Daisy's Answer to Ripping.

It is evidently certain that somebody is feeling pretty sore over our protest in an recent issue of the PRESS, in regard to the schools of this place.

We have always been willing since childhood to take our medicine and I suppose the dose on this occasion will not cause us any indisposition, considering where it comes from.

God pity us if there are any more such verdant scribes as the Ripper (Fair Play) in our immediate vicinity. Look at the article of last week, placing the emphatic word (He), or using it all through what some persons call gifted phraseology.

Does the writer know whether "Daisy" is a man or woman before putting too much grammatical emphasis on the pronoun he, vainly straining at a gamut while endeavoring to swallow a camel.

Mr. Editor, my mother always taught me to be truthful in my dealings and in my own defense and I will state here that I have the usual thumb and four fingers on my right hand. If the entertainments conducted by our schools here can be counted on our right hand during the term, we will acknowledge the error and call it a case of mistaken identity.

This writer, or writers, has taken the responsibility to speak for the whole community, the school directors, teachers, and the people, a contract you had better let out for as a free citizen of this Commonwealth, we allow no man or woman to put their hand over our mouth and tell us to mind our own business, when our protest was in behalf of the people.

"Fair Play" or "Foul Play" or whatever you may style yourself, go ask A. F. Walker or John May, two school directors elected by the voice of the people and not by appointment of the Board, why they resigned and you will be a wiser person and better adapted to attend to your own business after knowing.

Four protest has caused us to loose friends here we simply say we don't want such friends, and would rather seek the rattlesnake's den for friendship than such, for they will fully warn you of hostility and not bite before their rattle is heard.

And now "Fair Play," or somebody who has nothing else to do, as you call them, go away back and sit down and study your A. B. C's, with those large scholars who received the alphabet on the bottoms of plates, presented by the teacher, as a reward of merit, at the close of the present term, with advice to study them. Don't say we lie or for us to attend to our own business for we are ready to back up our assertions and you won't have to run the streets or flood the mails to find out who "Daisy" is.

DAISY.

The PRESS hopes, for the benefit of the schools, that "Fair Play" and "Daisy" will now let this matter slumber.—EDITOR.

A DANGEROUS HABIT.

Gladstone's Physician Gives Warning Against a Growing American Custom.

The growing habit amongst Americans of taking a mint tablet or some other so called digestive after eating a hearty meal, is something that Sir Andrew Clarke, Mr. Gladstone's physician, advises strongly against, saying: "It is absolutely dangerous to take into the stomach remedies which are popularly supposed to aid in the digestion of food."

There is nothing known to the science of medicine that can perform the work of the human stomach. Drugs do not and cannot digest the food. They simply decompose it. What can be more revolting or disgusting than the thought of taking something into the stomach that is going to turn the good food you have eaten into a mass of corruption.

The only way to overcome indigestion and its evil effects is to remove all irritation. Congestion and inflammation from the stomach, liver and intestines, and Mio-na is the only agent known that will do this.

When a Mio-na tablet is taken before each meal every trace of irritation and inflammation is removed from the stomach and digestive system, and those organs will extract from the food all that goes to make good, rich blood, firm muscle, steady nerves and a sound healthy body. If you suffer with headaches, indigestion, flatulency, spots before the eyes, vertigo, or dizziness, palpitation of the heart, sleeplessness, or any stomach trouble, get a fifty cent box of Mio-na from L. Taggart one of our most reliable druggists, whose faith in the remedy is shown by his offer to return the money if Mio-na does not give complete satisfaction.

Mr. Chas. L. Butler Declines.

After due deliberation I have concluded to withdraw my name as a candidate for the nomination of Sheriff. My personal affairs are so situated that it would be a sacrifice on my part to accept the nomination. Thanking my many friends for their ardent support in my behalf, I remain,

Yours Respectfully,
C. L. BUTLER,
Emporium, Pa., April 10th, 1905.

For Rent.

The store room, so many years occupied by R. Seger & Co., will be rented to responsible party.

R. SEGER.

Stockholders Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Emporium Powder Co., held at the company's office last Tuesday evening, all officers and directors were re-elected for the ensuing year.

Father Dies.

The VanWert boys, Geo., William and Stephen, received on Monday morning the sad news of their father's death, at Ten Mile River, Sullivan county, N. Y. They left on Buffalo Flyer Monday afternoon, to be present at the funeral.

Removed to Buffalo Hospital.

Jas. R. Fetter, who recently returned from a Philadelphia Hospital where his left foot was amputated, has been in a precarious condition for several weeks as a result of the long standing diseased foot, was taken last Sunday to General Hospital at Buffalo for treatment. E. J. Smith accompanied him to Buffalo. His friends here hope he may be benefited. Mr. Fetter, Mr. Smith informs the PRESS stood the trip remarkably well. At hour of going to press no news has been received.

Humane Society.

Miss J. W. Driscoll, representing the Commonwealth Humane Society, is putting forth her best efforts to establish a society of this nature in town. Miss Driscoll is very anxious to locate all cases wherein dumb animals have been ill treated. This society is one in which all good citizens should be interested and should give this lady their heartiest indorsement.

Good Joke on Jesse Skillman.

Our friend Jesse Skillman is the victim of one of his own jokes. Meeting a gentleman, a stranger, and telling him of a chase he had in the woods last December, after a four pronged deer and how he succeeded in downing his game, came to his senses yesterday when he again met the same gentleman, who proved to be Jos. Berrier, State Game Protector. Jess saw he was in for it and plunked down the fine and costs—$103. Moral—don't kill game out of season—its expensive.

Not on the Osler List.

Nearly two years ago, our townswoman, Mrs. E. M. Newton, was invested with the power of attorney, to manage and settle a New York city estate. By care and attention to details she enhanced the value of the property ten thousand dollars within a few months. She has now sold it, and divided the proceeds of the sale to the satisfaction of those concerned.

When complimented upon her business methods, and asked where she obtained her financial training, she answered: "In a Pennsylvania village, among the cleverest people in the world."

Having demonstrated her ability to conquer the haughty janitor, and conciliate the complaining tenant, besides running the gauntlet of auditors without having a figure in her books disputed, she says she feels qualified to venture into "frenzied finances," as any other easy old thing. An extract from a recent letter of her's reads: "I can furnish first class city references to show that I have become an adept in tar and gravel roofing, can build waterproof walls on a patent not yet applied for, can act as a whole purchasing agency from sanitary air-vacuums to cast iron contracts, and I know the exact amount of energy it requires to lift a $54,000 mortgage."

Literature? No, not now, I must get out of range of telephones and the wireless, before by nerves are steady enough to send copy to magicians who have an exasperating habit of making "pi" of the most unpromising material.

Speaking of the wireless reminds me that a connection, whom you have frequently met at Newton Terrace," entertained Marconi and his bride this week.

Everybody was charmed with her, but Jimmy (the furnace man) said to his mistress in confidence: "I feel sorry for Mr. Marconi, Madam."

"Why so?" was the amazed question. "Because he has married an Irish woman, and they all drink." Jimmy is an Italian, and a race antagonism furnishes a key to the remark."

In the Parade.

As this is the time of the year when everyone does more or less repairing, painting or paper hanging, I will cheerfully furnish estimates on all contract painting. Have this season's (1905) wall paper sample books (one of the best manufactured, bar none) containing over 2,000 of the latest shades and patterns of samples ranging from two cents to $1.50 per roll. Will give the best of satisfaction in all work entrusted to me. Call on or drop postal.

J. W. CLARKE, I. O. O. F. Block.

Brush Up.

F. H. Pearsall, the popular Painter and Paper Decorator desires to inform his many patrons that he is ready for an active season's work, having in his employ several good experienced workmen. After many years of experience in decorating and painting the public can rest assured they will receive first-class attention. Call on or drop me a postal, and examine my sample books.

Flowers.

For Easter in beautiful variety, carnations, hyacinths, etc., at John Schlecht's green house.

The Observer.

The time has not yet come when we can afford to dispense with the apostolic injunction to "believe not every spirit, but to try the spirits." Indeed, this counsel is peculiarly pertinent and needful at a time when we are beset by the appeals of so-called Christian Science, of Dowleism, of Spiritualism, New Astrology, Palmistry and numerous other forms of occult art, to say nothing of numerous fads and upstart schools of medicine. It is probable that no system has ever yet been compounded of pure error, and so we should always have a mind open to recognize the grain of truth or fact which may possibly enter into the most preposterous and objectionable fads, but our attitude towards all these systems and schools should be one of very strong conservatism. Provided one has a firm standing ground of his own and will not allow himself to be carried off his feet by every wind of new belief that blows, he may occasionally extract some helpful element of fact or suggestion from these side currents and eddies of thought. It is not always easy to draw the line between a current of thought that is merely a side back flow, a blind return towards some abandoned belief of the past, and one that is in line with the main current of advancing knowledge.

The Observer has recently been looking over a book entitled "The Law of the New Thought" by Mr. William Walker Atkinson, and has found much in it that in his judgment is true and valuable. Like the writings of Mr. Ralph Waldo Trine, the author of "In Tune With the Infinite," this book is representative of the type of religious temperament and thought which Professor William James calls "the religion of healthy-mindedness." The New Thought we are told, "calls upon Man to cease his lamenting and repining and urges him to stand erect and assert his right to live and be happy. It teaches him to be brave, as there is nothing to fear. It teaches him to abolish fearthought and worry, and the other foul brood of negative thoughts, such as Hate, Jealousy, Malice, Envy and Uncharitableness, that have been keeping him in the mire of Despair and Failure. The New Thought stands for the Fatherhood of God, the Oneness of All—the Brotherhood of Man—the Kingdom of Self." It is only fair to the author to say that he admits that the New Thought is not really new. Certainly it is not difficult to find a full equivalent of the foregoing in the sayings of our Lord in the Gospels. If there is anything in the ideals of the New Thought that puts our ordinary lives to shame, it is because we have failed to enter seriously into our proper heritage of Christian faith.

It may seem invidious to pass a criticism upon a type of thought so optimistic and bracing as that reflected in this and similar books, but it seems to the Observer that in shutting his eyes to the whole vast field of suffering and moral struggle it loses sight of what gives to life its greatest depth and richness. Much as there is in "The Law of the New Thought" that is true and helpful, there is nevertheless in it a strong flavor of something left out. From the point of view of the religion of "healthy-mindedness" such experiences as those of St. Paul and St. Augustine, and even of our Lord Himself in His Temptation, were needless and abnormal; but none the less it is just such experiences that impart a rich content and flavor to the highest truth of Christian life. It is an old, old truth that if we would reign, we must also suffer; and it is just for the lack of the perception of this truth that the New Thought is defective.

"The Law of the New Thought" shows that the author has a broad and accurate grasp of the latest results of psychological science. Particularly helpful is his statement of three grades or levels which enter into personality, viz: the conscious, the sub-conscious and the super-conscious.

Ticket Agents Confer.

Mr. Thos. Gallagher, the Penny ticket and freight agent at Emporium, entertained the following brother ticket agents on Tuesday: S. A. Brehm, Olean; J. M. Mallison, Cuba; Geo. Weber, Port Allegeny. After partaking of a good dinner at the New Warner, Mr. Gallagher showed them the points of interest and explained, no doubt, why Emporium was the largest freight paying station on Pinsky system between Harrisburg and Erie. Of course they viewed Emporium's beautiful (?) passenger depot, erected more than forty years ago.

Death of Augustus F. Nelson.

Mr. Augustus F. Nelson, of Huntley, an old friend of the PRESS, died at his residence, Friday evening, April 7th. His death was caused by catarrh of the bladder. Mr. Nelson was 54 years of age and is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter. The funeral was held from the house, Sunday, April 9th. Religious services were conducted by the Rev. Ebersole Undertaker Geo. J. LaBar of Emporium, had charge of the funeral. The remains were interred in Huntley Cemetery.

Huntley, Pa., April 11th, 1905.

Joins Forces with Uncle Sam.

Mr. E. G. Germon, his many friends will be sorry to learn, leaves Emporium next week to locate at Indian Head, Md., to enter the employ of Uncle Sam, as an expert chemist, a position he has acceptably filled with both the Keystone and Climax Powder Companies at this place. We all wish him well and take pleasure in endorsing him as a gentleman in all that word implies.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

HEILMAN.

MRS. LAURA E. HEILMAN, aged 53 years, wife of Dr. R. P. Heilman, died last Monday evening, after an illness of two years, the past year of a very serious nature, ending her long suffering. While her death was not unexpected yet the sad news cast a gloom over a large circle of friends. Mrs. Heilman has resided in Emporium for upwards of thirty years and in connection with her church work took a lively interest in G. A. R. work and labored zealously to relieve the widows of deceased soldiers and their families. Always ready to assist in all charitable or public functions; she always took a front rank. Mrs. Heilman will be greatly missed, not only by her husband and family, for whom she unselfishly labored and planned, but by many dear friends, who remember with gratitude her goodness of heart.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral services, which is being held this afternoon, at the family residence, West Fourth street, is very largely attended, is being conducted by her Pastor, the Rev. Oliver S. Metzler, Pastor of First Methodist Church. The remarks of the eloquent divine, which we publish in part, will be fully endorsed by the friends of the deceased:

I believe I voice a feeling common to this large company when I say that it is with spirits depressed with a deep sense of bereavement that we are assembled to day. A little more than five years ago, during the pastorate of Dr. W. P. Shriner, Mrs. Laura E. Heilman united with the First Methodist Episcopal Church in this place and to say that the intervening years have been years of development—development along many lines of usefulness under the fostering forces of Divine Grace and of devotion to the varied interests of her church, is to affirm what finds support in the observation and experience of those who knew her best. She loved her church and was active, as she could command the strength and opportunity in advancing its welfare. Perhaps no one of our bands of faithful women wrought more diligently or had more substantial success to crown their efforts.

The sickness which resulted in her death began more than a year ago and though every remedy known to the medical profession was resorted to, to stay its progress, they were absolutely without avail—affording only the most transient relief. Last Autumn upon her return from Buffalo, whither she had gone with her husband for consultation with an eminent specialist, that she might ascertain the true nature of the malady that afflicted her and with a full realization of its gravity, she told me that death had no terrors and that while her love of life was still strong and her interest in her family and church unabated, she was not unready for the summons should it come.

Of like character were the testimonies repeatedly born to the sustaining Grace of God in the severe and almost incessant suffering of the past year. With patience and fortitude she endured, often forgetful of her bodily distress in loving concern for her family and the church she delighted to serve. Her unselfishness was frequently manifested in her kindly inquiries after others in the neighborhood known to be sick and in the provisions her generous heart prompted her to propose for the relief of their sufferings and for their larger comfort.

She was a sensible, sympathetic, patient and diligent woman. To her husband a true helpmate and to the children a loving and faithful care, wise oversight and a loving nurture. Her love found expression in fidelity even to sacrifice and in labors long continued.

Late last Monday afternoon I was hastily summoned to her home, I found on arriving that my worst fears were unfortunately confirmed. The weak and rapidly waning pulse, the death damp, the death rattle for-takened the end, we all felt the end was near though none betrayed, except by anxious looks and suppressed or stifled feelings his fears to the other. She requested that the hymn, "Lord Jesus I Long to be Perfectly Whole" be played and sung and that her pastor offer prayer.

Lord Jesus I long to be perfectly whole,
I want thee forever to live in my soul,
Break down every idol, cast out every foe,
Now wash me and I shall be whiter than snow.

This was done though it was with an effort that was lacerating to our hearts that our wishes were complied with. Rising from our knees, she said, "Now I feel better" and the look of serenity and peace that overspread her countenance was a silent confirmation of the spoken testimony. A half hour later she was helped to bed. The exertion proved too much and almost without a struggle she passed away. But shall we not add that her going away was a getting home. Her departure an entrance, her death a birth, her leaving loved ones here, being gathered to the General Assembly and Church of the First Born in Heaven.

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS IN ATTENDANCE AT THE FUNERAL.

Mrs. Betty Williams (mother), Mrs. Clara Newton, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Newton, (sisters), Mrs. Loyal Grant, (sister), Erie, Pa.; Mr. Norman Heilman, (brother), Mrs. E. M. ## Organ Recital.

Dr. Minor C. Baldwin, of New York City, the gifted organist will give an organ recital in St. Mark's Catholic Church, Emporium, on Friday evening, (to-morrow.) The price of admission will be 50c. This will be the first public recital since the new organ has been placed in the church and it is hoped a large audience will greet Dr. Baldwin.

This gentleman gave a Recital in Mulberry Street M. E. Church, Williamsport, last Tuesday evening to a large audience. The Williamsport Bulletin in speaking of the entertainment says:

"That Dr. Minor C. Baldwin is a genius of the first water and an artist of exceptional gift and culture cannot be gainsaid, for he held the vast and intricate spellbound throughout a long and intricate program on classical selections at the organ recital at the Mulberry Street M. E. church Monday evening. Encores were the order of the evening, and Dr. Baldwin was repeatedly recalled and responded generously."

This was Dr. Baldwin's second public appearance in this city, and the program was up to the standard of that of his previous visit, abounding in the classic music sufficiently to satisfy the most critical.

The recital opened with the Fluret Sonata. While comparatively new and seldom found on organ programs in the intirety, it created a profound impression. The composition opens with a strong harmonic theme with the usual sonata form development, introducing a choral of strong Gregorian character. Slight variations of choral follow, again re-entry of original theme, and closing the movement with the choral with full organ."

Italian Brawl at Cross Fork.

The outcome of a personal disagreement last Sunday between the wives of Goino Debacco and Mike Leone, of Cross Fork, Potter County, resulted in a free for all fight in which not only a number of Italians, but several Americans were mixed up. Mrs. Debacco, it said, charged Mrs. Leone with being the cause of Mr. Debacco's brother Joseph leaving their home and going to the Leone home to live. After quarreling with Mrs. Leone, Mrs. Debacco then went to her husband with her tale of woe, thus causing Mr. Debacco to become excited and thirst for vengeance. Other "Ikes" were informed of the trouble and all proceeded to Leone's store. Martin Brown and Joe Jones, two Americans, were in the store at the time, and barely escaped. The beginning of the fight was a pistol pointed at an Italian in conversation with Brown. This started things going. The parties of war being crazed by drink took no pains to use aim when firing and shots were fired in all directions. The fight was brought to an end by officers arriving on the scene but not until several had been wounded. Ricardo Debacco was shot in the stomach and died in the Austin hospital Wednesday night, where he had been taken.

Frank Gasba one of the principle figures in the fight, is still at large and it is rumored that $500 reward will be given by the Commissioners for his capture.
