THE FINE ART OF COOKING

With a Little Study of Subject Housewife Can Give Pleasing Variety to Bill of Fare.

Unhappy is the housekeeper who has fallen into a culinary rut. She does not always belong to that class who mus ount every penny spent upon her table More often she is one of those women whose household allowance is neither very small nor very large. She is not forced to devise new dishes from economical materials, nor can she indulg in epicurean feasts. Therefore her task of planning meals is apt to lack zest for herself, whereas if she would occasional ly embark upon a gastronomical voyage of adventure, the result would be stim-ulating to her own interest and eminently pleasing when the family circle gathers around the dinner table

For instance, many women who think that sweet potatoes boiled or baked are sufficient variant on the Irish or white potato, will find that they lend themselves to many other tasty dishes, notably the recipes used by southern house

For a breakfast dish or entree at dinner, they make a delicious scallop. Take potatoes that have been boiled or steamed until tender, and when cold slice moderately thin. Put a layer about an inch thick in the bottom of a shallow pudding dish. Sprinkle with butter and white sugar, add another layer of potatoes, then butter and sugar again. Continue until the dish is filled. Scatter butter and sugar over the top and pour over the potatoes just enough boiling water to keep them from burning. Cook half an hour in a moderate oven, or until the potatoes look transparent and are delicately browned. The sugar may be omitted and a seasoning of salt and pepper used. Should the potatoes become dry, baste with melted butter. Those who do not like too much butter will prefer this dish if half a cupful of meited butter is mixed with boiling water, and used to baste the vegetable.

Another way of serving the tuber is uited to dinner, luncheon or supper. Cut the cold potatoes into slices a little more than an inch thick. For one quart melt half a cupful of butter and add to it a plentiful seasoning of salt and pepper and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Dip the slices in this mixture, lay in a buttered pan and cook about ten minutes in a hot oven. When glossy and brown they are ready for the table.-Louisville Courier-Journal.

Americans Do Not Pay So Much Attention to This Course as They Should.

Celery Soup.-Well wash and mince finely, or grate, two large heads of celery, using the white parts only. Boll this in a quart of milk, adding in pressed intention to be the representative of all the people. The president is in office now matters? The president is in office now Haricot Soup.-Well wash a pint of beans, removing all the float or those that are damaged, then add these beans to three pints of cold water, with a tea-spoonful of salt, and, if liked, a small onion and a sliced carrot, with eight or ten peppercorns. Bring this to the boil, then let it cook gently for half an hour, when you stop the boil by pouring in about half a teacupful of cold water. Let it all simmer again, and repeat this watering every hour or so till the beans are tender enough to sieve. (It is impossible to give a time for this, as it depends en-tirely on the age of the beans.) Now sieve the beans through a hair sieve, diluting them as you do so with white stock (either meat or vegetable) till ou get it to the consistency required. Let this all boil up together again, removing any scum that rises, and just before serving stir in either an ounce of butter or three or four tablespoonfuls of thick cream. Serve with crotons of fried bread (remember these should never be smaller than a florin piece; the tiny dice so often served with thick soups harden to a rock and become absolutely indigestible). Lentils, flageolets and peas may all be cooked by this recipe, but for the last you will find it best to use the dried Italian "green peas," adding a handful of spinach to improve the color. Failthis, two or three drops of Mrs. A, B. Marshall's green vegetable coloring should be stirred in at the last with the cream .- Madame.

THE DIVIDED DEMOCRACY.

Double Attacks and Assaults from the Rear by Former Party Leaders.

The only way in which the country gets a chance to remember the name of him which are being made by demoup Parker last year, and says that the men who stood back of his candidacy were the heads of the hig more and says that the so crying" now as it was become were the heads of the big monopolies and trusts. Incidentally, too, he remarks that the republican party to-day is showing the shrewdest politics it has ever displayed. "It is," he says, "giving just enough rope to the southern democrats and they are hanging themselves."

This is a double attack on the de mocracy by a democrat, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It is an assault on the Hill-Cleveland-Belmont ement, which is primarily responsible for the nomination of Parker, and it hits the southern faction, which has begun to show some prominence in the party councils since the smash-up on November 8, 1904. Some of the eastern democrats have been saying that the way for the democracy to be saved is for the southern wing of the party to assume the leadership. This robust New York democrat says the democracy has too much south in it already Primarily, this is probably an attack on Williams of Mississippi, the party's titular leader in the house, who has recently developed an incapacity for leadership which recalls the old days of blundering of Richardson and discordant and demoralized at this time even that it was in the canvass of The men who were chiefly responsible for Parker are utterly discredited and cast out. At the same time the south, from which some aid was expected in reorganizing the party, is not contributing anything except discord to its councils. The one strong man in the democracy is William J Bryan. The Cleveland faction is probably as hostile to him as it was in 1896 but the masses of the party are on his side, and he will probably be nomi-nated in 1908. In that year radicalism, as represented by the Bryanized democ racy, will be pitted against conserva-tism as exemplified in the republican party. It is exceedingly probable that the party which won in 1904 will be the victor in 1908 also, but the canvass will be far more exciting that was the one which ended a few months ago.

PRETTY LITTLE FAN PLAY.

Miss Democracy Tries to Make Up to the President with Gentle Arts.

The attempt of Miss Democracy to flirt with the president is something more than amusing. It is amusing enough. We have not had anything just like it in our affairs before, says the Washington Star. The lady who protested too much is widely celebrated. Maybe Miss Democracy would do well to reflect upon that lady's history and fate. Mr. Roosevelt has heard of her, we may all be sure. Besides, he is not just out of school, and should not be an easy catch. A little fan play, a handkerchief adroitly dropped, a furtive glance or two, eyes that smile and smiles with eyes in them, should not be deadly with a beau who has been out for a year or two and knows all the signs and the way around. Who knows but that while he is enjoying the affair he is vet entirely safe and has no thought of straying from his true allegiance?

Miss Democracy is, or seems to be, of the opinion that the president is footloose and fancy free. She imagines him in position to go where he likes, with whom he likes and generally to do as he pleases. This belief is founded upon the

But is not that a mistaken view of under promise of carrying forward his party's policies, and he begins his new term in March under instructions received at the polls in November. PLATFORM BY MR. BRYAN.

Made Up of a Little of Anything Good Enough to Stand On.

William J. Bryan is still busy formulating a platform for his party, or reiterthe man who headed the democratic ticket in 1904 is by the attacks upon of one who would dictate his party's platform, says the Chicago Chronicle. Mr. Bryan adheres to his position that gold. This implies that the need is still crying and therefore not to be omitted from the democratic platform.

Asked whether he was a socialist, he answered for the democratic party as who should say: "The democratic party? It is I," or "I am it.' He said: "The democratic party believes in some measures the socialists believe in. That does not make it socialistic. It believes with the populists on some points, but it is not therefore populistic. We are said to be now in accord with the republicans in few matters, but we can't be accused of being republicans.

So Mr. Bryan—or the democratic party, which is the same thing—is a sort of basket picnic party—a little of everything cold and not much of anything good. It is a party of scraps and odds and ends picked up as they come and without consistency or coherency.

Good advice to the republican party would be to beware of the few matters with which the democrats "are said to be now in accord." Anything that the Bryan democracy is in accord with is to be regarded with suspicion and handled with tongs.

For instance, there is the proposed Bailey when in control of their party in the popular chamber. railroad legislation. Mr. Bryan is in accord with that and urges his followers in congress to vote for it if necessary in order to secure its enactment. We may learn the reason from his statement that he believed the unfair discriminations and rebates could never be cured except by public ownership. A measure which in Mr. Bryan's opinon would lead up to that consummation of state socialism may well be turned over by a republican congress to an expert in infernal machines with instructions to inspect thoroughly and eliminate the dynamite.

NEW DEMOCRATIC SCHEME.

Contemplating a Move to Put the Republicans in an Embarrassing Position.

Several of the prominent railroad attorneys, general counsel for the big trunk lines, who have been in Washington for the past six weeks keeping an eve on prospective anti-railway legislation have left the city and returned to their homes, confident that there will be no egislation at this session of congress inimical to railway interests, says a Washington exchange. The fact that the house of representatives will pass a railway rate bill does not cause uneasiness and these attorneys who have made it their business to look into the situation have concluded that there will be no legislation that will hurt.

The democrats of the senate are contemplating a move to put the republieans in an embarrassing position. Efforts are now under way to secure, if possible, agreement among the democrats upon a railway bill if it comes over from the house, with an invitation to the administration senators to join them in a proposition to put the bill through. Some democratic senators who have been looking into the situation say that there is possibility of securing enough votes from western republicans who are in favor of railway rate legislation to make a majority of the senate if the solid democratic vote could be polled. In hat event the spectacle would be presented of the president of the United States and a small portion of his party in the senate, backed by the unanimous emocratic vote, standing for rate legis lation which was denied by a majority of the republicans of the senate. The emocrats say this would be an object St. Clair county, Mich., there is no betesson to the country that relief must be obtained through democrats.

crats of the house intend to oppose the pending republican bill for the regulation of railway rates. They will offer the Davey bill, which was indorsed by the democratic caucus, as a substitute, and will be voted down. The scheme of the democratic senators is to take the bill that comes over from the house, which will be the measure reported by the republicans of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

Burning Up with a Terrible Itch' Eczema-Speedily Cured by Cutienra.

"The Cuticura Remedies cured me of a terrible eczema from which I had suffered egony and pain for eight long years, being unable to obtain any help from the hest doctors, and trying many remedies without success. My scalp was covered with scabs and my face was like a piece of raw beef, my eyebrows and lashes were falling out, and I felt as if burning up from the terrible itching and pain. Cuticura gave me relief the very first day, and made a complete cure in a short time. To my very great joy, my head and face are new clear and well.—Miss Mary M.
