A Trip to The County Fair.

FIRST DAY. The Directors thought it hardly fair to keep the boys and girls from the County Fair.

So two half days were granted. And the boys and girls were landed. The wind blew off our hats, And all the girls yelled "rats." The coffee and sandwiches were fine, And the W. R. C. served our dinner on time. The stock exhibit first we saw, And, of course, according to law, The animals were let their way, For it was only a Cameron county display.

SECOND DAY. Of course, on the second day, Emporium's band was headed that way. The horse companies marched in line, And the weather man used his line.
