EDITORIAL PENTION.

War rumors have good news but bad prophecy.

To Dowie the only good in the oyster is the pearl.

In Alaska the flag will stay put all along the line.

The girls now explain that they caught their freckles from the sun spots.

Neither Gorman nor Hearst ever talk about their candidate for president.

Canada is annoyed at the loss of territory and also to think that England decided against her.

Dowie's abuse seems tame to New Yorkers who attend the political meetings during the municipal campaign.

Many of Senator Hanna's friends believe that it would be more dignified for him to ignore Bryan, as Cleveland does.

The triumvirate of notoriety friends, Parkhurst, Dowie, and Carrie Nation are quarreling in New York City.

In spite of his lengthy speeches Senator Morgan thinks he has a right to complain of the delay in the canal negotiations.

Canada had about the same influence in the Alaska Boundary decision as China has in the disposition of Manchuria.

It is not a lack of applicants embarrasses Speaker-to-be Cannon in selecting the chairman for the different House Committees.

President Roosevelt is going home to Oyster Bay to vote. The territorial delegate from Hawaii will not follow this good example.

The trusts feel at home in New Jersey, assassins believe themselves safe in South Carolina and lynchers enjoy the climate of Delaware, and of the United States for that matter.

Like the democrats the delegates from the District of Columbia will have more fun at the National Conventions, than at the presidential elections. The citizens of the District can't vote and the democrats can't elect.

A Perfect Painless Pill.

Is the one that will cleanse the system, set the liver to action, remove the bile, clear the constipation, cure headache and leave a good taste in the mouth. The famous little pills for doing such work pleasantly and effectually are DeWitt's Little Early Risers, Bob Moore of Lafayette, Ind., says: "All other pills I have used grip and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers are simply perfect." Prosperity Will Continue.

Comptroller Ridgely, as he informed the bankers in convention in San Francisco, sees nothing in the financial situation to effect the continued prosperity of the nation. He thinks that the course of business very largely depends upon the bankers. If they pursue a wise and conservative course there will be no trouble. Some few banks and trust companies, which have been engaged heavily in speculative enterprises, have gone under, and there may be other such institutions which will suffer in the same way. But that is not in any sense a reflection of the business situation, says Philadelphia Press.

A Baltimore trust company, for instance, loaned more than its entire capital and deposits to a railroad company building a line in Mexico. The action of Congress in declining to construct a canal across the isthmus had an adverse influence on the projected railroad, and this led ultimately to the failure of the trust company. But that had no relation to the business situation in the United States. It was pure speculation, and a bank or trust company taking such extraordinary risks in a foreign country might be expected to go into bankruptcy sooner or later.

The shipbuilding trust was another illustration of reckless and foolish speculation. The failure of that concern, no matter how great the prosperity of the nation, could not well have been avoided. It was organized apparently to afford opportunity for some persons to make unwarranted profits and then to get out of the business. But it did not hold together hardly long enough for that purpose. The failures the public hears about are nearly all of that kind. Legitimate enterprises and overcapitalized and honestly conducted are prosperous now, as they have been heretofore. But the corporations with inflated capital suffer more or less, as might have been expected.

The postal receipts of the country show an increase, which is a good test. The railroads are doing a large business, and while the effect of squeezing the water out of the speculative enterprises is somewhat depressing it is not effecting general business to any great extent and will soon be lost in view. Republican success at the polls in November will be a great influence in assuring the people that there is to be no radical legislation and nothing to retard the prosperity which the country has been enjoying for years.

MRS. BURDICK WINS.

Surrogate Gives Her the Trusteeship of Her Children's Estate.

Buffalo, Oct. 28.—Surrogate Marcus has handed down a decision in which he awards to Mrs. Alice Hull Burdick the care of the property left to her children as well as custody of their persons. The decree awarding her personal custody of the children was made some months ago. At that time the contest made by Mrs. Burdick against the fourth section of her murdered husband's will was tried out and decision was reserved. Edwin L. Burdick's will, in an attempt to deprive his wife of the care of their three children and their estates, was drawn as follows:

"Fourth—I nominate and appoint Charles S. Parks and Riselay Tucker to be the guardians of the persons of my three children, and August B. Kellogg, George H. Dunston and George C. Miller to be joint guardians of the estates of each of my three children, and I direct that all funds and securities belonging to each of my children, shall be received, held and paid out by them jointly as such guardians."

The argument of the executors of the will was that Burdick intended to create a trusteeship to hold his children's property. Surrogate Marcus holds that if that was the intent the language is not clear enough. The surrogate's decision means as soon as the executors have closed their management of the estate they must turn it over to Mrs. Burdick. She will be guardian of the persons and properties of her three children.

The estate left to the children is valued at about $60,000. It is probable suit will be started in their names soon to have deeded back to the estate several pieces of real property Mr. Burdick deeded shortly before his death to friends, with instructions to hold the property for his children.

CURES CATARRH.

"Hyomei the Most Wonderful Cure for Catarrh Ever Discovered," says L. Taggart.

Do not try to cure catarrh by taking drugs into the stomach; it cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this two common disease can be cured is through a direct application that will kill the bacilli of catarrh and prevent their growth.

Hyomei is the only known method of treatment that accomplishes this. It is the simplest, most pleasant, and the only absolute cure for catarrh that has ever been discovered.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials have been received from the most prominent men and women in the country who have been cured by this remarkable remedy. Ministers, bankers, lawyers, even eminent physicians have given strong testimonials as to the remarkable powers of Hyomei to cure catarrh.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, consisting of an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei to last several weeks. This will effect a cure in ordinary cases, but for chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, longer use may be necessary, and then extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c. It is not alone the best (it might be called the only) method of curing catarrh, but it is also the most economical.

L. Taggart had so much confidence in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrh, that he will for a limited time, sell this medicine under his personal guarantee to refund the money if the purchasers can say that it did not help them.
