Why the Police of Our Cities Should Be Armed

By COL. HENRY WALKER.

THINK the police officer should carry a weapon. His duties often bring him into collision with the worst elements of a community which recognizes no law but that of violence, and must be performed even at the risk of his life. He is consequently entitled to all means necessary

The spirit of lawlessness so rife in our cities cannot always be kept under by honeyed words or moral suasion. The influx into our midst of multitudes of immigrants, many of whom come from countries where human life and Maw are held far less sacred than among us, where the law of force is the governing power, and who have little conception of our laws and civilization, must be controlled to some extent by force.

A police officer on duty, surrounded or pressed by a number of men, infuriated maybe by intoxicating liquor, or animated by hatred of law as embodied in the police, would have but little chance for his flife if he were compelled to rely on his own physical strength only to defend it. That must be supplemented and made superior to the force attacking him. This can be done only by giving him a weapon of

There is no better weapon in the hands of a resolute man, as a general thing, than the short club now in use. It is large enough for all practical purposes of defense or attack when necessary; it is easily wielded, and with the wrist loop can be with difficulty wrested from the officer. It can be readily kept out of sight until needed, thus being a smailed hand under the kid glove, though the dangerous classes know sit is ready for use. The revolver, especially the self-cocking one, is a dangerous weapon in the hands of an unskilled man, or of a reckless or easily excitable one. It should be carried only under exceptional circumstances, of which the division chief would be the best judge.

The London police, and there are no better, do not carry a weapon. He knows, and the people know, that beside him is a large trained military force always ready, and often summoned to do what there is simply police duty. On the contrary, our police is rarely aided by the military, and only in great emergencies is the soldier ordered out for police duty.

After all, the weapon is not to be looked after so much as the man behind it. Level-headedness, too much neglected, should be a prime factor in the appointment and promotion of police officers. Any weapon can be safely given to a discreet man, while any weapon is diable to be abused in the hands of an irascible or excitable, hot-tem-

Moreover, the police should have a single head. Three colonels to a regiment would be an absurdity, and the police force is semi-military. The head should be a strong, fearless, intelligent man, with courage to do his duty without fear or favor, to enforce the law honestly and impartially, while recognizing the fact that a great city cannot be carried on according to the ideas Nemy Halker of one man or set of men.

Marriage as a School

By JOHN CLIFFORD, D. D.

Our whole social sys-people into rounds of pleasure, in which the serious things of life have been set aside too lightly. Marriage has no doubt suffered with the general fabric. From my own observation and experience, however, and I am not inclined to think that there has been any serious decline in the fortress will hold out for many the sacredness with which the marriage tie is regarded by the vast the sacredness with which the marriage tie is regarded by the vast majority of the people. There is certainly an apparently growing disposition among many to escape from its obligations and responsibilities. That, however, I believe, is not due to a less sacred regard for the tie, but rather to the comparatively greater ease with which a separation or a divorce can be obtained than in former years; and to the increased publicity, through the newspapers and other means, given to the cases that come before the courts.

The conditions which are now manifesting themselves are not new. They already existed; but the causes I have referred to have served, in recent years, to emphasize them, and to bring them more promimently before the community as a whole.

Our divorce laws might be made more stringent. They would be the better if they made separations and dissolution tain. Marriage is like a school, and many people, like children, are set fice Frank H. Cunningham, the South Chard lessons. They would prefer to avoid them if they could and if Omaha, Neb., rural carrier, who is hard lessons. They would prefer to avoid them if they could, and if they see an easy means of escape they avail themselves of it.

In the case of the children, the parents and the teachers insist upon the lessons being done, and the children are taught in this way to regard difficulties as things not to be shirked, but to be overcome. $So it should be with marriage. It is opposed to the best interests of the people themselves, as well as to the community, to provide easy tmeans of escape from the hard lessons of marriage. Each hard lesson learned makes the next one easier to bear.

The Kope of a Nation

By PROF. J. G. SCHURMAN. President of Cornell University.

Those who wish to preserve the republic should beware of any tendency toward the growth of the military spirit. Government must be an institution under the law, and there is a great lesson for us in the study of Rome's history from the year B. C. 133 to the establishment of the empire. No anation can long endure without some high moral and political ideal. ·Our nation, for example, has endured for over a century and made for sitself an honorable place in the political history of the world, because it stands for the principles embodied in the declaration of independ-

Government of the people, by the people and for the people is something for which every member of a commonwealth may live, and, if necessary, something for which a citizen may die; but take away that ideal and leave nothing behind but tolerable prosperity, heavy taxation, a big standing army and a despot over all as absolute as any oriental dispot, and, as in the case of the Roman emperor, a nation will fall into decay and gradually disappear.

It is the duty of all good citizens to work for peace, to assume that It is the duty of all good citizens to work for peace, to assume that we are living in a world of peace, to recognize that ours is an age of peaceful industrialism.

ALL INTEREST NOW CENTERS AT PORT ARTHUR.

JAPS CONTINUE TO BOMBARD IT.

Serious Damage to Boats and Property Has Been Caused by Recent Attacks - Japanese Losses Are Said to be Very Large.

GHASTLY SIGHTS ON THE

SLOPES OF 203 METER HILL Before Port Arthur, with the Third Japanese Army, via Fusan, Dec. 15.— The work of removing the dead from the slopes and crests of 203 Metre Hill has been completed on the north side. The south slopes are still covered with bodies buried under the debris of trenches and bombproofs. The long lines of Japanese dead laid out on top of the hill and the slopes previous to interment presented an awful appearance. Most of the bodies were partially naked and horribly torn by dynamite bombs.

Every part of the city and harbor of Port Arthur is visible from 203 Metre Hill. The streets of the city are deserted. Many buildings have been burned and others shattered.

Washington, Dec. 15.-The Japanese legation has received the following cablegram from Tokio:

"Commander of naval artillery re ports that bombardment on the 13th was principally aimed at arsenal and torpedo depot at Tiger Tail and at steamboats in its vicinity. Torpedo depot ablaze one hour. Three ships were destroyed and one was sunk, beside buildings greatly damaged. "Togo reports that torpedo bo tillas attacked the Sevastopol twice on the night of the 12th and thrice on the night of the 13th. The result is un-certain. Our total casualties only three men wounded."

Mukden, Dec. 17.—There was considerable desultory firing on both sides yesterday. The Japanese made an advance, but it proved to be only a demonstration.

Night sorties continue.

The general position is very uncer-tain. Movements on both sides are hampered by the freezing of wells and the lack of snow, which render it necessary to keep near the river for water supply and near the coal mines for fuel. Brigandage is increasing.

Long Litigation Ended.

New York, Dec. 16.—A suit involving more than $15,000,000 which has been in the courts for nearly 30 years was decided yesterday in favor of the defendant, the city of New York, by a decision handed down by the United decision nanded down by the United States circuit court of appeals. The suit, which has come to be known as the "Campbell patent suit," was brought against the city in 1877 by the heirs of a man named Knibbs for an infringement of patent in the use of a

WITNESSES EXAMINED BY SEN. ATE ELECTIONS COMMITTEE.

THE MORMON CHURCH IN POLITICS.

Oaths of Vengeance Taken by Men and Women in the Temple and Penal-ties Ascribed for Revealing An Part of the Ceremonies.

Washington, Dec. 17 .- The first witness in the Senator Smoot inquir yesterday was Mrs. Annie Elliott, of Price, Utah. She is an elderly lady who went from Denmark to Utah in 1872 and left the Mormon church in 1872 and left the Mormon church in 1896. She was asked concerning the obligations taken in the temple and was requested to repeat as much of the ceremonies as she could remember. Mrs. Elliott said that the obligations were so indelicate she could not bear to repeat them.

By slow degrees Mrs. Elliott repeated the oaths of vengeance and the various penalties ascribed for revealing any part of the ceremonies. After saying that each person taking the endowments of the company of the comp dowments agrees to have his or her throat cut, Mrs. Elliott said it would be impossible for her to go any fur-ther. "At that time I considered it all so serious that I thought I would put it away and not mention it any more," she said when requested to proceed. Pressed by Chairman Burrows, the witness told of the other penalties and obligations which have been described by other witnesses

Mrs. Elliott described the garments worn by Mormons who have taken the endowments. Senator Overman asked if every Mormon in good standing is compelled to wear the garments, and the witness said that all such Mor-mons wear the garments as underclothing.

Looking at Senator Smoot, Senator Overman asked the witness if she were sure every Mormon in good standing in the committee room had the garments on.

"Yes, sir, they have." The reply provoked laughter and the witnes "I know they all have them

Senator Foraker asked the witness

if she had ever heard of the endow-ment house penalties being enforced against anyone. She said she had not Charles H. Jackson, of Boise City, Idaho, chairman of the democratic state committee, testified at length concerning the growing power of the Mormon church and its interference in state affairs, which he said was made the paramount issue by democrats and independents in the last campaign in Idaho. He said that apostles of the church from Utah go into Idaho and direct the people how to vote. These church officials, said Mr. Jackson, tell their people there have been revelations that they should vote a certain ticket and also that the Mormon church desires it. The witness described in detail the fight being made by the Mormon church for the removal from the state constitution of Speaking of the influence of the church on the political affairs of the state, Mr. Jackson took as an illustration the defeat of Gov. Morrison for a second nomination. He declared that Morrison's administration had been satisfactory to his republican constituents but that he had run foul of the ents, but that he had run foul of the ents, but that he had run foul of the Mormon church, and therefore was denied a second term. In this connection Mr. Jackson said: "It is impossible for any man or any party to stand against the Mormon church in Idaho.

Washington, Dec. 15 .-- Testimony relating to the alleged polygamous marriage of the late Apostle Abram Cannon and Lillian Hamlin and additional testimony concerning the ob ligations taken by persons who pass through the Mormon endowment house, was offered yesterday.

Fatally Stabbed Two People.

Washington, Pa., Dec. 17.—Angelo iardini and his wife are dying at Giardini and Westland, this county, the result of a murderous assault by the woman's father, Guisseppi Varino. The attack was made because Mrs. Giardini reproved her father for abusing her mother. Varino went to his son-in-law's house and, calling Giardini to the door, stabbed him several times. Leaving his victim unconscious Varino went to his daughter's room, where she was in hed. Seizing her the man she was in bed. Seizing her the man held her upright while he plunged the knife three times into her breast. Varino escaped.

Death of Ossian D. Ashlev.

New York, Dec. 17.—Ossian Doolit. tle Ashley, widely known in financial and railroad circles for more than half a century, died at his home here Friday, aged 83 years. In 1875 Mr. Ashley became active in the reorganization of the Toledo, Wabash & Western Railway Co., and it was with these interests that he was most prominently identified up to the time of his death. Several reorganizations of the properties erty followed until it was merged with the present Wabash system. Mr. Ashley was president of the Wabash Railread Co. for several years.
