Nineteen more survivors of the Norge, picked up from a boat by a sailing ship, have been landed at Thorshaven, Faro Islands.

MAN HAS QUARTER STOMACH.

Other Three-Fourths of Organ Taken Out by Surgeons to Cure Cancer.

With three-fourths of his stomach in a pickle bottle, John Maguire is enjoying appetite and a renewal of health in Crozier hospital, Chester, Pa.

The operation which brought the stomach within the bottle was performed recently by Dr. William B. Van Lennep. It was the last desperate effort to save Maguire's life. He was a sufferer from cancer of the stomach and the involvement was so great that death seemed to be imminent.

Every precaution was taken to prevent recurrence of the malignant growth and to insure against blood poisoning. Removal of the diseased part was made with instruments heated by an electrical battery. A flap of the intestines was then sewed to the small pocket left by the remaining portion of the stomach and the usual openings left for drainage.

A TRACKLESS RAILWAY.

New Departure in Railroading in Germany Gives Every Promise of Success.

United States Consul Langer, at Solingen, Germany, reports to the department of commerce and labor that a trackless railway is being erected by the community of Monheim, which will be the first of its kind in Prussia. It will run from Monheim to Langenfeld, about 2 1/2 miles long, with two short branches intended for freight purposes.

For entering farm yards lying close to the road a connector and flexible cable 50 to 70 feet in length will be used to transmit the current to the motor car. When these trains pass each other one will remain standing under the wires and disconnect its current until the other has passed.

WRONG TRACK

Had to Switch.

Even the most careful person is apt to get on the wrong track regarding food sometimes and has to switch over.

Find Curious Old Flag.

An old flannel American flag with a history has been found by Max Towel, a York, Pa., tailor, in a disused corner of the attic over his shop.

Both Profitable?

The visiting editors expressed great satisfaction with the Pike and its variant attractions. The Pike shows, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, occupy the same relation to the world's fair that the paid locals do to the country newspaper.

WRONG TRACK

Even the most careful person is apt to get on the wrong track regarding food sometimes and has to switch over.

"From a child I was never strong and had a capricious appetite and I was allowed to eat whatever I fancied—rich cake, highly seasoned food, hot biscuit, etc.—so it was not surprising that my digestion was soon out of order and at the age of twenty-three I was on the verge of nervous prostration.

HOW JACK LONDON ARRIVED

Story of Early Struggles Toward Success of Brilliant War Correspondent.

Jack London, the fascinating short story writer and brilliant war correspondent, now at the front, is but 23 years old, says the Boston Globe.

The story of his early privations and hardships—his boyhood on a California ranch, his years before the mast in the waters of the Golden Gate, his struggle for learning, and the daring trip to the Klondike, from which he returned with more knowledge than nuggets—is known to most of his readers now.

Work! Don't wait for some good Samaritan to tell you, but dig it out yourself.

Keep a notebook. Travel with it, eat with it, sleep with it. Slap into it every stray thought that flutters up into your brain.

This valuable advice is appended to the story of his own struggle for recognition. Every one likes to know how the successful succeed.

One morning the postman brought him, instead of the usual long, thick manuscript envelope, a short, thin one. He couldn't open it right away.

Not having died right then and there, Mr. London is convinced that he may yet qualify as an oldest inhabitant.

Here is the incident that proved the turning point in Jack London's literary career, as he so graphically tells it:

"Nothing remained but to get out and shovel coal. I had done it before, and earned more money at it. I resolved to do it again, and I certainly should have done it, had it not been for The Black Cat.

And the rate he received for his first Black Cat story was nearly 20 times what the five-dollar editor paid.

Each of its famous prize competitions has brought new writers to the front. In its most recent, the $2,100 prize was won by a young Texan who had never before written a story, and the second, $1,300, went to a lawyer's wife in an obscure Missouri town.

It has just inaugurated another contest in which $10,600 will be paid to writers in sums of from $100 to $1,500. This will, no doubt, add many new names to the list of those who have 'arrived' through its recognition.

The conditions are announced in the current issue of The Black Cat, and will also be mailed free to any one by The Short-story Publishing company, Boston, Mass. Even those who cannot write a winning story themselves may earn ten dollars by giving a timely tip to some friend who can.

But all should bear in mind that it will be entirely useless for any one to send a story to The Black Cat without first reading and complying with all the published conditions. Here is a chance for the reader to dig dollars out of his brain, for what life does not at least contain one tale worth telling?

WISE BEYOND HER YEARS.

Senators Cullom and Cannon Baffled by a Bright Little Girl.

At the republican state convention in Springfield, Ill., Senator Cullom and Speaker Cannon tried to get a popular ruling as to which is the handsomer man, says the New York Herald.

"I don't like to say, mamma, which I like best, I might 'fend Mr. Cannon."
