Teachers' Institute Proceedings.

Teachers' Institute Proceedings.

The Thirty-seventh annual Cameron County. Institute was called to order promptly at 1:30 by county Superintendent Miss Collins. After the devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Metzler, the roll was called to which every teacher of the County responded. Prof. McGinnis gave as the first talk of the Institute, Children's Rights There is a diamond of immortality in every child is perhaps the most characteristic remark of the talk. Prof. McGinnis argued that pupils have rights from directors, namely, comfortable buildings, competent teachers of character, and a broad and extensive course of study; from the teacher the pupils have the rights of careful study of the individual natures; this confidence presupposing each child to be honest and possessing marked ability, from the parents they have the rights of perfect confidence and being treated courteously and of a home training that leads them to show utmost respect for others. Our duties as teachers and parents, he says, are the results of childrens rights.

Miss Weller introduced the subject of drawing by giving reasons why it should be taught. Drawing is one of the three best studies of the school curriculum for cultivating perception; it interests children as well as 5 tringing out the fluer sentiments. The rudiments of drawing was discussed, also the manner and method of teaching it in primary grades.

The Committee on Course of Reading reported and recommended Dr.Shaffer's book—Thinking the strength of the committee on Course of Reading reported and recommended Dr.Shaffer's book—Thinking the Nature Lovers Spirit could be discussed by the botter than Dr. Schwinger coe who and recommended Dr.Shaffer's book—Thinking and recommended Dr.Shaffer's book—Thinking a History Think," also Wolfson's Ancient History. The Nature Lovers Spirit could be discussed by no one better than Prot. Schmucker for who could be more in earnest in his work. The spirit of nature work he told us, is to teach children to be observing and to have sympathy for the lower forms of life, it cultivates a love for all that is good, noble, and true. After this introducing his work on nature study he gave a most interesting discussion of the sun and sun spots, advising that teachers and pupils look for the sun spot which will be visible in two weeks.

Tuesday Oct. 20. Devotional exercises were read by Rev. Robertson. After singing by institute, Miss Weller continued her talk on drawing. She showed how objects vary in magnitude according to the distance, illustrating by drawing. She showed how objects vary in magnitude according to the distance, illustrating by drawing. It is soon as pupils are far tenough advanced to use books this concreate method should beput aside and abstract method taken up.

Intermission and missic.

Prof. Green was heartily welcomed by the Institute. His subject, Masterpieces of Literature, was mos ably developed. He divides books into two classes, transitory and permaneut. A master piece, as defined by Prof. Green, is a literary production that betters the brain, helps the heart, lifts the life. [Masterpieces, are the delight of man kind, not the sensation. We should read something besides late novels and magazines, we also also the study of the lift of man kind, not the sensation. We should read something besides in the measured of the intellectual work low the imagination which is the coof the intellectual world full play.

TUESDAY, P. M.

Geometrical figures was the part of drawing under discussion. The different faces and their proportions were illustrated. Miss Weller developed the rectangle and showed how various architectural forms are derived from it.

In his remarks upon Points from Superintendent's Note Book, Prof. McGinnis stated that in visiting a school she following poins were crticised: Surroundings, sanitary conditions, enrollment, appliances, and vivity the mental picture children have of objects they should draw them, being guided by the teacher's instruction. In the talk PrimaryPupils ProfitablyEmployed, Mr. McGinnis speaks of the employments at seats. The busyl work given children should have a deeper meaning other than keeping pupils busy. As examples of practical busy work he aggested that the state of the state what it endeavors to make as complete as possible, Perfect silence prevailed when Prof. Green, arose to continue his instruction in Literature.

His topic was John Ruskin, or the mountain minded man, as named by Prof. Green. He gave only that part of his biography as helps to understand his writings. Ruskin's environment had much to do with his success in life. He depicted Ruskin as touching on all the movements of the 19th centurry yet one who had very little, if any sympathy with modernimprovements. To Ruskin is due the beginnings of the University eXtension movement. His inward nature was so highly cultivated that he could see beauty in all things, his aim in life was to help men to happiness and virtue.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Knox and after singing two selections, Miss Weller took up the subject of drawing. Perspective drawing at this period of development gives piace to the relation of geometric figures to Minard, at Four Mile, on Wednesday. where funeral services were conducted by the Rev. O. S. Metzler of town. Surviving him are a mother and two sisters, Mrs. N. P. Minard and Mrs. his father in 1795, yet they do not show John Wygant. He was 41 years of age. any considerable age or wear.

FLORA E., wife of John Kelly, Esq., of Emporium, passed to the great beyond, Oct. 30th, 1903, aged 57 years. Short services were conducted at the family residence by Rev. J. M. Robertson, Rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, on Monday afternoon at three o'clock, in order to give the Emporium relatives and friends an opportunity to pay a last tribute of respect to the deceased friend. The remains were taken to LeRoy, Bradford county, the former home of the family, for interment in the family cemetery. Deceased has been a great sufferer for three years with a terrible disease, cancer, and her husband expended money without stint to allay the disease, but all without avail. After spending several months with a specialist she returned to Emporium almost five weeks to the second when the death messenger silently called. In addition to the bereaved husband three daughters survive their mother-Miss Fannie, Mrs. John W. Norris and Mary Grace. The family were very devoted to their mother and the terrible affliction is hard to bear.

The following relatives from a distance were in attendance at the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Fremont Mott and daughter, Shippen; Mrs. L. A. Packard, Miss VanFleet, Canton, Pa.; Miss Jennie Norris, Kane.

M. C. Tulis' new stone steps are dandies. Contractor Fitzpatrick made a handsome job of the work. They will last.

Outrageous Work

Young America cut a wide swath last Saturday night and made Rome howl until late Sunday morning, despite the fact that two policemen were chasing several gangs of young men. The destruction of property, with a devlish spirit seemed to run rampant. It is a custom to celebrate Hallowe'en and perpetrate innocent mischief, but this year depredations were many, causing great expense to many citizsns. No doubt the perpetrators will be called to the Captain's office for settlement.

The Burglar. A charming, instructive, laughable play is "The Burglar," to be seen Friday, Nov. 6th, at the Opera House. It aroused and held Madison Square The ater audiences in New York for part of a season, and has since toured the country with gratifying success. Even the blase theater-goer, as well as the hardened stoic, are susceptible to their emotions as they see a desperate burglar softened by a child pleading, and the little ones tiny fingers straying among their heart strings finds and touches a hidden, but tender chord, and makes it thrill to the sweet music of humanity. Usual prices.

The Sunday School classes of Misses Byrde Taggart and Lora McQuay will hold a bread and cake sale, Saturday Nov. 7th, beginning at ten o'clock, in the vacant room opposite R. C. Dodson's store.

Harvey Tompkins, John D. Bell and William VanWert are negotiating for the purchase of L. K. Huntington's store and no doubt the sale will be con sumated. They are hustlers and will no doubt succeed.

33 W. Long Ave., DuBois, Pa. F. P. Strayey and family moved into their new and handsome residence, at junction of Fourth street and Allegany avenue, last Saturday. It is a comfortable home and reflects credit on the builder, Mr. Cramer. The interior is certainly a model of neatness and completeness with the latest modern conveniences. Good taste is manifested throughout. A famous play by a famous author, 'The Burglar," by August Thomas also author of "Alabama," will shortly be seen here. This play particularly appeals to the ladies and children, as one of the principal roles is enacted by a child not yet seven years of age, and the costuming of the ladies is very rich and appropriate. A pretty love story is entwind in the plot of "The Burglar" and the sensational developemnts, though mild, are absorbingly interesting. Usual prices.

The third act of the play is dramatization of Mrs. Francis Hodeson Burnett's story of "Editha's Burglar," which was in vogue about the same time with "Little Lord Fauntelroy," and has for its centre of interest a pre cocious and quaint little girl, as the other has a precocious and quaint little boy. The play is full of dramatic situations, with enough humourous by-play to relieve the tension, and it grows in interest from start to finish, although it is simple in its plot and in its business. Usual prices
