He Wouldn't Miss Prayer.

When Professor Tucker was "Tutor" Tucker at Bowdoin college the bell rang for prayers at the chapel, as now, very early in the morning, and it was imperative upon tutors and pupils to respond. As a tutor Mr. Tucker was very popular, although very strict, and he was always prompt to take his place at the head of his class at the early morning devotions.

One morning, however, he found his clothing gone and his door nalled while the bell was ringing. Finding a hatch-et he soon split the door down, and at the last stroke of the bell appeared, clothed in his shirt and a pair of overalls, barefooted, but with a smile of serenity on his expressive countenance. He took his customary place, and neither then nor afterward were words of complaint heard from him.

MY BABY.

In memory of Basel Donald Leadbetter, only child of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Leadbetter, who died Sept. 3rd, 1994.]

Such a little break in the sod, So tiny to be a grave;
Oh! how can I render so soon to God, The beautiful gift he gave.

Most I put you away, my pet, My tender bud unblown; With the dew of the morning up And your blossoms all unshow

My heart is near to break, For the voice I shall not hear; For the clinging arms around my neck, And the foot-steps drawing near.

And the foot-steps drawing near.
The tiny tottering feet,
Striving for mother's knee;
For the lisping tones so sweet,
And the baby's kiss to me.
For the precious mother name,
And the touch of the little hands
Of am I so very much to blame,
If I shrink from the sore demand.
How shall I know his voice.
Or the greeting of his eyes;
Amid the countless cherubs,
That rejoice in the gardens of Paradise,
How shall I know my own,
Where the air is white with wings;
My babe so soon from my boson flown,
To the angels minsterings?
And this is the end of it all,

To the angels minsterings?

And this is the end of it all,
Of my waiting and my pain;
Only a little funeral pail
And empty arms again.
O, baby! my heart is sore,
For the love that was to be;
For the untried dream of love, now o'er,
Twixt thee my child and me.
Yet over this little head,
Lying so still on my knee;
I thank my God for the bliss of the dea 1,
For the joy of the soul set free
Tis a weary world at best,
This world that he will not know;
Would I waken him out of such perfect rest,
For its orrow and strife? Ah, no!
Escaped are its thorns and harms,
The only path he has trod;
Is that which leads from the mother's arms,
Into the arms of God.

FAIRBANKS AND CANNON

Will Head Republican Orators In Stumping Pennsylvania.

PENROSE IS WORKING HARD

This State Has Been Especially Favored By the Assignment of Prominent Men to Speak For the Republican Ticket.

> [Special Correspondence.] Philadelphia, Sept. 13.

Pennsylvania Republicans are being especially favored in the present cam-

Notwithstanding the fact that this state is admittedly going to give Roosevelt and Fairbanks a glorious majority, the national leaders of the Republican party have shown unusual consideration for the Republican or-ganization of Pennsylvania. They recognize that Pennsylvania is a great power not only in the Republican organization of the nation, but in the congress of the United States. Pennsylvania has next to the largest number of delegates sent from any state to the Republican national convention. Her influence in the national councils of the party is frequently more potential than that of any other state, be cause in recent years she has invariably sent a solid delegation to the Republican national conventions.

The nomination of Roosevelt for the vice presidency in Philadelphia in 1900 was the result of the action of the late Senator Quay, with Senator Penrose co-operating, in swinging the Pennsylvania delegation into line early for Roosevelt and thus forming an organzation which the late Senator Hanna was unable to defeat.

So at Chicago, at the recent Republican convention, Senator Penrose, the new leader of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania, led the way for the nomination of Fairbanks for vice president, the Pennsylvania dele gation being the first influential body of delegates to meet in caucus and decide to vote as a unit for the Indiana favorite. This started the stampede to Fairbanks, and his unanimous nomination quickly followed.

Vice Presidential Candidate Fairbanks is coming to Pennsylvania to show his appreciation of the support which Senator Penrose and his colleagues in the Pennsylvania delegation gave him at Chicago. Although he is in great demand in doubtful states, Senator Fairbanks has accepted an invitation to speak at the convention of Republican clubs which is to be opened in Reading on September 21, and he will no doubt there reiterate his acknowledgment of the support which Pennsylvania gave him at cago and which he personally made to Senator Penrose when he called upon him after the adjournment of the national convention.

The young Republicans of the State League feel highly honored that Sena-tor Fairbanks should come to this state at this time. They have appointed a committee to meet him in Baltimore and escort him to Reading, where he will address a meeting in the Academy of Music on the evening of Wednesday, September 21.

Secretary Andrews, of the Republican state committee, says great preparations are being made by the Republicans of Reading to entertain the visitors on that occasion. A delegation of active spirits on the several committees addressed a meeting of the Allied Republican Clubs in Philadelphia a few nights ago, and they guaranteed an enjoyable time for all of the delegates and those who may accompany them. The convention will open on the morning of September 21. There will be a trip to Mount Penn that afternoon, and in the evening there will be a grand parade of local and visiting Republicans prior to the meeting which will be held in the evening. The convention will hold two sessions

Pennsylvania, it is seen, wields a power in Republican national conventions, and she is second to no other state in the strength of her Republican delegation on the floor of congress. In Republican congressional caucuses she state. Her influence in shaping the action of the Republican members of congress can thus be appreciated. It is a fitting compliment to the Republican congressional delegation from the Keystone state that the veteran speaker of the house of representa-tives, "Uncle Joe" Cannon, should ten-der his services to help maintain the prestige of the Republican delegation from Pennsylvania in congress. Speak er Cannon has accented an invitation to speak in York in support of the candidacy of Congressman Lefean for re-election in the York-Adams district This is normally a Democratic district but Congressman Lefean has carried it at the last two elections. Speaker Cannon, in accepting the invitation to address a meeting in the district of Mr. McLean, wrote: "Next my neighbors in Illinois, my home state, I feel more at home among Pennsylvania Republicans than among any others. They are of the sturdy, true blue, ever loyal and aggressive school of Republicanism that appeals to me. We want Pennsylvania to continue as the ban-ner Republican state in the country, and I will do my best to help her keep her Republican strength in the house of representatives. Pennsylvania's in terests are so great; they are so much dependent upon Republican supremacy that every Republican candidate for congress in the old Keystone state should have the backing of the full strength of the Republican organization, local, state and national, to in-sure victory in November."

In Praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Allow me to give you a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mr. John Hamlett, of Eagle Pass, Texas. "I suffured one week with bowel trouble and took all kinds of medicine without get-ting any relief, when my friend, Mr. C. Johnson, a merchant here, advised me to take this remedy. After taking one dose I felt greatly relieved and when I had taken the third dose was entirely cured. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting this great remedy in the hands of mankind." From 148 to 92 Pounds.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marien, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by R. C. Dodson.
