FANCY LOCKETS POPULAR.

Much Ornamentation Used for These Dangles and Sometimes Several

Kinds of Gold Employed.

Florodora's famcus sextette of pretty girls revived the vogue for wearing a locket, five years ago, and it con-tinues to be popular with the girl in 1905. To get a look within its secret covers is the fortune of only a favored few, for its contents often reveal the key to its fair owner's seatiments, whether it hold her sweetheart's picture, or a plate mirror by which she adjusts her refractory locks when ad-miring eyes are turned away.

The plain gold locket, with highly polished surface, is always a hand-some trinket to dangle from a long neck chain, and when engraved with a large monogram in the new graceful scripts it knows no rival. But it is the heavily carved locket in rose gold or French gray silver that stands at present in highest favor. These may be expensively jeweled or they may be brilliant with tiny rhinestone chips, which are especially bright in combination with gun metal. The popu-lar shape is an oblong and the small locket is in favor for the nonce.

A haughty peacock ornaments one oblong locket, his cocked head and spreading tail being worked out in blue and green enamel against dull gold ground. In round lockets, both large and small, roses are heavily embossed and wee rubies, emeralds and diamonds glisten from every crack and corner. A small "ound locket in rose gold showed the head of a sly fox, with his nose just reaching up to a bunch of grapes in blue enamel. Another of the same in the Mouth, Coated pinkish hue had the shaggy head of a lion peering out from two diamond regulate the Bowels. Purely Vegetable. eyes.

A flower or the head of an animal forms the top cover of some locket A pansy face in rose gold had cases. a ruby heart surrounded by seven small diamonds. Single heads of cherubs make a stunning trinket for the end of a silver chain. Other silver lockets show a deer's head in bold relief, or the figure of a Grecian maiden with statuesque profile.

Single jewels cut in heart-shape are encircled with pearls or diamonds, an amethyst heart being headed by a bowknot of pearls, or a topaz heart having a frame of rhinestones. Headed by a bowknot of rhinestones, a quaint pendant locket holds a tiny crystal hand mirror set in a frame of imitation rubies. Miniatures of famous beauties, encircled with a fine filigree of gold and diamonds, form the covers for costly lockets, and the horsewoman has her favorite trotter's picture under a semi-globe of crystal. Masonic emblems are outlined in diamonds on square pendants for men's use, and profiles of beautiful women also adorn them .- St. Paul Globe.

TO MAKE YOUR JWN RUGS Just at Present Hand-Made Mats

Are Considered Very Desirable, So Save Carpet-Rags.

The question of rugs is always with the housekeeper. The low-priced ones do not wear well, as a rule, and those that are durable are so high-priced, also as a rule. No wonder, then, that the old fashioned rag rugs are revived. They are made in most artistic combinations of color by the craftsman, and may be woven to suit any room. Rugs made of old ingrain carpets are very satisfactory; the carpet is cut into long strips, about an inch wide, the longer the bet-ter. The weaver sews these together, as the joining must be very neatly made, and a good weaver should be selected, as much depends upon the warp, which must be heavy to hold well. A red warp is good for nearly all of these rugs and they are practically indestructible. The ordinary rag rug may be made of sorts of bits sewed together. First cut the rags, which should be clean, into stripe an inch wide; never mind about the length; sew these together by lapping, not in the usual seam, with strong Either the "hit and miss where no attention is paid to the com-inations of color, may be used, or some sort of order carried out in the joining. The sewing in of a strip of black at more or less regular intervals gives the zig zag result that is sometimes seen. After the sewing is done the strips are wound into pound balls, and the rule is a pound to a yard of carpet, unless the rags are of very light goods. Almost any kind of gingham, calico, turkey red and unbleached muslin, bits of woolen gowns, scraps of cloth and linings may all be utilized, and the preparation of the balls is a good winter night's recreation.

WHERE WAR STILL RAGED.

at Peace.

Something for the Correspondents to Do When Nations Were

Even at the early dawn of Utopian civ-ilization it became evident that the era of universal peace had arrived, says the New York Sun. The nations discovered that the great gan had been invented that would send a projectile through any armor, while, on the other hand, the armor had been invented that would re-sist the attack of any gun. The submarine boat had been tested that would re-sist the attack of any gun. The submarine boat had been tested that would re-sist the attack of any gun. The submarine destroyer destroyer, which in its turn might succumb to the submarine de-stroyer-destroyer. Quite naturally this deplorable condi-tion of worldwide peace frightened the Amalgamated Conclave of War Corre-spondents, whose members found their occupation gone. Accordingly at a meet-ing the president arose and presented a resolution for disbandment. "There are no more conflicts. Cruelty and carnage is a thing of the past. We might as well go into other professions," he said. Even at the early dawn of Utopian civ-

he said. Just then Richard Chefoo O'Higgins arose and objected in a speech that proved war correspondents to be still necessary. "No carnage, no conflicts!" he roared. "Why, the editors can still send us to write up woman's suffrage meetings, col-lege hazing and the Brooklyn bridge crush at six!"

SALT RHEUM ON HANDS.

Suffered Agony and Had to Wear Bandages All the Time-Another Cure by Cuticura.

Another cure by Cuticura is told of by Mrs. Caroline Cable, of Waupaca, Wis., in the following grateful letter: "My husband suffered agony with salt rheum on his hands, and I had to keep them bandaged all the time. We tried every thing we could get, but nothing helped hum until he used Cuticura. One set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills cured hum entirely, and his hands have been as smooth as possible ever since. I do hope this letter will be the means of helping some other sufferer."

Billion Dollar Grass.

When the John A. Salzer Seed Co., of La Crosse, Wis., introduced this remark-able grass three years ago, little did they dream it would be the most talked of grass in America, the biggest, quick, hay pro-ducer on earth, but this has come to pass.

BILLION $5 GRASS

Agricultural Editors wrote about it, Agr. College Professors lectured about it, Agr. Institute Orators talked about it, while in the farm home by the quiet fire-side, in the corner grocery, in the village post-office, at the creamery, at the depot, in fact wherever farmers gathered, Salzer's Billion Dollar Grass, that marvelous grass, good for 5 to 14 tons hay per acre and lots of pasture besides, is always a theme worthy of the farmer's voice. Then comes Bromus Inermis, then which there is no better grass or better perma-nent hay producer on earth. Grows wher-ever soil is found. Then the farmer talks about Salzer's Teosinte, which produces 100 stocks from one kernel of seed, 11 ft. high, in 100 days, rich in nutrition and greedily eaten by cattle, hogs, etc., and is good for 50 tons of green food per acre. Victoria Rape, the luxuriant food for hogs and sheep, which can be grown at 25e a ton, and Speltz at 20e a bu, both great food for sheep, hogs and cattle, also come in for their share in the discussion. SOUTHERN CONDITIONS AND POSSIBILITIES.

In no part of the United States has there been such wonderful Commercial, Industrial and Agricultural development as along the lines of the Illinois Central and the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroads in the States of Teuneäsee, Mississippi and Louisiana, within the past teu years. Cities and towns have doubled their pop-ulation. Splendid business blocks have been erected. Farm lands have more than doubled in value. Hundreds of industries have been established and as a result there is an unprece-dented demand for Day Laborers, Skilled Workmen, and especially Farm Tenants.

Parties with small capital, seeking an oppor-tunity to purchase a farm home; farmers who would prefer to rent for a couple of years before purchasing; and day laborers in fields or facto-ries should address a postal card to Mr. J. F. Merry, Asst. General Passenger Agent, Dubuque, Iowa, who will promptly mail printed matter concerning the territory above described, and give specific replies to all inquiries.
