postmaster General Smith." This statement, which was construed in many quarters as a mean revenge against the late. lamented President because he had refused to accept Payne as a member of his Cabinet, has aroused the ire of so many Republicans that it is still a matter of grave doubt if the President can protect Payne and retain him in the Cabinet longer. Mr. Roosevelt, while sorely annoyed at the blunders made by his Cabinet officer in handling the postal scandal, feels that they are largely attributable to Mr. Payne's ill health. Moreover, the construction put upon Payne's reference to President McKinley, Mr. Roosevelt knows to be erroneous. Mr. Payne so described the Tulloch charges with the intentions of excusing his reluctance to make the Bristow reply and was as much surprised as anyone when he saw that his meaning had been miscon-

The President has announced the appointment of General S. B. M. Young as chief of staff, the appointment to go into effect on August 15 when the General Staff comes into existence. will fully occupy his time. It is further announced that when General Young goes on the retired list, which he will do because of the age limitation next January, General Chaffee will succeed him as Chief General Corbin, Adjutant General of the Army, has been appointed a member of the General Staff as has General Carter and it is current belief in army circles that Corbin is scheduled to become Chief of Staff eventually on the re-tirement of General Chaffee. It is worthy of note that neither Young, Chaffee nor Corbin are graduates of West Point and both Young and Chaffee have risen from the ranks. General Corbin is regarded as having filled the most responsible position in the army during the war with Spain and his promotion, although seriously opposed by the friends of General Miles, is felt by the army gener-ally to have been well deserved.

His Last Hope Realized.

[From the Sentinel, Globe, Mont.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which teather with the savere heat. which together with the severe heat gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fort-night. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by L. Taggart.
