

Seibert Tells Why He Bolts Democracy.

Democratic Chairman of Potter County Says the Only Trust Ignored at St. Louis was Trust in God.

The only trust, I believe, forgotten or ignored by the national convention was the trust in God," is the declaration of L. B. Seibert, leader of the Potter county Democratic bolters.

Seibert who has resigned the chairmanship of the Democratic county committee, and his followers in the revolt feel no more kindly disposed to the Parker-Davis ticket than they did the day it was nominated. They say they are not to be wheeled about by the convention's repudiation of Bryanism, and they charge the nomination of Parker directly to the influence of Wall street and the trusts.

CAN'T TRAVEL ON TWO ROADS.

The ex-county chairman has put forth what might be called a proclamation, in the course of which he says:

To me, it is no consequence what others may do. My conscience is my own; my duty is plain. In my judgement the two contending forces within the Democratic party have come to the parting of the ways. Along both of these pathways I am unable to travel with any degree of safety, success or self-respect. Neither shall I undertake it. To others of a more acrobatic turn of mind this might be possible, and, indeed, may meet with a certain degree of transitory success.

The heritage of Jackson, no longer the Mecca of Democratic hosts, is to be displaced by a memorial to Shylock, erected at the gateway of the Temple of Democracy, over which, indeed, well be incrimbed: "He who enters here leaves hope behind."

From Buzzard's Bay to Woolford's Roost; from Wall to Lombard street, is sounded, echoed and re-echoed this slogan of the present campaign: "Another Cleveland; another administration like that of from 1892 to 1896; more soup houses; more bond issues; more forced idleness—less honest toil; more money in the public jackpot—less bread for the hungry millions; more Coxe's armies—less public improvement; more keep off the grass—less comfort for God's poor; more smokeless smokestacks; more tramps; more troops for Chicago rioters—less liberty for the American workman, more government by injunction—less jury trials; more banks—less money for the people; more business stagnation—less enterprise; more Sheriff's sales; more poor houses."

APPEALED BY PARTY'S COURSE From a repetition of this awful condition of things. I turn, as I would from the wrath of God. It does not interest me; it appals. It does not satisfy; it angers me. The men in the Democratic saddle are good riders, but bad reinsmen. They would ride the Democratic horse off Belmont's track. Such conduct, such conditions, such leadership are said to be by the action of the St. Louis convention, "safe, sane and conservative." The St. Louis convention was absolutely controlled and influenced by interests hostile to every tenet of Democracy. They, who deserted the party in 1896 and 1900, were made masters of the situation.

Every unlawful and criminal trust was legally, actually and properly represented in that body. Their paid hirelings and hoodlums hooted and jeered Mr. Bryan and other distinguished Democrats simply because they attempted to save the Democratic party from utter rout and pending annihilation.

The only trust, I believe, forgotten or ignored by that convention was the trust in God, as evidenced by the hooting and shouting during the prayer of the chaplain.

Those, whose intrigue was indirectly the cause of the assassin's blow that killed Governor Goebel, of Kentucky, were the loudest advocates of the "safe, sane and conservative Democracy." They who cheered Hobson, that "Jack Ashore," when he eulogized Grover Cleveland for sending United States troops to Chicago to shoot down strikers, are not Democrats; at least, not my kind of Democrats.

TRUSTS' HAND IN IT ALL.

It was but natural that a convention controlled by such influences, made drunken by contributions from the Louisville, the Standard Oil, the Sugar Trust and kindred interests, could not give birth to a legitimate standard-bearer of true Democracy; and in keeping with the natural order of things a candidate with the cunning of a clam was brought into political existence by Senator Hill.

The Sheehans, Belmonts and McCarrens immediately became his trusted friends and advisers. His name was presented to the convention and he was nominated.

Though suffering with political luckjaw, this "human interrogation joint" found time to speak. After the mischief had been done, he informed Mr. Sheehan of that which Mr. Sheehan well knew before the nomination, that he, Parker, would repudiate the conditions, upon which the nomination had been effected.

In conclusion, permit me to add that the "safe, sane and conservative" have separated themselves socially, politically and, thank God, morally from the unsafe, unsound and non-conservative following of Mr. Bryan. Lunatic regularity, it would seem, must be both unsatisfactory, and undesirable to the "safe and sane."

For these and many other reasons, which I hope to make entirely plain to you before November next. I cannot and will not vote for Alton B. Parker, agreeing with many of my associates that the initials of his name stand for A Bad Proposition.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

JORDAN.

WILLIAM ORLOW JORDAN died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Jordan, West Sixth street, Sunday evening about 10:30 o'clock from tuberculosis of the throat. He was but in the twenty-sixth year of his age and the general community not being aware of the serious nature of his illness, heard the announcement of his death with mingled feelings of surprise and sorrow. His illness began three years ago, in Coudersport, where he held a responsible position with a leading mercantile firm and where his too close application to work superinduced the attack that baffled the best efforts of his physicians. He was subsequently employed in Chicago and spent the last winter in Pensacola, Florida, in the hope of regaining his health but with out avail. A letter received from his employer in Florida bears testimony to the patience and perseverance of his habits of industry and the pureness of his life. He was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Emporium and during his residence here was regular in his Sunday School attendance and active in promoting the interests of the Epworth League Chapter, to which he was closely attached. Mr. Jordan was a young man of many sterling qualities and was highly esteemed by everybody. He was modest and retiring in his disposition. Realizing his probable nearness to death he displayed no feelings of dread but was kept tranquil by the repose of his trust in God.

He was a member of the class of '95 of the Emporium High School. He was also a member of Eulalia Lodge, No. 342, F. & A. M., Coudersport, Pa., and a member of the Scottish Rites Masons of the same place.

Surviving him are a father and mother, two brothers Joseph and Harry and a sister Rena.

The floral display was beautiful and consisted of many expensive pieces, especially the Masonic offering.

His funeral was held from the home of his parents, Wednesday afternoon, and was in charge of his pastor the Rev. O. S. Metzler. The choir of the First Methodist Episcopal Church rendered appropriate music. Members of the local Masonic Lodge attended in a body and performed their ritual at the grave.

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS HERE.

Harry Jordan, (brother), Chicago; B. J. Collins and wife, (uncle and aunt) Chas. F. Collins, (cousin) Miss Edna Collins, (cousin) Mrs. William Driver, (cousin) Huntley; Geo. Strawberry and wife, (cousins) Sterling Run; Miss Audrey Kreider, (cousin) Driftwood.

GALLAGHER.

After an illness of over three years, MRS. NAN S. GALLAGHER, wife of Mr. Thos. Gallagher, Pennsylvania freight and ticket agent at Emporium, passed away last Saturday evening at 10:20 o'clock. During her long illness she made a gallant fight to live and every means secured to check the malady, anaemia, but death had claimed her and she resignedly awaited the final summons, peacefully sleeping away, surrounded by her loved ones.

Mrs. Gallagher, who was born at Grant, Herkimer county, N. Y., Dec. 25, 1850, came to Emporium in the early spring of 1875 and resided with her brother, Dr. W. H. DeLong and wife until Nov. 15th, 1883, when she was united in marriage to Mr. Gallagher. Deceased leaves a husband, a niece, (Miss Mazie Gallagher, who has resided with the family since infancy), three sisters, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Poppel, Grant, N. Y., and Mrs. Smith, Utica, N. Y., and two brothers, Dr. W. H. DeLong, of Emporia, Fla., (now here during the summer) and George, of Indiana.

During all these years Mrs. Gallagher has been active in social and christian work, a leader in society and one always willing to lead, no matter how exacting the duties were. Her home, one of the most pleasant in town, was always open to her friends, and they were legion. Her unselfish hospitality, so well known to our citizens, needs no flattery at our hands. We have all been her debtor for years. The writer well remembers, twenty-one years ago when she and her honored husband assisted us as bride's maid and best man and deeply regret the bonds of friendship then formed have, in part, been broken. We in common with many of the girls and boys of those days can look back with pleasure to the hundreds of joyous, happy times, in all of which figured Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher. The life of this excellent lady furnishes material for a lengthy obituary, but since securing the Rector's remarks, so eloquently delivered, we will close with the full realization that the memory of deceased will long live in the hearts of her Emporium friends.

THE FUNERAL.

Last Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock, the funeral services were conducted at the family residence, Rev. J. M. Robertson, Rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church officiating. The singing was furnished by the church choir and the vestrymen served as pall bearers. The services were largely attended by our citizens. Rev. Robertson's remarks being so appropriate we take pleasure in publishing the same.

REV. J. M. ROBERTSON'S REMARKS. We are assembled to-day to pay the last debt of sacred respect and affection to the earthly remains of one who for many years has held a large and warm place in our hearts; whose influence upon us all has been strong and pronounced, and by whose life the world has been the better.

In every sphere and relationship of life she has played a good part. In the home circle she was a model of wifely devotion and of every domestic virtue. Possessed of the winsome qualities which make and retain friendships, she was ever a center and leader among her wide circle of friends. A figure and force in the community, she was particularly an active worker and a prime leader in the life and affairs of Emmanuel Parish. For twenty-seven years she was a communicant of this Parish, and in all that time her heart was full of its interests. Only when the failure of her physical strength absolutely compelled it did she reluctantly lay down her active part in its affairs. It would be impossible and out of place at this time to attempt to rehearse in detail all that she has done in the life of our Parish during a period covering more than a quarter of a century. At some future time this story ought to be told at length. Enough at present to say that the place which she occupied in Emmanuel Parish has been a large place, and the void which her departure creates will not be soon or easily filled.

There are different types of saints in God's Church and Kingdom. There are those who like Mary of Bethany choose the quiet life of spiritual meditation and converse; and there are those who like her sister Martha are energetic and influential in outward activities. Each type has its place, its use and its reward. It was pre-eminently as a leader in outward activities that Mrs. Gallagher served well and faithfully her Church and Parish. Her work and influence will not perish, nor be soon forgotten; and we give thanks to God for the example of her faithful, loving, loyal service.

In her long illness she was very patient and cheerful and brave. She had long recognized the possibility of a fatal termination of her illness and was resigned and prepared for what might be in store; but she made it a matter of purpose and effort to maintain an attitude of hope and cheerfulness. At all times she was very considerate of others, and maintained to the last her kindly interest in the affairs and well-being of others.

A lovable and winsome personality, she was brave and strong in spirit, determined, persistent, masterful to the last. Her physical strength has failed, but it is impossible for us to think of her lovable and good and brave and steadfast spirit failing. We can only believe, in the spirit of the Apostle's teaching, that death to her is but a change, a transition, a release from the narrow confines and fetters of this earthly life into the largeness and freedom of the heavenly life.

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS.

The following relatives and friends of the family were in attendance at the funeral, from out of town: Mr. Roger Gallagher, Buffalo; Mrs. J. B. Revilla, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher, Pittsburg; the first three being brothers and sister of Mr. Gallagher. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rich, very dear friends, Randolph, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Swain, Keating Summit; Mrs. E. C. Davison, Miss Mary Davison, Johnsonburg.

FLORAL OFFERINGS.

The floral offerings from Emmanuel Sewing Society, Emmanuel Vestry, social society and intimate friends were especially beautiful. There was a great abundance of cut flowers and ferns, speaking volumes of the high regard in which the deceased was held. Interment was made in Newton Cemetery.

Thus closed the earthly career of another valued Emporium resident, one whose place will be difficult to fill.

Disgraceful Exhibition.

A disgraceful fight took place on Fourth street last Monday evening between R. P. Bingeman and Major Dorrval. During the fight Bingeman pushed or knocked Dorrval through one of L. Taggart's large plate glass windows. Policeman Mundy, aided by a number of our citizens parted the contestants and placed them under arrest. A riot almost resulted, the howling mob attempted to secure Mr. Bingeman, but Mundy stood his ground and protected his prisoner. We understand they gave bail for their appearance at court and paid the costs, the window alone costing $75.00.

DEATH STRIKES DOWN FORMER STATE RULER.

Ex-Governor Pattison Dies of Pneumonia Complicated With Heart Failure.

Robert E. Pattison, who was twice Democratic Governor of Pennsylvania, and twice Controller of Philadelphia, died early on Monday at his home in Overbrook. Pneumonia, complicated with a weakness of the heart, was the cause of death.

Mr. Pattison was a candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket against Governor Pennypacker in 1902, and had not been a well man since his laborious campaign in that year, when his tour of seven weeks covered nearly every county in the State.

He was a member of the committee on resolutions of the recent Democratic convention and his health failed under the strain. He remained in St. Louis a few days after the convention to rest and, returning home, resumed his business, dividing his time between Philadelphia and New York.

Last Friday pneumonia developed and heart complications aggravated Mr. Pattison's illness.

Consistency Thou Art a Jewel.

Democratic Boss Hookley, editor of the Independent, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, has broken loose again in an uncalled for personal attack on the editor of the PRESS. All one has to do to stir up this spider, is to impugn his political motives and up he jumps like a Filipino, looking for blood. "Editorial etiquette" requires one to handle public questions in a manly manner and if the editor of the Independent, thus early in the campaign, commences his usual low-down billingsgate he will exhaust his venom before the heated season passes. We have in the past ignored his personal attacks upon us, deeming them beneath our notice, and shall consider, as the public does, the unreliable source from whence it is vomited.

Eye Specialist.

Prof. W. H. Budine, the well known Eye Specialist, of Binghamton, N. Y., will be at R. H. Hirsch's jewelry store, Emporium, Pa., August 12th and 13th. If you can't see well or have headache don't fail to call and see Prof. Budine, as he guarantees to cure all such cases. Lenses ground and fitted in old frames. Eyes tested and examined free. All work guaranteed.

Popular Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rich, of Randolph, N. Y., arrived in Emporium on Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Thos. Gallagher, an intimate friend for many years. While remaining in Emporium for a few days our citizens were pleased to greet them, they always maintaining a warm place in the hearts of Emporiumites when residing here.

They are delighted with the improved appearance of Emporium and the excellent service given them at the New Warner, including their elegant furnished rooms, and may extend their visit for several weeks.

Absconded.

Jas. Walker, Jr., secretary of Wharton (Potter county) school board absconded last week, taking with him the wife of John Dorrval and his own daughter. Since his disappearance it has been discovered that he forged endorsement to drafts due the school districts and that they also went with him.

World's Fair Excursions.

Low-rate ten-day coach excursions via Pennsylvania Railroad, August 3, 10, 17, 24, and 31. Rate $15.95 from Emporium. Train leaves Emporium at 8:10 a. m., connecting with special train from New York arriving St. Louis 4:15 p. m., next day. 3230-23-5t

Mid-Summer Musical.

A mid-summer Musical, to which much artistic importance attaches will be held in the Auditorium of the First Methodist Episcopal Church Thursday evening, August the 25th under the auspices of the board of trustees. A list of the talent to be featured will appear later.

A Small Blaze.

Last Sunday morning, about 10:30, one of the tenement houses in "Bosworth" row, Chestnut street, caught fire on the roof, but was soon extinguished by the Mountaineer Hose Co.

It is still popular to trade with N. Seger. He carries a popular line.

WEATHER REPORT!
(Forecast by T. B. Lloyd.)
FRIDAY, Showers.
SATURDAY, Showers.
SUNDAY Fair.

Political Announcement.

Editor Press:—
Please announce my name as a candidate for County Treasurer, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention.
HENRY LUDLAM.
Emporium, Pa., April 26th, 1904.

BRIEF MENTION.

Lots for sale, enquire J. R. Fetter. 22-3t.

FOR SALE.—Lot on West Sixth street. Inquire of Mrs. S. J. Knickerbocker, Port Allegany Pa. 22-4t.

All wise men ought to show some of their wisdom. "Learning is the beginning of wisdom." Buy of N. Seger thereby practicing wisdom.

FOR SALE.—A good farm in Plank Road Hollow. For particulars inquire of Mr. Jos. Kinsler, Emporium, Pa. 23-tt.

Yes, the latest in collars is necks. N. Seger don't keep all the necks but he keeps the "necks" thing to it—collars—12 p. m.

WANTED.—A lady or gentleman of fair education to travel for a firm established 30 years. Salary, $1,072 per year and expenses, paid weekly. Address with stamp, H. W. KELLEY, Emporium, Pa. 24-2t.

The democratic county convention meets at the Court House next Tuesday to ratify the slate framed by the ring last winter. A number of gentlemen have been led to believe they are dead sure of the Treasurership nomination, but they will get their eyes open when the curtain is lifted from the machine slate. Of course it will be a surprise (?) to the ring but the deluded candidates may "ponder."

Lawn Social.

The ladies of St. Mark's Catholic Church will hold an ice Cream Social on the church lawn next Saturday evening. The public is cordially invited.

No man ever reached a joy by jumping over a duty.

Fred Miller Demised.

Fred Miller, an aged resident of this city, died Saturday morning after a brief illness. He had worked on Friday and was considered to be in his usual health. Heart disease was the cause. He was fifty years of age and had been a laborer in the Port Allegany tannery for upwards of twenty years. A wife and three children, Nellie, Katie and Albert Miller, mourn his demise. He was an honest, good citizen and his demise is generally deplored. He was a member of the Mac-cabees of the city and carried a policy for two thousand dollars. The funeral was held Monday, Rev. Reed officiating and the interment made in Fairview cemetery.—Port Allegany Reported.
