Democrats and Issues.

There are some Democrats who are sorely disappointed because the new libel law, it is said, will not be an issue in the next State campaign. It is reported that the leaders will recommend that the convention do not mention the law and that the Republican party as a whole and not individuals be denounced and arraigned and condemned.

It is a sort of shame to deprive these worthy citizens of an issue with which they had expected to make a great deal of noise, and some of them are already shouting that Quayism is becoming apparent in the management of the party. Is it any wonder that the Democratic party is depicted as a donkey, when its spokesmen make such assertions? If such assertions be true where is the Democratic party in this State? And the curious part of it is that they come from Democrats who have arrayed themselves against their party and are fighting it tooth and nail.

If the Democrats who have deserted their party after reviling it want the libel law to be an issue even though the State Convention make no mention of it, let them adopt it as their own. Conventions make platforms, but the battle must be fought by newspapers and orators. They could then, probably, find a few others who have no regard for party regularity. And yet it is possible that the Democratic party, uninfluenced by Senator Quay, will not mention the libel bill simply because it is not an issue. There is no election for Legislature this year. No official who can control or direct legislation will be chosen.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Ten Thousand Churches

In the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints.

Every Church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed oil (worth 60 cents) which you do when you buy this paint in a can with a paint label on it.

8 & 6 make 14, therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint, buy only eight gallons of L. & M., and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it.

You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint, and three gallons of Oil mixed therewith to paint a good sized house.

Houses painted with these paints never grow shabby, even after 15 years.

These celebrated paints are sold by Harry S. Lloyd, Emporium, Pa.

The Voter's Duty.

To be entitled to vote, a man past 22 years of age must have been assessed at least sixty days prior to election day and paid his tax at least thirty days prior to election day. The last day for being registered for the general election this year is Sept. 2 and the last day for paying the tax is October 3. It is the duty of every voter to see to these details himself.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
Washington, August 24, 1903.

Editor Press:—

As part of the general scheme to bring discredit upon President Roosevelt's administration, two New York papers have, within the past week, given great prominence to articles sadly at variance with the facts but likely to be very generally circulated and believed.

The first of these appears in an ostensibly republican paper, but one dominated by Wall Street interests and pledged to defeat the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt at the next convention if that be possible. These stories which bear every semblance of truth, are to the effect that the President has inaugurated a systematic investigation of the relations between union labor and the employes of all the executive departments of the Government with a view to discrediting organized labor.

These stories are, however, entirely without foundation as the President has not, nor does he intend to order such an investigation. The meager facts on which the allegation is based have been related in the letters before. After the William Miller case in the Government Printing Office was brought to the special attention of the President, he wrote to Secretary Cortelyou a letter pointing out that there was no legal warrant for discrimination between union and non-union labor in the executive departments and cited the decision of the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission as a principal to be adopted. A copy of this letter Mr. Roosevelt caused to be sent to the head of each department for his personal guidance, should a similar question arise. In the course of the discussion of the Miller incident, representations were made to the President that the cost of printing and binding in the Government Office was excessive and it was alleged that this was due to the rules of the unions limiting the daily output of each of their members. Mr. Roosevelt then instructed that an investigation of the methods of the office be instituted and that investigation has been quietly and thoroughly conducted by a committee especially appointed for the purpose. The committee in the course of its inquiry, asked of various members of the Cabinet, their experience with union labor, the request for information being purely incidental to the investigation they were conducting, and on this flimsy protest is based the allegation. The whole animus in the series of Washington dispatches printed by the paper referred to was shown recently when side by side with the last of them was printed a dispatch from Chicago saying that the stationary engineer's union had pledged themselves to defeat Mr. Roosevelt in the convention if possible, but if not at the polls. The hope of the publication printing these dispatches is that the republican politicians may be lead to believe that the President has incurred the enmity of the labor organizations and that his nomination would mean defeat for the party.

No authentic news has been received from Bogota regarding the Panama canal treaty since the report that it had been rejected, as drafted by the Colombian Senate. The Administration is still hopeful, however, that the Senate will reconsider its action as it has been known to do under similar circumstances on several previous occasions.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicine.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by L. Taggart.

On Wasting The Moral Capital of the Community.

In the Outlook last week there is an editorial entitled "An Old Lesson," from which we quote a paragraph. It states in a singularly strong and clear way a truth that can always be listened to with profit. It will receive little or no heed from silly tale-bearers or from malicious defamers; we have gone shopping for button holes too often to expect that. But thoughtful and well-meaning people are often betrayed into accepting and repeating rumors affecting the characters of others, when they really know nothing as to the truth of these rumors. By this class the paragraph will be received as a welcome admonition. It is as follows:

"No story of any kind against a man or which is being hawked about through small communities or in larger circles in larger communities, ought ever to be passed on except with a full sense of responsibility. That is to say, every man who repeats a story affecting another person's character ought to understand that by that repetition he has made himself responsible for the charge. Instead of pulling people down morally and breaking their influence, it is every man's duty to build them up and to conserve their influence. There is no more heinous offense against a community than the wasting of its moral capital; and this is precisely what happens when the reputation of a good man or woman is assailed. To attack such a reputation, to smirch it, or belittle it, is not only a grave offense against the person, but is a waste of the moral capital of the community in which that person lives."

The Standard of Pronunciation in English.

"The truth is that the pronunciation of every dictionary," says Prof. Thomas R. Lounsbury in Harper's Magazine for September, "expresses the preferences and prejudices of the particular person or persons who have been concerned in its compilation. At best it represents the taste of a select coterie to whose members the accidents of birth and training and circumstance have made familiar certain ways of pronouncing words. There is, consequently, never any need of paying unquestioning obedience to any of its decisions. It is an authority of more or less value; it is never a final authority. On this matter having been concerned to some extent in the preparation of dictionaries, I speak from the point of view of personal experience. I have protested to no purpose against the authorization of certain pronunciations. I have succeeded in getting some sanctioned which had not previously been recognized as allowable. It is hardly necessary to add that the knowledge of these I shall take precious good care to keep to myself. But where did I get any authority, either in the way of protest or advocacy, over thousands and thousands of other English speakers, to decide how any particular word should be pronounced. From no quarter could it come, for in none did it exist. The simple explanation of the matter is that it was my fortune to be in a position where my personal preferences met with a certain degree of consideration.

"In this matter the proper attitude for every educated man to take is that once exemplified by Dr. Bacon, for a long while the pastor of Center Church, New Haven. He was assailed for his pronunciation of a certain word. It was not according to Webster, he was told. The clergyman was personally acquainted with the man held up to him as a guide, and very evidently had an opinion of his own as to the respect due to him as an authority. At all events, the Doctor showed no disposition to submit to the correction. 'What right has Webster,' growled he, 'to dictate my pronunciation? He is one of my parishioners, and he ought to get his pronunciation from me, and not I from him.'"

A Tree With a Bark.

"A piece of bark four inches thick," says the Wellsboro Advocate, "was taken from a tree on Asaph Run recently which measured twenty-eight inches in diameter at the butt."

Mrs. Mollie Allen, of South Fork, Ky., says she has prevented attacks of cholera morbus by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when she felt an attack coming on. Such attacks are usually caused by indigestion and these Tablets are just what is needed to cleanse the stomach and ward off the approaching attack. Attacks of bilious colic may be prevented in the same way. For sale by L. Taggart.

Trouble should be taken in homoeopathic doses.

When you want a physic that is mild and delicate, easy to take and certain to act, always use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by Jno. E. Smith, Sterling Run.

When you go to buy Witch Hazel Salve look for the name DeWitt on every box. The unadulterated Witch Hazel is used in making DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which is the best salve in the world for cuts, burns, bruises, boils, eczema and piles. The popularity of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve; due to its many cures, has caused many worthless counterfeits to be placed on the market. The genuine bears the name of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The Oliver Cromwell Entertainment.

One of the finest entertainments ever given in Emporium will undoubtedly be the "Story of the English Reformation or Puritan vs. Cavalier," showing the great work accomplished in England under Oliver Cromwell. A capable committee of the Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of which this entertainment is to be given, has been hard at work getting this gigantic undertaking in proper shape. The best talent in the town has been secured. Music is one of the leading features of the entertainment and will consist of choice solos, grand choruses and instrumental numbers. The dialogues and the gorgeous costumes are historically correct, making the entertainment educationally valuable.

Mrs. H. E. Monroe, the originator and lecturer of the production, is a highly cultivated woman, and has traveled much abroad, making research for her entertainments. She has visited the largest libraries and art galleries in the world and made them contribute to her work. Her lecture on the "Oliver Cromwell" has been pronounced by competent critics a literary gem. It was prepared in the British Museum in London, where Mrs. Monroe had access to many of the original documents.

Her stereopticon views illustrating, are the finest which can be procured along this line of work, many of them being the only copies of great paintings found in palaces in England. History, poetry and painting contribute to the interest of this great historical production, and the pomp and strength of marching bands of symbolically dressed men and women, give life and character to the unfolding of the story.

Miss S. Ethel Brown, one of Mrs. Monroe's assistants, will have charge of the preparing of the entertainment. She is expected to arrive on Tuesday, Sept. 1st, and will hold the first rehearsal that evening.

The entertainment will be given in the opera house, on Monday and Tuesday evenings, Sept. 14 and 15.

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by L. Taggart.
